Chairman Pledges Probe 'To Bottom' Of Shearer Case

MAY CALL NAVAL CHIEFS TO STAND

William B. Shearer, Self-Styled "Naval Expert," Certain to Testify Early in Hearing.

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—senate committee began a preliminary private inquiry today into the charges of interference at the 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference by American shipbuilders preparatory to beginning public hearings next week.

Senator Shortridge, republican, California, was named chairman of a subcommittee of the naval committee which is to conduct the investigation ordered yesterday by unanimous vote of the senate. Other members of the subcommittee appointed by Chairman Hale included Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and Senator Allen, republican, Kansas.

They will examine the prospective list of witnesses and issue subpoenas for those to be called for examination in public next week. Chairman Shortridge said it was certain that William B. Shearer, who calls himself naval expert and who filed suit against three shipbuilding corporations for services he alleges he rendered in their behalf at the Geneva fiasco, will be an early witness.

Wants Ship Heads.

Both Shortridge and Robinson want to have summoned the officers of the three shipbuilding concerns named by Shearer, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation, and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation.

The committee members made it clear that if there is any necessity the high command of the navy will be summoned.

In public interviews Shearer has said he received some secret data from the navy prior to attending the Geneva parley.

"We are going to get the truth of this matter," said Shortridge. "We are going to the bottom."

The committee already has sent for and received a certified copy of the court complaint filed by Shearer against the shipbuilding corporations in which he alleges they still owe him more than $300,000 for his services at Geneva.

Started By Suit.

It was Shearer's suit which led Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, to demand the senate investigation and which later stirred President Hoover to call upon the department of justice for an investigation which is now being conducted.

"If Shearer's statements are true," said Senator Allen, in a statement tonight, "then the inference is fairly inescapable that he was employed to thwart the policy of his own government at an official conference at Geneva and that this thwarting could have had but one purpose—the defeat of any program for the limitation of naval armaments.

"If American shipbuilding companies or anybody else have been guilty of seeking to defeat the purposes of their government at an international conference called to limit naval armaments, through the employment of Mr. Shearer or any other agencies, then it becomes a question for the severest scrutiny of the congress.

DUCE SHAKES UP CABINET; RESIGNS SEVEN OFFICES

Three of Famous Quartet in March on Rome by Facists in 1922 Now Full Ministers.

Rome, September 12.—(AP)—The duce today shook up his government in the most vigorous fascist ministerial reorganization since July, 1928 relieving himself of most of the posts which he then assumed. Instead of eight cabinet offices, Signor Mussolini will now hold only one, the portfolio of the all-important ministry of the interior. But he continues, of course, to be premier.

The revamped cabinet is noteworthy for the fact that three of the famous quadrumvirate who led the historic march on Rome October 29, 1922, have now achieved full ministerial rank. General Italo Balbo becomes minister of aviation in the new government; Michele Bianchi, minister of public works, and General Debono, minister for the colonies.

The duce divested himself of these three portfolios among the seven he relinquished today.

Seizes Control.

After the 1928 reorganization he held six portfolios, those of foreign affairs, the interior, war, aviation corporations and marine, which gave him eight out of thirteen votes in the cabinet council.

Today's reorganization, announced in a royal decree, was based on Mussolini's principle of rotating through the various ministerial posts the best men in the fascist party, in order to build up a governing elite.

The only conclusion drawn in Rome from inspection of the new ministry was that the same forces predominant in fascism at the outset are still in power. The fourth leader of the march on Rome, who is not in the cabinet, is Count Devecchi di Val Cismon, the first ambassador from Italy to the holy see.

Changes Names.

The royal decree, in announcing the shift, changed the nomenclature of two posts. The ministry of public instruction is to be known as the ministry of public education, and the ministry of national economy as the ministry of agriculture and forests.

Signor Bartelli, who held the national economy portfolio, and Signor Beluzzo, of the public instruction portfolio, are both disappearing from the cabinet, but the Rome newspapers today unanimously paid tribute to them and predicted they would surely be used by the regime in some other capacity.

In addition to giving up his full ministerial portfolios, Mussolini also turned over the undersecretaryship of the interior, which he had held, to Deputy Leandro Artinati.

New Cabinet.

Dino Grandi, minister of foreign affairs; formerly undersecretary for foreign affairs.

The same royal decree announced the ministry of public instruction henceforth will be known as the ministry of national education, and that the ministry of national economy will be known as the ministry of agriculture and forests.

BROCK COMMITTEE POSITIONS OKAYED BY SENATE BODY

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—Tennessee's new senator, William E. Brock, who succeeded Senator Tyson, today was assigned to senate committee on commerce, banking and currency claims, and military affairs.

This is the series you've been looking for. Danforth, the originator of this personal observation tour of southern football, is imitated but his stories still have the punch that make him the south's football authority.

Danforth waited until the teams were shaped up before beginning his tour. He never writes superficially but as a thorough student. He has the confidence of coaches.

Mrs. Floyd W. McRae, Jr., Uses Airplane To Reach Home Of Mother in Wisconsin To Attend Her Birthday Dinner

INTERSTATE

ATLANTA

Atlanta Woman Goes by Air to Chicago, Then to Home at Red Cedar Lake.

A mail plane Thursday carried one of Atlanta's most attractive and prominent young society matrons to her mother's birthday dinner at Red Cedar Lake, Wis., not far from Chicago, probably the fastest transportation between this city and the metropolis of the middle west ever used to fill a social engagement.

Mrs. Floyd W. McRae, Jr., stepped from an automobile about 9 o'clock Thursday morning on Candler field and less than 30 minutes later was high above the city in the front cockpit of an Interstate Airlines Stearman mail plane, with Pilot John Pricer at the controls.

At Evansville, Ind., at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the Stearman open ship was changed for a big Fairchild cabin plane and the flight continued to the municipal airport at Chicago, where Mrs. McRae landed at 6:30 o'clock at night, in time for any social engagements she might have.

On the trip north Mrs. McRae stopped at Chattanooga, Nashville, Evansville and Terre Haute before Chicago was reached.

The trip was not taken on the spur of the moment, as reservations were made for the flight last Saturday and although when the mail plane cleared the Atlanta port Thursday morning, local weather conditions provided a gray day with low ceiling and not much visibility, the weather bureau at the airport reported the conditions only local in extent and the ship rose from the runway on scheduled time and soon disappeared in the northwest.

$2,500,000 BOND ISSUE APPROVED

The hospitals and charities committee of city council Thursday night gave its approval to the proposed $2,500,000 bond issue which would provide $1,500,000 for Grady hospital, $500,000 for the Battle Hill sanitarium and a similar amount for modernization of the police station.

The committee not only approved the proposal and announced that it would champion it on the floor of council, but also made plans for naming a citizens' commission to foster the move. According to Alderman G. Everett Millican, one of the sponsors of the issue and chairman of the committee, this step was taken because of the crying need for immediate action in improving the city's hospital facilities.

A resolution praising the project and urging its submission to the people will be drawn up for presentation at the next meeting of city council. At 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, immediately preceding the council meeting the committee will assemble again, probably in conference with Mayor I. N. Ragsdale for the purpose of determining the personnel of the citizens' body. The committee Thursday indicated its desire to have the group made up of seven members, five men and two women. It was agreed that the publishers of the three Atlanta newspapers, Clark Howell, Sr., John Cohen and Russell Whitman, should be named and in addition two other men of prominence and two women who have played active parts in the city's civic life.

The committee meeting at the hospital was attended by several prominent Atlanta doctors who are members of the Grady and Battle Hill staffs. The deplorable conditions at both institutions were pictured by these doctors who offered figures to back their statements.

The head of the obstetrics staff said that each month about 100 babies are born at Grady. Because facilities are wholly inadequate it is necessary to send the mothers home about four or five days after the birth of the children, whereas they should be kept for at least two weeks, he said.

Other doctors pointed out that there now are 460 persons on the waiting list for tonsil operations and under the present conditions these can be cared for at the rate of only about

MERCHANTS HEAR TALK ON PROFITS

Greatest Successes for Courageous Advertisers, C. W. Mears, Merchandising Expert Declares.

Several hundred Atlanta merchants and advertising men were guests at a banquet Thursday night in the Pompeian room of the Biltmore hotel in honor of Charles W. Mears, noted expert on merchandising and advertising, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Mears is dean of the Cleveland School of Advertising and Sales, and is director of the Pittsburgh and Baltimore advertising institutes. He has made exhaustive studies of advertising and merchandising problems and his opinions on these lines are highly respected throughout the country.

Major Clark Howell, Jr., business manager of the Atlanta Constitution, presided at the banquet, and Mr. Mears was introduced by Herbert Porter, advertising director of The Constitution.

In addition to the principal address, a brief talk was made by Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution, and a general forum was held, the questions asked indicating great interest in the principles outlined by Mr. Mears.

"Why Not Profit?"

Mr. Mears took as his subject, "Why Not Profit Now?" There were only two reasons that he could see to account for any merchant's goods failing to move. They were: Either the goods are not acceptable to his customers, or they are not accessible on his terms or at his price.

The success of any business, in Mr. Mears' opinion, depends largely on advertising. He pointed out that demand for goods comes from desire and nothing else, quoting Voltaire, "No one can desire what he doesn't know or know about."

"And if I mistake not," Mr. Mears said, "people nowadays know and desire because advertising tells them. Consequently, I most firmly believe, and I commend to you that so far as advertising is concerned, it will pay you to spend with more faith rather than to withhold in fear. It will increase your profit, and if that is true, then why not do it now?"

Courageous Advertising.

Mr. Mears spoke further on advertising, quoting the words of Edward A. Filene, not now active in the business that bears his name, but recognized as one of the smartest men in the world of merchandising. This is his advice:

First—Advertise largely and courageously the things people want and will be helped by owning. Interpreting this, Mr. Mears explained that Filene referred to acceptability.

Second—Tell the exact truth in your advertisements, being sure to understate the qualities of your products.

Third—Do not lie. If a man must lie, let him do so without advertising his iniquity.

Fourth—If you do not sell great quantities by this method, then improve the value of what you are advertising until it is more surely the best value in the market. This was more acceptability, Mr. Mears pointed out.

Fifth—If you do not then sell greater quantities in this way, then advertise still more courageously.

"And he adds," Mr. Mears said referring to Filene, "the greatest business successes of the next ten years will be the business men who are at the same time the most courageous big advertisers."

Rental Increases.

Mr. Mears called attention to the fact that in the last five years rental increases in department stores and specialty shops have been 18 to 19 times as great as their increases in advertising expenditure.

"In other words," Mr. Mears said, "your landlord has been skimming off the cream, whereas advertising has been plugging along under the increased load at practically no increase per dollar of retail sale."

That fact alone should cause every live merchant to stop and think, Mr. Mears warned. "If advertising holds its own under heavy rental increases," he asked, "how much more effectively will it work for you if you advertise still more vigorously along the line of Mr. Filene's suggestion?"

Explaining why a retailer doesn't make more profit or how a retailer can make more profit, Mr. Mears said:

"In general the retailer doesn't make profit enough either because (1) he doesn't get volume and turnover, or (2) because he is working on too narrow a gross margin. In other words he doesn't sell enough or it

Blonde Beauty Consents To Wed "Bull" Montana

SCREEN'S UGLIEST FALLS BEFORE CUPID

BY DUANE HENNESSY,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Los Angeles, September 12.—With a sheepish grin on his face and a lovely blonde on his arm, that big brute "Bull" Montana walked into the marriage license bureau here today and announced that he had lost a bout with cupid.

Mr. Montana, who cheerily admits that he looks more like a gorilla than most gorillas do, introduced his attractive companion as Mary M. Poulson Mathews.

Miss Mathews came forward with the announcement that she was 23 years old, a widow, a secretary and a cashier.

Mr. Montana grinned from the completely cauliflowered ear on the left to the just as completely cauliflowered ear on the right.

"Dis love, ver' bad, throw me pretty hard," the movie "he man" said. "Carramba! How I love dis woman."

He put an affectionate half nelson hold about the "little woman's" neck and she grinned as if she liked it.

Mr. Montana is a wrestler. He shyly admitted to the license clerk that he was a "movie star" and that he did wrestling on the side.

"I been thrown plenty by them fellas in the ring, but never like this. Oh, how I love dis woman," which called for several more half nelsons.

The ugly bridegroom admitted that his name wasn't "Bull" at all, in a rather cramped and difficult manner he inscribed "Luigi Montagna" on the application. His age he gave as 41.

The "bool" refused to say when the marriage will take place. However, under the California law the license cannot be issued until three days after notice of intent is filed, which in this case is Monday.

"Dis is not a scheduled performance," the wrestling actor said with dignity. "It is a secret."

An unkind newspaper reporter asked Montana if the prospective bride was the housekeeper who banged him on the head with a shoe in his home about a year ago.

"Gentlemen," the gorilla-man announced with dignity, "Miss Matthews is not that housekeeper."

He smiled wanly as he remembered how the woman in question had knocked him out with a well delivered blow on the head with the boot, sending him rushing to a police station for protection.

'Tin Bubble,' New Dirigible, Inspected for Navy's Use

ALL-METAL SHIP SHOT AT OVER MOUNTAINS

Lakehurst, N. J., September 12.—(AP)—A metallic stranger wounded in line of duty was tucked under the cover of the naval air hangar here today—another bedfellow for the majestic Los Angeles and the two baby blimps of the United States navy's lighter-than-air craft.

It was the ZMC-2, the world's first successful all-metal dirigible, which arrived from Detroit and is due to have a permanent bed in the hangar after another test flight when it may be formally accepted by the navy for use in training student fliers.

The "tin bubble's" 550-mile flight from Detroit in charge of Captain William Kepner, of the United States army, was so uneventful that its crew of three was unaware of two bullet holes in the ship's huge metal gas chamber that were allowing the precious helium to escape.

Members of the ground crew that brought the ship to earth discovered the bullet holes as they were walking the craft into the hangar. From the angle at which the bullet entered the metal bag and passed out through the otherside, Captain Kepner expressed the belief that the shot had been fired while the ZMC-2 was passing low over a mountain, probably somewhere in Pennsylvania.

Rags were stuffed into the holes to prevent further gas leakage, pending permanent repairs.

Nearly the same length as the navy blimps, the all-metal ship is unique in its girth, much larger around, its sheath of thin aluminum alloy makes a single huge compartment that the helium lifting gas is pumped directly into, differing from the many gas cells of the fabric dirigibles.

It was an easy task once she was grounded to walk the ship into the hangar and it was stored on the side that was the berth of the ill-fated Shenandoah, lost in a storm in 1925.

Navy officers at once inspected the new all-metal sky prowler, silently appraising the equipment in its enclosed cabin. They were non-committal as to what they think about the future for this tinsmith's fantasy—the first of its kind to ever fly successfully although several such ships have been built, both in Europe and the United States.

Body of Noted Artist Found In East River

Edmond Quinn, Successful Sculptor, Believed Suicide at New York.

New York, September 12.—(United News.)—A body believed to be that of Edmond T. Quinn, widely-known sculptor who has been missing since Monday, was fished from the East river today. Quinn tried to commit suicide four months ago by swallowing poison.

The body was said to have been identified by his wife's attorney at the morgue tonight. The noted sculptor had been suffering from melancholia for some time, relatives explained.

Quinn was born in Philadelphia 60 years ago. He studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and in Paris.

He was looked upon generally as one of the finest of contemporary American sculptors. Some of his important works include the statue of John Howard at Williamsport, Pa., figures on the battle monument at King's Mountain, S. C., and the statue of Zoroaster in the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

Judge Advises Damage Suits In Drug Cases

Juanita Hilton, alias Juanita Carr, entering a plea of guilty in federal court here Thursday on a charge of violating the narcotic law, testified that she had once been cured of the dope habit but had found it so easy to obtain drugs in Atlanta that she had resumed their use.

Judge Samuel H. Sibley, in passing a sentence of 18 months on the defendant, stated that while it was always difficult to determine the exact truth of such circumstances, that he considered it malpractice on the part of druggists or physicians to prescribe morphine for a known addict who had been freed from the affliction.

"While I cannot lay down a principle of law on this case, I think that such action justifies damage suit proceedings," Judge Sibley declared.

First Tariff Guns Roar as Simmons And Smoot Clash

SOLON FROM UTAH ANSWERS CRITICS

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—Two participants of legislative clashes of a quarter of a century ago, one now 75 and the other 67, resumed their familiar stands in the senate today in conflict over the tariff.

The elder, Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, of North Carolina, belabored the "indefensible bill." His 12,000-word speech was made as senior democrat on the finance committee, republicans of which revised the house measure.

After listening two hours, Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, answered as chairman of that committee. He said the attack of Simmons and all others recently on the bill had been heard before.

Simmons for the first time in his public career read his speech, going through it with the aid of a clerk. He asked the senate to excuse this because of his physical condition.

Answers Objections.

Smoot took cognizance of many objections to the bill made by the North Carolina veteran, who was chairman of the finance committee in the Wilson administration. He contended Simmons was fallacious in claiming the proposed tariffs would add billions of dollars to the consumers' costs.

Before the senate meeting ended, the tariff debate was well on its way. Senator George, of Georgia, took up the democratic case against the bill and argued for its modification.

Carrying on the theory advanced by Simmons that the tariff on farm commodities generally were not effective, Senator George said that while the framers of the measure did not intentionally discriminate against certain sections of the country their work amounted to that just the same.

Nearly every product of the south, he said, had either been passed up in the upward revision process or given a lower rate.

George Speaks.

George asked if the bill did not widen the existing disparity in protection between agriculture and other industries as claimed by the American farm bureau federation, and Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, said the latter's calculations did not take into account farm commodities classified in other than the agricultural schedule.

If the latter were considered, Reed added, the percentage increase of farm products would show more than double that on mine and manufactured goods.

The Georgia senator inquired of Chairman Smoot whether he favored the still higher farm duties proposed by the farm organizations and the

M'DONALD VISIT MARKS PROGRESS OF NAVAL PARLEY

Report of Near Accord Rises Following Announcement of Intention to Visit U. S.

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—Definite progress toward an early Anglo-American agreement on naval limitations was seen in Washington tonight as a result of Premier MacDonald's decision to visit the United States early next month.

Word from London of the premier's intentions gave rise to reports that the two nations were on the verge of an accord. The only official information, however, was a statement by Secretary Stimson that the last note sent by Washington to Ambassador Dawes was of such a character that it could have caused MacDonald to be confident that there would be an agreement.

The secretary of state said the announcement of MacDonald's coming meant "we are at least hopeful of an agreement."

"The note last night," he continued, "was not of such a nature that you could say that it brought an agreement, but it was working toward an agreement and could have caused Premier MacDonald to be confident that there would be an agreement."

President Hoover said nothing concerning the development.

The secretary's statement was made informally as he left the department with Undersecretary Cotton, who has participated in the frequent White House conferences on the naval limitation negotiations.

"It means we are near enough to an agreement to have him come," was the undersecretary's interpretation of the MacDonald announcement.

Has Two Conferences.

During the day Secretary Stimson had two conferences with Mr. Hoover, calling at the White House immediately after the president reached his desk in the morning, and consulting the chief executive again after formal word had been given that the British prime minister would sail for the United States on the Berengaria September 28.

Mr. MacDonald is expected to reach Washington on either October 3 or 4. While arrangements for his reception are incomplete, the expectation is that Secretary Stimson, as the personal representative of President Hoover, will meet the premier at New York and accompany him to Washington.

The chief executive is expected to welcome the British statesman at the Union station and to accompany him either to the White House or the British embassy, the place depending upon the pleasure of Mr. MacDonald. There has been a suggestion that the premier would be the guest of the British ambassodr, Sir Esme Howard, during part of his week's stay

CREW OF 28 LOST ON LAKE MICHIGAN

Lake Steamer, Loaded With Gravel and 56 Hours Overdue, Believed Victim of Storm.

Chicago, September 12.—(AP)—More than 56 hours overdue at 5 o'clock tonight, the lake steamer Andaste, which put out Monday at Grand Haven, Mich., was believed lost in Lake Michigan.

Airplanes, combing the lake throughout the day, failed to find a trace of the steamer. The search was being continued by boat tonight in the hope that Captain A. I. Anderson and his crew of 28 men may be picked up alive.

A. E. M. Schneider, vice president of the Andaste Steamship Company at Cleveland, owners of the vessel, said late today he felt the ship was lost. The vessel had been leased to a Chicago construction materials company for the past two years. It was hauling gravel from Grand Haven and was heavily loaded. Another ship leaving Grand Haven at the same time arrived in port safely and reported it rode out a bad storm Tuesday with much difficulty. It is believed the Andaste, encountering the same storm, sank in the lower end of Lake Michigan.

The Andaste is a sister ship of the Clifton, which sank several years ago in Lake Huron. She had a capacity of 2,200 tons. The steamer is not equipped with wireless.

CLERK SENTENCED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT OF FLORIDA FUNDS

Key West, Fla., September 12.—(AP) Dave Z. Filer, former Monroe county clerk, was sentenced today to serve ten years at hard labor at state prison, following his conviction in the criminal court here yesterday for embezzling approximately $19,000 of public funds.

Defense counsel served notice of appeal to the supreme court after a motion for a new trial had been denied.

HAVANA SUICIDE WAVE CLAIMS 21 DURING ONE WEEK

Havana, September 12.—(AP)—Havana has had an unusual number of suicides during the past week. Twenty-seven deaths, self-inflicted, were reported to police, while 12 other attempts were foiled.

Women suicides outnumbered men three to one. The favorite method was by poison. In most of the cases unrequited love appeared to be the motive.

GEORGIA COMPTROLLER GENERAL NEAR DEATH

General William A. Wright, Ill at Home, Not Expected to Recover.

General William A. Wright, for half a century comptroller-general of Georgia, is lying at the point of death at his home in Atlanta and his physicians state that there is little hope for his recovery, it was learned at the capitol Thursday. Ever since the conclusion of the recent session of the legislature General Wright has been suffering with illness, due largely to the strain of his official duties during the session. He is almost 85 years old and September 17 will mark the fiftieth anniversary of his service as state comptroller.

During the War Between the States General Wright served with distinction in several campaigns. He was severely wounded at the second battle of Manassas, his wound causing the amputation of one of his legs. After his wounds healed he rejoined his brigade and served in several campaigns despite the loss of his limb. He was later captured and served 11 months as a prisoner of war.

General Wright operated a farm for 12 years after the war and then moved to Atlanta from Louisville, Ga., and entered the office of the state comptroller as land clerk? In 1879 he was appointed comptroller-general by Governor A. H. Colquitt on the unanimous recommendation of the members of the state legislature. He has served in the office ever since and has had opposition for reelection on only two occasions.

BOYS' HIGH CLASS OF '24 IN ANNUAL REUNION TONIGHT

Announcement is made by Robert E. Shivers, Jr., chairman of the committee on arrangements, that the Boys' High school class of 1924, which has met annually since its graduation, will hold its usual reunion banquet tonight at 7 o'clock. It will be at the Winecoff hotel.

Professor H. O. Smith, principal of Boys' High school, will be the chief speaker. He will address the class on the general condition of the school and its progress of recent years. E. L. Floyd, assistant principal, and other members of the faculty will be present as honor guests. In the absence of Clement Ford, president of the class, who has found it impossible to return from New York in time for the banquet, Mr. Shivers will serve as toastmaster.

Members of the class who are no longer living in Atlanta have been notified, and many of them are expected to come in for the occasion.

"UNDULENT FEVER" FOUND IN STATE BY HEALTH BOARD

The state board of health Thursday announced that a disease known as "undulent fever" is prevalent in certain parts of Georgia as well as in five other southern states. The symptoms are not alarming or distressing, but it is a fever that comes and goes without any particular pain, according to the board.

The disease is contracted by consuming milk from infected cows. The board recommends that milk be boiled three to five minutes, cooled, and kept below 50 degrees Fahrenheit before it is consumed.

FOURTEEN ARRESTED AS GASTONIA MOBBERS

Wholesale Indictments Follow Kidnaping and Beating of Three Men.

Gastonia, N. C., September 12.—(AP) Solicitor John G. Carpenter announced tonight that the 14 men named in the bench warrant issued today by Judge Thomas J. Shaw at Charlotte in connection with his investigation of the activities of an "anti-communist" mob in this section Monday night had been placed under arrest and bond set at $1,000 each.

The 14, he said, are to be brought before Judge Shaw for a hearing tomorrow morning at Charlotte, at which time the jurist will sit as a committing magistrate. The warrants were issued after Judge Shaw had questioned C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylor, two of the three men kidnaped by the mob. The third, Ben Wells, was unable to appear in the judge's private office today because of a flogging given him by a section of the crowd.

Among the 14 arrested in the warrant were A. G. Morehead, W. M. Pickering and C. Jolly, Loray mill superintendents; A. J. Roach and C. A. Ferguson, Gastonia police officers and witnesses for the state in the trial of the 16 labor leaders and strikers charged with the murder of Police Chief C. F. Aderholt; T. A. Gilbert, Jr., Dewey Carver, Tom Carver, Smiley Lewis, John Hollaway, Horace Lane, Oscar Goodman, Lee Johnson and Carl Hollaway.

$2,000,000 IS SOUGHT IN PALESTINE DRIVE

A million dollars is needed immediately to feed the hungry thousands in Palestine, victims of recent Arab outrages, and an additional million dollars is needed to clothe them, to repair hospitals, and to care for the sick and wounded, according to David Brown, national chairman of the Palestine emergency relief fund, in a message Thursday to Rabbi Harry Epstein, chairman of the Georgia drive for funds.

Mr. Brown, who is making a nation-wide appeal for funds, stated in his message that conditions among the victims in Palestine are deplorable and that a dire necessity exists for funds to care for them.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman recently made an earnest appeal to churches throughout the country to raise funds for this humanitarian cause.

Rabbi Epstein, whose brother was killed by Arabs in Palestine recently, returned Thursday from Cincinnati, where he was the principal speaker at a drive launched there Tuesday night. Rabbi Epstein Thursday night renewed his appeal for funds and asked the people of Georgia to contribute to this relief fund, requesting that contributions be sent either to him or to J. Saul, treasurer, 174 Pryor street.

Dancing Girls Entertain City Legionnaires Today

MARJORIE BENNETT.

The first fall luncheon meeting of the Atlanta post of the American Legion, to be held at noon today at the Henry Grady hotel, will be featured by appearance of the Margaret Mooring dancing girls.

These dancers will be one of the headline attractions at the big vaudeville show being given under legion auspices on the night of September 19. Miss Mooring will appear in specialty and group dances with five of the pupils of her school. Those who will assist in the act are Marjorie Bennett, Wanetta Paschall, Beulah Lewis, Lila Clark and Sim Hassler and Ramon Meier, an instructor at Miss Mooring's schools.

Officials in charge of the performance, which is being given to raise funds for the purpose of sending the legion drum corps to the national convention at Louisville, Ky., Thursday announced also that "Balancing" Stevens has been added to the list of 20 acts for the show. Stevens was on the "big time" vaudeville stage for many years and is noted for daring balancing stunts.

In addition to Johnny Lee and his orchestra the show will boast the presence of the American Legion Rhythm Kings, an orchestra which is well known to the radio public and will make its first stage appearance of the year at the legion show.

Professor Shows Diamond Created In His Laboratory

Minneapolis, Minn., September 12. (AP)—Prediction that "large and beautiful" real diamonds can be made by man was made to the American Chemical Society today by Prof. J. Willard Hershey, of McPherson college, McPherson, Kan.

He laid on a glass slide a tiny crystal, the size of a grain of sand. He said it was a real diamond, produced in his laboratory at McPherson. It was made from ordinary pure table sugar, subjected to pressure estimated at 10 tons to the square inch. He said further that it was the largest man-made diamond in the world, four times the size of the biggest one produced in the '90's by the French chemist, Moissan, whose method of manufacture he copies. He cited tests to show the audience of chemists the diamond's reality.

Chemists have been "doubting Thomases" about making real diamonds. None of those who questioned Professor Hershey spoke of doubt as to whether he is making real gems. Their attitude, disclosed in conversation afterward, was that the Moissan method is unpromising for making large diamonds.

Despite their doubts of commercial practicability, the ages-old lure of the word "diamond" apparently was strong in their imaginations, for they lined up to have a look through a microscope at the object on Professor Hershey's slide. It was a clear, transparent crystal, somewhat irregular, with evidence of reflecting light here and there from its uncut, unpolished surface.

GETS SEVEN YEARS AFTER CONVICTION OF THEFT OF $11

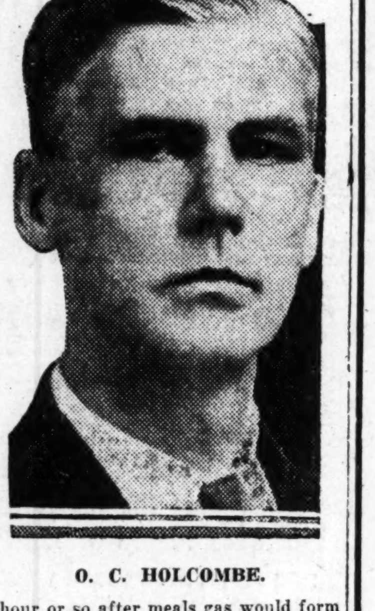
Paul Currier, alias "Snag," was sentenced to serve from seven to 12 years following conviction Thursday in Fulton superior court on a robbery charge. The state alleged that Currier robbed Glenn Banister of $11 on July 14. Judge John D. Humphries passed sentence on the defendant.

FEARED AT TIMES HIS HEART WOULD CEASE BEATING

Indigestion Attacks and Other Troubles of Long Standing Routed by Sargon, Says Holcombe.

"Sargon beats anything I ever saw in my life; it put me in better physical condition than I've been in for five years!

"For the past three years I've suffered with stomach disorders and indigestion in their worse form. An hour or so after meals gas would form and press up around my heart and cause it to beat so hard I thought it would stop altogether! These spells would sometimes strike me during the night and I'd get deathly sick and very weak! Often while I was at work blinding dizzy spells would come on me, and I'd have to hold to something to keep from falling. I was constipated and hardly a night passed that I didn't have to take a purgative for temporary relief.



O. C. HOLCOMBE.

"I read a lot about Sargon and the good it was doing others right here in Atlanta, so I decided to try it. I haven't had a spell with my stomach since, and I eat heartily of anything I want without the slightest trouble. I've gained six pounds and lots of strength and energy! I sleep good all night long and get up ready to attend my work with enthusiasm.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills ended my constipation in an easy way—without sickness or discomfort of any sort, and I don't have to dose myself with purgatives any more. I've already told many of my friends about Sargon and will be glad of an opportunity to tell anyone else what I think of this wonderful medicine."

The above statement was made by O. C. Holcombe, in charge of the shipping department of the Swift Furniture Co., 133 Whitehall St., S. W. Mr. Holcombe is a member of Masonic Lodge No. 12, Austell, Ga., and resides on R. F. D. No. 5, Box No. 376, Atlanta.

A special Sargon representative is explaining the merits of this new medicine to hundreds of people daily at Jacobs' main store, 14 Marietta St. Sargon may also be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

Sandwiches for School Lunches—
Make Them of Colonial Bread

Yes—

The Place Where It Is Made

The consideration of mothers may well be directed not only to bread in general but particularly to the bakeries where bread is made. Every mother should know something of the bakery from whence comes the bread her children eat. She should know that cleanliness prevails in that bakery, that its equipment, condition and environment are such as may impress one with the fact that those in charge know how, desire to and are equipped to turn out bread which is healthful, clean and pure.

Visit the
Bakery
211 Moreland Ave., N. E.

See for yourself under what conditions bread is made in this establishment. See for yourself that our bakery is clean and is built so that it may be kept clean. See the decidedly modern equipment here which insures purity and uniformity in Colonial Bread.

GOOD BREAD is a really important food inasmuch as it furnishes necessary elements of nutrition in an easily digestible form. And it is an economical food because it furnishes these elements at a low cost compared with other foods.

Well off is the youngster in school who has plenty of good bread. He or she is getting the very elements needed to make a young person thrive: to build muscle and bone, to create the strength and energy which help to make lessons easier.

Good bread is rich in carbo-hydrates, the makers of heat and energy, and made with plenty of milk as good bread should be, supplies calcium, one of the chief minerals for the development of the teeth and bones. Yeast and milk in bread are important sources of Vitamine B, so essential to all humans.

Bread may well be the foundation of a healthy diet when made from good materials: flour from choicest wheat—rich milk—high-grade shortening—pure sugar—yeast—salt—a combination containing the food elements the human body must have to make growth.

Those are the basic foods from which Colonial Bread is made and infinite care is taken in the purchase of each ingredient. Only the purest, the best, only such as is proven fit by laboratory test is bought and used in our bakery.

Chicago Precinct Captain Dying, Thrown From Auto With Four Bullets in Head

Gang Murder, With Politics Forming Sinister Background, Is Blamed by Investigating Police.

Chicago, September 12.—(AP)—Gang murder, with a background of politics, confronted police today in the death of Charles S. Brown, 28-year-old precinct captain for Alderman Dorsey Crowe, of the forty-second ward.

Brown, dying from four bullet wounds in the head, was pitched into the street from a curtained automobile as, with lights out, it purred through the "Foaming Fifties," South Side beer battleground, last night. His hands had been bound behind him with wire, and he had been robbed.

Police immediately sought to fit the crime in the jagsaw puzzle of the past month's slayings. They saw in Brown's death possible reprisal for the slaying September 1 of Henry Connors in a gun fight at the C. & O. cabaret on North Clark street.

Connors was a precinct captain for Richard E. Prendergast who unsuccessfully opposed Dorsey Crowe for forty-second ward alderman in the last election. The Crowe-Prendergast campaign was electric with action, being marked by sluggings, fist fights and shootings. Connors was active in promoting Prendergast's interest at that time, while Brown worked in the ranks of Alderman Crowe.

John Stege, deputy commissioner of police, agreed with members of the homicide squad that Brown's death quite probably was in retaliation for the slaying of Connors. He sent squads into the forty-second ward with orders to arrest any known enemies of the slain man.

Four persons were found who heard the shots fired that killed Brown. They also told of seeing him tossed from the car. Police believe Brown was forced to lie face down on the floor of the sedan and that he was shot in that position.

In Brown's pocket was found a letter signed by Alderman Crowe notifying Brown of a meeting of precinct captains and telling him to arrange his affairs "so that nothing will interfere with your attending."

PRESS RIGHTS URGED RESTORED IN SENATE

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—A resolution was introduced today by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, to restore to the representatives of the newspaper press associations the privilege of the senate floor.

These representatives for years have been permitted the use of the senate floor in the pursuance of their business. Because one of the associations printed a roll call purporting to show a vote taken in executive session last spring, however, the floor privilege was denied all the associations.

Under the resolution of Senator Watson the right to the senate floor for the representatives of the newspaper associations would be made a part of the senate rules, whereas in the past the courtesy has been extended as a matter of common consent and practice.

Ogden, of Cleveland, withdrew from the race. W. H. Gaylord, Jr., New York, was elected vice president. Frank N. Chapman and Fred Jolly, both of Chicago, were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

PROSPERITY INCREASE PREDICTED FOR CITY

Within the next 60 to 90 days Atlanta will enter a period of unprecedented prosperity, it was predicted by B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, in an address made Thursday night at the monthly meeting of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Basing his belief on the general prosperity of the country and the exceptionally good crop prospects, Mr. Barker cited figures indicating Atlanta's already pre-eminent position and predicted that its leadership would be materially increased within the next two or three months. An aid in this direction will be the establishment here of at least three large factories, he said.

That Atlantans may keep pace with their city and aid it in its growth Mr. Barker urged his listeners to "know Atlanta;" to learn the commanding place that it holds in southern trade and manufacturing, a place second to none in the south, and to spread this knowledge far and wide. He also urged that the city keep pace with its growth by certain civic improvements, including better airport facilities, a better auditorium for conventions, increased hospital facilities, abatement of the smoke nuisance and several other things in line with general progress.

The association previous to Mr. Barker's address adopted a resolution pledging its support to the movement against the smoke nuisance.

P. M. Millians, the president, presided and led in the discussion of matters pertinent to the affairs of the association. Included in this discussion were brief talks by John Wesley Weekes, DeKalb county legislator, who championed the recently passed "assumed name" law in the Georgia legislature, and Robert C. W. Ramspeck, democratic congressional nominee, who aided Mr. Weekes in the passage of the act. The law is one requiring firms operating under trade names to register these with the clerk of the superior court in the county in which they operate and is designed to protect credit.

The entertainment was furnished by Richard Von Calio, Salvation Army musician, who offered a number of pieces with "one man orchestra effects."

CURSED OFFICERS, WITNESSES STATE

Los Angeles, September 12.—(AP)—After presenting testimony that Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the theatrical magnate, was intoxicated and disorderly at the time her motor car crashed into another machine here on June 16, the state rested today in the trial of the wife of the theatrical magnate on a charge of second-degree murder growing out of the accident.

Mrs. Pantages cursed police officers and struggled with them when they put her into an ambulance following the wreck, it was testified.

The prosecution rested without calling Mrs. Teruko Rokumoto, widow of Juro Rokumoto, a Japanese, with whose murder the defendant is charged. The state alleged Rukumoto died of injuries received when Mrs. Pantage's car collided with Rukumoto's automobile.

Tennessee Finances Survey To Be Made By New Official

Nashville, Tenn., September 12.—(AP)—Charles M. McCabe, Tennessee's new commissioner of finance and taxation, issued a statement today saying he would make a survey immediately of the state's financial problems and "do my best to administer the affairs of the office honestly and officially."

He asked the co-operation of all the people of the state.

"I am aware that the position carries with it many responsibilities and following such a splendid administration of judge Albert Williams I realize that there will be many difficulties, but hope to carry on as well as he did."

Judge Williams was given a watch from the department on his retirement as commissioner to re-enter the practice of law. A. D. Curtis, purchasing agent, made the presentation in the presence of the entire department personnel.

LINDY TO BUY SPORT AIRPLANE FOR HIS WIFE

North Haven, Maine, September 12. (AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were at the home of Assassador Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's father, today after a flight from New York in a small sport plane which, it is rumored, the famous flier is planning to buy for his wife.

Mrs. Lindbergh has made several solo flights in the course of flying lessons her husband is giving her.

The plane was a small open cockpit monoplane, equipped with a 60-horsepower motor and dual controls. Colonel Lindbergh ordered it sent from the Aeromarine-Klemm factory at Keyport, N. J., to Roosevelt field before he went to Arizona to assist in the search for the then missing T. A. T. air liner, City of San Francisco. He and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived back from that trip Tuesday.

When the couple took off from Roosevelt field they said they intended to be away three or four days.

CHINESE ISSUE EXTRA-TERRITORY NOTE TO U.S.

The note, after a lengthy account of the traditional friendship between China and the United States, reiterates the request that the United States "immediately enter into discussions aimed at arranging for the abolition of extra-territoriality."

The note was dispatched to Washington by way of the legation at Peiping. It was in reply to Washington's note of August 10, which in turn was in answer to the nationalist government's note of April 27, seeking the abolition of extra-territoriality in China.

CITY HALL ELECTRIC WORK CAUSES ROW

Electrical inspection work on Atlanta's new $1,000,000 city hall precipitated a row Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the electrical lights committee of city council and resulted in the committee instructing Pat Hendricks, city electrician, to co-operate in every way possible in pushing the work to rapid completion.

Several days ago, it was revealed, Mr. Hendricks addressed a letter to the Electro Construction Company, sub-contractors on the structure, setting out that there was no record of a permit for installations having been issued in the office of the superintendent of electrical affairs. He also warned that until such a record had been completed, his office would be unable to make inspections and authorize turning current into the building.

Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, chairman of the special committee in charge of erection of the new municipal building, exhibited to the committee an affidavit signed by R. C. Turner, former superintendent of electrical affairs of the city, which set out that a permit had been issued for the work and that every step had been taken by the electrical company to comply with all city laws.

Mr. Hendricks countered with a statement to the committee that there is no record of such a permit on file in the department, and added that the company had never asked for an inspection while the work was in progress but had waited until it was ready to test elevators and circuits. This is contrary to the law, he declared, because it is impossible to make a thorough inspection after cable has been drawn through conduits and they have been closed.

Alderman W. Guy Doobs, of the seventh ward, declared that Mr. Hendricks should have taken action immediately on taking his office the first of the year if there was any irregularity.

Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth ward, chairman of the electric lights committee and also a member of the special city hall committee, ruled that a permit had been granted for the work, and the committee ordered the inspection to be made. The contractor is to fill out a regular permit form which will be of material assistance in making the inspection.

Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, of the eighth ward, asked a 170-pole white way out Peachtree street from the terminus of the present system to the city limits. This matter will go to city council Monday for its sanction.

THREE PLEAD GUILTY OF BANK ROBBERY

Lamar, Col., September 12.—(AP)—Pleading guilty to first degree murder, bank robbery and kidnaping, three members of the gang that held up the First National bank here in May, 1928, today threw themselves upon the mercy of the court. Their trial was set for October 1. Under Colorado law the jury or judge must assess the penalty, death not being compulsory.

Ralph Fleagle, George J. Abshir and Howard Royston were the prisoners who entered the pleas. They were arrested as a result of a nation-wide search. One of their gang, Jake Fleagle, still is at large.

Four men were killed in connection with the holdup, in which the robbers stole $200,000 and kidnaped three men, two of whom later were put to death.

While the prisoners were being arraigned word came from authorities that the state would not ask for the death penalty for Ralph Fleagle because it was his confession that enabled officers to fix the blame for the holdup and clear seven other suspects that had been arrested in a nation-wide hunt.

AMERICAN TEACHER ATTACKED IN LONDON

Englishmen Under Arrest Plead Not Guilty to Attack Charge.

London, September 12.—(AP)—Donald Bateman and James Moore, charged with a bruital attack on Philip Eaton, American school teacher, on August 12, were brought up in Marlborough Street police court today and pleaded not guity. Scotland Yard arrested the two Englishmen after Mr. Eaton, who is a master at St. Mark's school, Southboro, Mass., and was traveling in England, had been found seriously injured in his Mayfair flat.

The prisoners reserved their defense and were committed for trial at the central criminal court.

Eaton was so far recovered today that he was able to give evidence. He walked slowly to the witness box with the aid of a stick and described how after a walk on the night of August 12 a man came with him to his flat, this man was Bateman.

He said they had talked about an hour, after which he thought the man had gone away. Mr. Eaton started to go to bed and got partly undressed when a man came into the room with something in his hand.

The school teacher said he was hit over the right eye and was struck many other blows. He was rendered nearly unconscious by the first blow, and the next thing he remembered was crawling into bed.

Mr. Eaton said both he and the man had had drinks during their conversation, but he denied having given Bateman seven or eight whiskies.

RAMSPECK TO WAGE CONTINUOUS CAMPAIGN

Democratic Nominee for Congress To Stump District Until Election Day.

Following his victory in the democratic primary of Wednesday, Robert C. W. Ramspeck, Decatur attorney and party nominee to succeed the late Congressman Leslie J. Steele, Thursday was preparing to continue his campaign for the special election of October 2. He will be opposed by Hooper Alexander, DeKalb county legislator, and Colonel James Hill Palmer, Atlanta business man, who have announced as independent candidates.

The Thursday tabulation of the exceptionally light primary vote revealed that Mr. Ramspeck received 3,266 of the 4,108 votes cast, while Mrs. George Brown, of Atlanta, his only opponent, received 842. The nominee carried Fulton, DeKalb, Campbell and Rockdale counties to take 16 of the 18 county unit votes. Mrs. Brown's victory in Douglas county gave her the remaining two votes.

In carrying Fulton and DeKalb counties Mr. Ramspeck failed to lose a precinct, a feat said by political observers to be unequalled in any primary. The nominee's home city of Decatur paid him high tribute when it gave him 545 votes to 10 for his opponent.

Following the election both candidates issued statements thanking their supporters and Mrs. Brown announced that she would support Mr. Ramspeck in the elections.

In her statement Mrs. Brown expressed the belief that the heavy rains falling late Wednesday cut her total of votes to a certain extent since working men were kept from the polls.

The tabulation by counties as announced Thursday is as follows:

Campbell County—Ramspeck 263; Mrs. Brown 18.

Rockdale County—Ramspeck 255; Mrs. Brown 132.

Douglas County—Ramspeck 74; Mrs. Brown 230.

PEYTON H. SNOOK, ATLANTA PIONEER, IS 90 YEARS OLD

Congratulatory messages were received from many of Mr. Snook's friends and relatives. One of the messages was from his daughter, Mrs. Gladys Hanson Cooke, who was unable to attend the family dinner. His other daughters, Miss Lula Snook, Miss Harriet Snook and Mrs. Thomas H. Austin were among those present.

Since the days following the War Between the States Mr. Snook has taken an active interest in Atlanta's business and civic life. Although he retired from active work about 12 years ago he still manages his business interests. He formerly was a member of the firm of Rhodes, Snook & Haverty. Its store was located where the Peachtree Arcade now stands.

Mr. Snook and Mrs. Snook, who died several years ago, were for many years prominent and active in the city's social and cultural life. Mrs. Snook is remembered in particular for her lovely voice. For many years she was a member of the choir at St. Philip's cathedral.

State and City Officials Participate In Laying First Natural Gas Main Here

Kane, who took part in the ceremonies connected with starting of the line for bringing natural gas into Atlanta. At the lower left, Mayor Ragsdale is seen as he turned the first spadeful of earth. Miss Bessie Kempton is shown at the right as she pulled the lever putting the digging machine to work.

Hailed as one of the most important events in Atlanta's history, work was begun Thursday afternoon on the Atlanta end of the line which will bring natural gas here from the Louisiana fields.

With P. Curzon Hoffman, Jr., vice president in charge of the southeastern properties of the company, presiding and with scores of the city's leading citizens looking on, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale took firm grip on a thoroughly gilded shovel and turned the first spadeful of earth at the corner of Simpson and Sunset streets following which the giant ditch-digging machine was set in motion by Miss Bessie Kempton, member of the legislature from Fulton county.

Actual start of the machine was preceded by brief talks by Mr. Hoffman, who presented the line to the city, Mayor Ragsdale, who accepted it, and James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission.

Mr. Hoffman pointed out that the work was beginning on the same date that gas service was resumed in Atlanta in 1866.

Perry Praises Project.

"The proposition of bringing natural gas all the way from Louisiana to Atlanta at first seemed impossible," Mr. Perry declared, "but this event marks the realization of a great dream. It is an all-Georgia project and the time will come when this service will be extended to other parts of the state.

"With addition of natural gas to the other advantages afforded by Atlanta, this city is stamped as the greatest in the south and I believe that the time will come when we will have passed the 500,000 mark in population and will be thinking of 1,000,000 citizens. Mr. Hoffman deserves great credit for his work."

In addition Mr. Perry stated that by helping to eliminate the smoke nuisance in the heart of the city, real estate values would be greatly increased.

Mayor Ragsdale declared that the advent of natural gas was one of the greatest things that has ever happened to Atlanta. He congratulated the company and wished the best of success in its undertaking.

The main which was begun Thursday is to run to College Park, where it will connect with the main system. Five crews are at work on the line running to Birmingham and it is stated that many homes in Atlanta will have natural gas available by January 1.

Will Construct Mains.

Its use will be gradually extended as the city mains are completed, it being planned to construct others in addition to the ones now being used for distribution of manufactured gas. This new system is to be about 30 miles in length and the total cost is estimated at approximately $1,000,000.

Following the ground-breaking ceremonies, the entire group was entertained at a barbecue luncheon, the guests of Mr. Hoffman.

Among the civic leaders present were: L. W. Robert, Jr., of Robert & Co.; John K. Ottley, president of the Fourth National bank; Robert Maddox, chairman of the board of the Atlanta and Lowry National bank; Bater Maddox, of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Reuben Arnold, prominent attorney; Walter B. Stewart, of the county commission; B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Ivan E. Allen, of the Forward Atlanta Commission.

MRS. COOLIDGE OKAYS SON JOHN'S NEW HOME SITE

New Haven, September 12.—(AP)—The four-room apartment which John Coolidge will occupy with his bride has the approval of his mother.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge visited it with Miss Florence Trumbull, her son's fiancee, and Mrs. Trumbull, wife of the governor of Connecticut. "I am pleased with it," she remarked.

After inspection of the $78-a-month apartment the two mothers and the young lady who will become Mrs. Coolidge on September 23 went to a furniture store and looked at various pieces that might be suitable for the apartment. Nothing definite was selected.

Mrs. Coolidge had been visiting the governor's home at Plainville since Tuesday. She motored to New Haven from Plainville with Mrs. and Miss Trumbull. Last night she left by train for her home in Northampton.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN PLUMBING LAW TO CAUSE BATTLE

Battle on the floor of city council Monday over proposed revision of the Atlanta plumbing ordinances is expected following action of the ordinance committee of city council Thursday afternoon in voting to adverse the measure.

Councilman George Lyle, of the eleventh ward, author of the paper which would require services of a licensed plumber in making any installations connecting with sewers, declared he would insist on a vote on the paper.

Purchasing Committee.

Only minor purchases were made Thursday at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the purchasing committee of city council.

George A. Shealy, pilot Texas Air Transport, Inc., at Candler field, who is leaving the service of the Atlanta division headquarters to fly the mail for the Interstate Airlines, Inc., rode north Thursday morning with John Pricer, in a Stearman mail plane as far as Evansville. Shealy will visit the Evansville headquarters of Interstate and study the line between this city and the Indiana end of the line. When night mail on the Chicago line goes into service about November 1, he will be on regular schedule.

Carlton H. Palmer, of New York, president of the E. R. Squibb & Sons, manufacturing chemists, who has been in Atlanta for a druggists' convention at the Biltmore hotel, will leave Candler field at about 9:30 o'clock this morning for New York in his Stearman biplane. Mr. Palmer came to Atlanta by rail Wednesday and his pilot, flying Mr. Palmer's plane, arrived here Thursday afternoon to take his employer back to New York.

Charlotte, N. C., will become a stop on the Atlanta-New York mail route as soon as the airport there can be put in shape suitable for the landing of the mail planes, it was announced Thursday by Pitcairn Aviation, Inc. Authority for the placing of the North Carolina city on the schedule was granted recently by the postoffice department. Charlotte will become the fifteenth city to be given direct air mail service by the Pitcairn company.

What is expected to be the largest seaplane factory in the world is to be built at Manhasset Isle, Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y., by the American Aeronautical Association, which holds exclusive North American rights on the Savoia-Marchetti seaplanes. The cornerstone for the big plant will be laid Saturday. The company will make three types of ships, a baby amphibian, seating three persons; a seven-place biplane amphibian with a 500-horsepower motor, and a 14-place monoplane amphibian, with two 500-horsepower motors.

Meeting To Plan Extension Work Of Oglethorpe

The Oglethorpe university down town extension work will be organized at a meeting to be held at 3:30 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce building, it was announced Thursday.

Classes for the coming year will be conducted at the Decatur High school, where one group will meet twice a week. Another group will meet at the Joe Brown Junior High school and several groups at the Commercial High school.

The work will be conducted with a view to awarding of degrees and each student's course will be planned with this end in view. In the past the work has been particularly popular with teachers and persons who have had some time in college but have been forced to leave before graduation. All interested are requested to attend the general meeting.

Courses will include English, German, French, sociology, history of education, technique of teaching, principles of education, mental hygiene, psychology, history, biology, chemistry, physics, mathematics and any other subjects for which sufficient demand exists. The work is under the direction of Dr. Herman J. Gaertner, dean of the school of education.

LARGE QUANTITY OF DYNAMITE FOUND IN FLAT

New York, September 12.—(AP)—Thirty-five sticks of dynamite, enough to blow up several buildings, was found in the basement of a flat in Eighth avenue today by detectives who raided the place on a mysterious tip.

Tenants of the buildings said that several strange men had been seen to enter and leave the building during the past week. Detectives were unable to learn from where the call came.

The explosives bear the same markings of a quantity of dynamite stolen last May from a subway contractor's magazine by two armed men who overpowered the night watchman.

THREE KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES, BURSTS IN FLAMES

San Francisco, September 12.—(AP) Three men were killed at Mills field here today when an airplane went into a tail spin and crashed, bursting into flames as it fell. The dead: Pilot Albert J. Hansel, Walter Nelson and Robert Parker, all of San Francisco.

The three men had started on a pleasure ride over San Francisco. Parker and Nelson were automobile salesmen, employed by a San Francisco company.

400 MEN DRIVEN BACK BEFORE FOREST FIRES

Rain Only Hope Left as Conflagration Rages in Oregon.

Portland, Ore., September 12.—(AP) Having swept over 2,500 acres of valuable fir and cedar timber, the Rock Creek fire in Camas valley between Marshfield and Roseburg, still was out of control tonight with more than 400 men on the fire line retreating before the flames.

All other fires in that district were reported under control. Fire wardens said rain appeared to be the only hope of checking the Rock Creek conflagration.

Conditions in the Siuslaw national forest were regarded as alarming with a thousand-acre fire burning the Waldport area.

Telephone communications with fire lines has been severed in many instances by the burning of poles carrying the wires.

Three or four groups of ranch buildings in Lane county have been destroyed by the flames. Reports from the firefighters yesterday described these groups of buildings as "settlements."

No loss of life has been reported. Two serious fires were said to have broken out in the Siskiyou national forest. One was in Coos county and the other in Curry.

The only new fire in Washington was on Siouxon Ridge on the upper Lewis river in the Columbia national forest. The Dole fire was burning fiercely in the Little Washougal district.

ALL DANGER PASSED, BRITISH TROOPS ARE LEAVING HOLY LAND

Jerusalem, September 12.—(AP)—British troops have been withdrawn from Palestine areas as fast as quiet has been restored and danger of further Arab-Semitic clashes has passed, an official announcement said today.

A system of mobile patrols will be maintained in the districts where the detachments have been withdrawn. The number of British troops now in Palestine are considered fully adequate to deal with any situation which may arise. Danger of a Bedouin invasion is considered past.

Hearings in minor prosecutions arising from the recent disturbances are under way in all parts of Palestine, while investigations of more serious charges are being carried out as rapidly as possible.

Bodies of victims of the Hebron riot have been exhumed by a committee of government and other physicians to determine truth of reports they were mutilated by the attacking Arabs.

Bride in Miami, Groom in Brazil Wedded by Proxy

Miami, Fla., September 12.—(AP)—With the bride in Miami, Fla., and the groom in the interior of Brazil, the wedding of Miss Sarah Fort Montgomery, 18, and George Joseph McLaughlin, 27, was solemnized here this afternoon with Stillson Branden, of Miami, acting as proxy and saying "I will" for the absent groom.

Preceding the ceremony marriage contracts signed by the bride and groom, were filed by County Judge W. F. Blanton, who performed the ceremony. The groom's contract explained that he was unable to come to Miami for the ceremony and recited the usual marriage oath.

Mr. Branden, the groom's proxy, is married and Mrs. Branden looked on as a witness as her husband was "married" on behalf of his friend to Miss Montgomery. The marriage plans were about two months in the making and the wedding by proxy was necessitated, Mr. Branden explained, because the bride-to-be would not be allowed to travel into the Brazilian interior alone as a single woman.

DEFENSE OF SLAYER OF SON IS BEGUN AS STATE CLOSES

Anderson, S. C., September 12.—(AP) The case for the state against J. R. Thomas, charged with the murder of his son, Maxie Thomas, was concluded his morning when Judge Wilson ruled that testimony of W. H. Frierson, local attorney, was not admissible.

Frierson was called as a witness for the state, but when objection was raised the jury was excused while the matter was argued. Frierson stated that the defendant had come to him 10 days prior to the boy's death, seeking information and advice as to the validity of the youth's large insurance policies. Just before leaving, Frierson said, Thomas made the remark, "Well, I just wanted to know. He may die or get drowned sometime."

Judge Wilson asked Frierson himself to rule on the question, leaving it to the attorney to say whether or not he considered it a privileged communication. Frierson stated he preferred not to testify. The state then closed its case.

ANXIETY GREATER FOR LADY HEATH, BRITISH FLYER

Cleveland, Ohio, September 12.—(AP) Irrationality increasing in periodic attacks today caused anxiety for the life of Lady Mary Heath, Irish aviatrix, whose skull was fractured in a crash at a test landing field during the national air races here last month. Lady Mary successfully underwent an operation by Dr. Elliott C. Cutter and for a time improved, but she has developed frequent relapses when she knows nothing, physicians said.

"There is a young woman who lives in her shoes"

SHE lives in them from the time she gets up in the morning until she goes to bed at night . . . about eighteen hours, every day, for three hundred and sixty-five days in the year!

She is the average modern young woman, active in many lines . . . social, civic, business . . .

And alas! Very often she is active on feet that hurt because they are cramped into ill-fitting shoes! Shoes that (not being made by experts in the art of moulding leather into an exact fit to the human foot) are a strain instead of a support! Often, too, she is too diverted to realize what is tiring her . . . she thinks she has been going too hard . . . when, in reality, it is simply a matter of shoes that do not fit, straining muscles and nerves to a breaking point.

It requires an artist to make a shoe for a woman's highly arched, sensitive foot . . . it requires another artist to know when a shoe really fits.

At Allen's, in the Shoe Salon, are Delman, Arch Preserver and other famous makes of shoes, created by recognized artists. They are fitted by salesmen who know their job . . . who understand the structure of the foot, the structure of the shoe, the importance of the right last . . .

The young woman who buys her shoes at Allen's lives in them in comfort and undoubted chic!

Consult A Shoe Specialist

We believe that we can give you the best in footwear . . . because Allen's is a Specialty Store, made up of Specialty Shops, each one devoted to some form of feminine apparel.

In the Shoe Salon we specialize in shoes that fit . . . not only the foot, but the occasion!

On their third visit to California, Mary and Bob decide to camp out during their trip and are found tonight under the big trees of the Muir woods across the bay from San Francisco. Other couples spending the week-end in similar fashion gather around the camp fire, and story and song follow as a natural consequence.

During their broadcast over station WABC and the Columbia broadcasting system at 7 o'clock, these two True Story representatives will share with their radio audience the most amusing of the stories they hear around the camp fire. It might be called the "Rejuvenation of Dad"—but Dad, who tells the story himself, prefers to title it "I Was Ready for the Scrap Heap."

RADIO-ELECTRIC SHOW HEADS FOR NEW MARK

Swinging into the latter half of the week's run the fifth annual southeastern radio-electric exposition being held in Atlanta at the city auditorium only had to keep up the pace it had set during the opening days to shatter all previous attendance records.

The show will continue today and Saturday and officials in charge are of the opinion that the closing days will be decidedly the most successful of the week. They base their opinion on the experience gained from the shows in the past years, and the fact the attendance has been growing daily this year.

Exhibitors continue to report satisfaction as to the results they are getting. Many sales have been made, they say, and a much greater interest has been created in the new developments in radio, including both the receivers and the cabinets. Distributors also report satisfactory business with their out-of-town dealers.

Those in charge of the show are Foster B. Steward, managing director, and Ed F. Yancey, general chairman, who is branch manager here for the Stewart-Warner Sales Company, have expressed entire satisfaction with the exposition and feel that the great response it has met testifies as to its success.

Henry L. Reid, chairman of the entertainment committee, has been generously commended on billing acts included in the revenue. The stage performance is given nightly at 9:15, with Harry Pomar, director of the show orchestra, serving as master of ceremonies.

ESCAPED CONVICT WRITES OF INTENT TO REJOIN GANG

Judge E. L. Rainey, chairman of the prison commission, Thursday made public a letter from Herman Wooten, escaped negro life-term convict, declaring that he would report on October 25 to resume serving his sentence.

Wooten, who made his getaway from the Dougherty county chaingang in May of this year, is now in New York. He was sent up in 1915 for murder and this was his second escape. He was at large three days in July, 1921.

In his letter, addressed to Judge Rainey personally, Wooten said he left the chaingang so that he might get work somewhere to make enough to pay lawyers to get him out of prison. He told of all his near relatives being dead, except a sister who was unable to help him, and of his failure to raise the necessary money.

The negro also said he was convicted for an accidental shooting, "because anybody knows I wouldn't shoot my own baby intentionally."

Judge Rainey said that, except for his escapes, the negro was regarded as a good prisoner and not at all vicious. The prison board recommended a parole for him during Governor Walker's administration, but the governor at that time declined to grant it.

Wooten said in the letter that he would stop by Atlanta to call on Judge Rainey on his way to Dougherty county.

HARDMAN RESPITES CONVICTED HEARD COUNTY SLAYER

Governor L. G. Hardman Thursday granted a respite until October 2 to W. M. Smith, of Heard county, who was convicted on a charge of killing Ellis Powers and sentenced to electrocution. The respite was granted by the governor so that he would have more time to study briefs of lawyers who have asked for commutation of the death sentence. The plea for clemency was filed with the governor Thursday. The prison commission and the trial judge have recommended that clemency be granted in the case.

SIGNAL SECTION OF RAILROAD BODY ENDS CONVENTION

Forty-one American railroads now direct train movement with signal systems eliminating the use of written train orders, speeding service and reducing accident hazard, according to a committee report read Thursday morning at the closing session of the convention of the signal section of the American Railroad Association, at the Biltmore hotel.

The signals are used, the report said, on sections over which the traffic is exceptionally heavy and rapid movement is essential. It is estimated that 32,000,000 train miles a year are controlled wholly by signal systems.

Following the final business session Thursday morning the majority of the 450 signal men attending the convention remained over with their wives to enjoy a dance and social evening at the hotel Thursday night.

MYSTERY PICTURE AT METROPOLITAN IS SCORING HIT

Scoring a hit at the Metropolitan theater is the all-talking mystery play, "Behind That Curtain." The picture opens in the office of a private detective who is shown answering the 'phone call of an English nobleman. This detective has information pertaining to the character and past life of one of two suitors for the hand of a niece of the nobleman. One man comes in and tells the detective that he (the detective) has certain information concerning him and that he wishes the papers handed over immediately. The detective refuses.

The next scene is the nobleman's house where the two suitors appear. The detective, in the meanwhile, has been murdered—and seemingly by one of the two men. One of the men marries the girl and takes her to India where, by accident, the other man, an explorer, has gone. There the husband squanders his wife's money, left by the death of her uncle, and has started an affair with the native woman. The wife learns of this, leaves him and goes to the man who still loves her and with whom she was already in love but did not know it. He takes her to the desert with him. Afterward there transpires real drama—and a real love story.

Warner Baxter has the leading role, Lois Moran plays opposite him, and the other roles in the picture are filled by capable players.

THE COMING NAVAL PARLEY.

It is announced that Premier MacDonald will come to Washington within the month to discuss with our government the subject of reducing the naval armaments of the United States and Great Britain.

That the sea-fighting establishments of both countries can and ought to be brought down to actually obvious proportions is unquestionable. Even as they are they are extravagant and heavily burdensome to the taxpayers of the two nations. The economic interests of both peoples call strongly for the reduction of such expensive armaments to peace time and purely defensive proportions.

No competent statesman or intelligent patriot in either nation would propose to strip his country to utter nakedness of defensive equipment. But in the face of the growing disposition of all civilized potential nations to substitute arbitration for force in the settlement of international issues, there appears no compelling reasons for any of them supporting plenary war armaments either on sea or land.

As between the United States and Great Britain there subsists but one unsettled question in their mutual desire to agree upon reduced naval armaments, and that is the question of parity of naval power. While that may have technical interest for statesmen still obsessed with a war complex, and "big navy" men who magnify the importance of their profession, it does not seriously affect the economic and pacific thinking of the masses of people. They are set upon measures to procure and secure world peace.

In the present era of enlightenment as to international relations, and the World War demonstration of the power of the Anglo-Saxon nations to exercise domination over war-gendering disputes between lesser nations, the issue of naval parity between the United States and Great Britain becomes more academic than imperative.

The only accord they need to reach is an honest evaluation of the practical naval needs of each on a foundation of perpetual peace between themselves and mutual capable defense against any aggressor upon the rights and peace of either.

Such an accord should be easily reached and find prompt ratification by the congress of this country and the British parliament.

THE G. O. P. IN GEORGIA.

The republican national committee held a quick-fire session in Washington on Monday, elected a new national chairman and several new members, but conveniently overlooked the fact that it has no national committeeman from Georgia.

Evidently the committee saw nothing in the acephalous condition of the party in this state to worry over. To them Georgia, except for federal patronage and national delegate uses, is party terra incognito which they have no yen to explore and colonize. And they are not to be blamed for their aloofness, since every time they have ventured into the state they have stirred up a fierce cat fight in their own yard and from which they had to beat a safe retreat.

As a political party locally the republicans have nothing of practical promise to offer to the people of Georgia and it is better for their own party peace to treat the state as a "political territory" than as a constituent of the national organization. In that way it can give us dependable, respectable federal officials and that is all the people of the state will ask or expect from them.

RAMSPECK'S NOTABLE VICTORY

Well deserved recognition of the sterling character and proven ability of Robert C. W. Ramspeck was paid by the democrats of the fifth congressional district in nominating him to succeed the late Congressman Leslie J. Steele.

The vote of the primary attests the confidence placed in him by the people of the district.

He is well fitted by experience to capably serve the district as its representative in the national congress. His service as private secretary to former Congressman William Schley Howard makes him familiar with the details of the work of a congressman and enables him to enter into his duties without the delay which often marks the entrance of a new congressman, unfamiliar with conditions, into the legislative halls of the national government.

Mr. Ramspeck's experience as a Chamber of Commerce secretary and his work as chief deputy United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia gives him valuable insight into the needs of the district, while his ability as a lawyer and his service as solicitor and city attorney of Decatur admirably equip him to deal with legislative matters affecting the law of the nation.

Mr. Ramspeck is to be congratulated upon the splendid indorsement received at the hands of those among whom he has lived and worked practically all his life, and the voters may feel certain that they made no mistake in so honoring a young man so well equipped, by character and experience, to satisfactorily discharge the duties of the office to which he has been nominated as the party choice.

DR. BROUGHTON'S RETURN.

After an absence of seventeen years Dr. Len G. Broughton returns to his old pulpit at the Tabernacle Baptist church next Sunday.

Under Dr. Broughton's administration the Tabernacle became more than what is ordinarily classified as a church. He made it a great institution and one which under his notable stewardship rendered admirable civic, as well as religious, service for many years.

The Tabernacle organization was the outgrowth of Dr. Broughton's enterprise and ability. With a modest beginning and with very little money he established a plant of great value, and created one of the largest congregations in the city.

Like many other ministers Dr. Broughton made the great mistake of thinking that he had served one church long enough, and that, terminating his mission here, he should devote his constructive energy to another field.

So seventeen years ago he severed his connection with the Baptist Tabernacle and served churches in several different fields, finally accepting a call to London where he became a world-wide ministerial figure.

But his first love was the Atlanta Tabernacle, born of his brain and developed by his effort. A congregation which has missed him all these years wanted him to come back, and happily he was ready to return to the church he founded. So this good man, better equipped than ever by world-wide service, and by a broadened and deepened experience, returns next Sunday to his first love to again take up the work founded by him seventeen years ago.

Dr. Broughton will be welcomed back home and his return to his old pulpit next Sunday will be a notable event.

In his return to the Tabernacle that well-known institution comes to the front again as one of the notable churches not only of Atlanta, but of all the south.

After England in a conference got $10,000,000 a year for 40 years from the other powers, the folly of going to war to gain one's ends is apparent.

Vaudeville is coming back, notwithstanding the joke is still in prohibition.

Cotton is still king. Anarchists and communists cannot control the textile mills of the south.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Home of Research.

The reading room of the British museum, considered the greatest workshop of research in the world, once had Lenin as a daily visitor, it was recently revealed. This is not surprising for many men and women who have received great fame, made the British museum their intellectual and spiritual fountainhead some time or other. The present pope was a frequent visitor. And Lenin's predecessor, Karl Marx, when a refugee in London, Trotzky also and Prince Peter Kropotkin. The late Viscount Morley was at one time often there and so was Marquess Curzon, of Kedleston, who the officials found to be far from the august personage represented, a most charming, genial man, grateful for any attention. Lord Curzon, as a trustee of the museum, was entitled to carry out any research upon which he may have been engaged in the board-room, but he always elected the work in the center of the building, taking his place at a desk just like anybody else. Then there were other men like John Masefield, W. B. Yeats, Henri Bergson, Samuel Butler (author of "Erewhon"), G. M. Trevelyan, the historian and a grand-nephew of Lord Macaulay, Arthur Simons, Sturge Moore, Robert Bridges, the poet laureate; Bernard Shaw, Karsavina, Diaghileff, the ballet-master; Laurence Irving, Arthur Ponsonby, Sir Edward Clarke and Sir James Frazer, author of "The Golden Bough."

Elysee Memories.

Interesting memories are recalled by the fact that the president of the republic has relegated his carriages, replaced by motorcars, to the museum at Compiegne, where in days to come, they will be looked upon as curiosities. There is one man in Paris who is filled with sadness at this thought, says a writer in the Times. He is the ex-coachman at the Elysee, who drove several presidents. Do you think that a motor car, however magnificent it may be, can inspire him with feelings of joy and admiration? He thinks only of his berlines of the past, one white, the other blue, in which he drove King Edward VII, the queen of Holland, King Peter, of Serbia, and the Czar Alexander. M. Doumergue, marching with the times, suppressed the brilliant equipages at the Elysee. The old coachman has a great admiration for him, considering him a brave man with an irresistible smile; but he remembers that the president is a bachelor, and somehow to this fact is ascribed the fact of ceremonial carriage outings. On the other hand, M. and Madame Poincare, though they were a modest couple when they occupied the Elysee, loved their equipage. The Millerands simply reveled in them. As for M. Paul Deschanel, he was the president after the coachman's own heart. He received so many elegant people that the coachman had to wear his best livery every day. Now the livery, along with the carriages and harness, has gone to the museum. It is small compensation that he will be immortalized, since his name is stitched in the lining. He can only hope for better days.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

STAMINA, VIGOR AND HEALTH.

Queries come frequently like this:

"I've often read that most people do not breathe deeply enough, so I have started to train myself to breathe deeply by forced deep breathing. Do you think that I will learn to breathe deeply, naturally, in this way?

"I have heard that forced deep breathing may lead to tuberculosis. Is this true?

"I timed myself when breathing deeply and found that I breathe from 18 to 20 times a minute. Is this fast enough? I am 19 years old.

Probably the young man read about "deep breathing" in one of those "health" magazines that glorify exercise as a panacea and provide a market place for all sorts of mail order humbugs, especially short cuts to "superb manhood," "personality," "amazing vitality" and all that sort of hokum.

No one can change his breathing habit by any such silly effort. Breathing is an automatic process and one can no more modify the depth or rate of breathing by "training oneself to breathe deeply" than one could change the winking of one's eyelids by practicing slow or fast winking.

There is no foundation for the notion that deep breathing may lead to tuberculosis.

The normal rate of breathing for an adult at rest is 16 or 18 breaths a minute. That's fast enough—or slow enough.

I should advise this young man and others who may share his fancies about deep breathing, to pay no special attention to the breathing: it will regulate itself in any case. Go in for such exercise, play, work, as you may need, and leave the breathing to nature.

Perhaps it is due in part to ill advised conscious attention on the breathing that many persons do not breathe naturally, but endeavor to breathe with the chest almost exclusively, having garnered from freak "physical culture" magazines that a large chest expansion is essential for vigor and vitality.

It is notable that physicians examining patients give no consideration at all to chest expansion when investigating the state of the vital organs—except when working for some mossback insurance company that cherishes ancient methods. An individual with an exceptionally large chest expansion is as likely to have lung tuberculosis or heart disease as is one with a very small expansion.

The natural way to breathe is with the diaphragm mainly. When the diaphragm contracts, air is drawn into the lungs, the stomach, liver and other abdominal organs are pressed downward and the belly bulges or expands. The skilled anesthetist watches the rythmic rise and fall of the belly and not the movement of the chest, to make sure the patient is breathing naturally, under anesthesia. Even in natural sleep, the breathing is almost wholly diaphragmatic. The diaphragm is a voluntary muscle, to be sure, yet it is under automatic control and had better be left to such control.

In the same mail with the young man's query comes a circular describing a gadget that purports to do a lazy sucker's exercise for him, and the prospect is assured that the purchase of the gadget will give him "sufficient stamina and vitality to ward off disease."

How come? There is absolutely no connection between physical or muscular condition and immunity. It is high time that this kind of fraud were suppressed, if there's enough stamina in dollar worshipping Yankeeland to put a stop to it.

If He Discusses the Town Hall's Need of Cuspidors, He Isn't A Candidate for Governor

—By Robert Quillen—

The last quarter of a century has developed in America a new kind of businessman—the professional executive. He did not work up from the ranks, and he has little knowledge of the problems solved by his subordinates.

Today he makes a leather business successful and tomorrow he is drafted by a new financial group and placed in charge of a steamship line or an automobile plant.

He directs a big business successfully because he thinks in big terms. He has found the secret of success—that a man is as big as the terms he thinks in.

Thinking in big terms requires no more effort and no more ability than thinking in small terms.

The corporal directing eight privates and the general directing eight divisions have problems that are identical in kind if not in magnitude. Each has to deal with eight units. Each must give an order and trust the units to obey.

The general orders his units forward and trusts subordinates to relay the command from grade to grade until the last private is in motion. The corporal orders his units forward and trusts each of them to gather up his equipment and obey.

The general does not see details. The corporal is annoyed because one of his eight privates carries an unclean gun; the general is worried because one of his eight division falls short of its objective. They are executives of different caliber because they think in different terms.

The rich man who controls many industries must think in terms of millions; but when he makes a trade involving material worth millions of dollars, his mental processes and purposes and reactions are identical with the mental processes, purpose and reactions of the itinerant merchant who makes a trade involving no more than a bushel of raw peanuts.

Small men are awed by bulk; but great and small think in terms of units, and whether the units are divisions or privates, tons or pounds, states or precincts, the thinking is done in the same way if done to the same end. Adding ten elephants requires no more mental effort than adding ten fleas.

The man who learns to think in terms of nickels may be as capable as the man who learns to think in terms of thousands of dollars, but his achievements will be small because his energies are expended in small matters.

The man with the hoe will give more careful attention to individual plants, but the man with a steam tractor will harvest a greater crop.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

An Open Letter to Teachers.

Dear Teacher:

I know you have made a lot of nice resolutions during the summer vacation. Among other things you have promised yourself that you will actually save some money this year out of your salary. You have made up your mind to work more cordially with your principal, head of the department or supervisor than formerly; or else you have determined to outwit them better than you did last year.

You have made up your mind to work harder than you did last year or to work less. You are going to take it easier or you are going to do more. You are going to study more or else you are going to quit studying as much. You are going to be more conscientious with reference to your work, or else less so.

I know you have been thinking on these things and have come back to school with a strong determination to do better or to do worse.

Today your mind is made up, but tomorrow you will find yourself back in the same old channels. Those who had been able to save money in the past will continue to save it; those who did not save in the past will have a hard job to reform. Those who have studied will not be able to stop, and those who haven't studied in the past will have to attach a back to a bone and take away the wish part of it.

There's one thing I positively know, and that is you have determined to be happier. Some of you have said: "I am going to give more." Others have said: "I am going to get more." Others: "I am going to be more." But we cannot get without giving, we can't give without getting, and we can't be without both giving and getting.

To be happy I think we ought to be human, and if we are human I think we are rather inclined to be happy. In so far as you can, I hope that you will be able to develop cordial personal relations with your pupils.

It is my feeling that we are destroying personality in the schools, destroying both the personality of the pupils and the personality of the teachers. We are making the school system into a glorious machine, and if we could only persuade Mr. Ford to carry on our educational business for a few years we would find that he would be able to save a great deal of money for us which we are now spending for education, and could undoubtedly fulfill the ideal of many educators of mass production.

Be as human as you can and pray to the good Lord that you get more chances to be human than seems to be possible in an educational way.

And by the way, take hold of this idea of abolishing the factory notion in education. Don't let the system kill you and the children, do something about it. But this means mass action.

Individually you can do practically nothing to remedy this unfortunate tendency of treating children as though they were cogs in wheels. But individually you can do a great deal in putting a human touch into your teaching.

When a pupil is reciting, be just as courteous as you want him to be to you; do not interrupt him, let him finish at least a sentence before you correct his grammar. Better than that, let him finish his entire statement before you correct him.

Be careful in calling upon others to comment upon a recitation that you do not encourage adverse criticism. Heaven knows we are all skilled in that. It's a terribly deadening thing, my teacher friend, always to be criticised adversely. Suppose your superintendent commented upon your work in the way that pupils are allowed to criticise the work of their classmates. Why is it that you say: "Now, children, what mistake did Johnnie make?" Can't you ever say: "Now, children, what was good in Johnnie's recitation?" I wonder if the cause of nine-tenths of the gossip and mean talk of we adults doesn't come from getting in the classroom this critical attitude toward the thoughts and words of others.

When a parent comes to see you about her child, don't put yourself on the defensive. If you have done right —and it's easy to assume that you intended to—all you have to do is to explain to the parent what you did and why you did it. But it is better to let the parent tell you what she thought you did and why she thought you did it.

Give the parent a chance to set off the first explosion; that will relieve the parent immensely. Then calmly explain the rules and methods of the school which exist and how her boy or girl got out of step. In fact, the parent will like the term "out of step" more than he or she likes the word "disobey." We all love to be in step.

And finally, if you can get your children to know that you really like them, that you want to hear about their trials as well as their joys, they will do almost anything for you that you wish them to do. The more they feel that they are in tune with you and that you are in tune with them, the harder they will study and the faster they will learn.

Your friend,

FIRST TARIFF GUNS ROAR IN SENATE

Nine Objections.

Simmons listed nine specific objections to the bill as follows:

"It contains many rates and increases upon agricultural products that are useless and ineffective.

"It is replete with exhorbitant rates on articles which farmers buy.

"It contains numerous instances of higher rates on articles used by the masses than on articles of identical use, but purchased principally by persons of wealth or of more than average means.

"It does not conform to President Hoover's request for increases on industrial products only when there has been a slackening of employment due to imports. In many cases, increases have been granted to industries which have been very prosperous under the present tariff act.

"It is full of inconsistencies and unfair discriminations.

"It increases rates on many articles even though the imports under the present tariff act have been negligible.

"It encourages inefficiency by many of its increases in rates.

"Its increases on manufactured articles imperils our trade with European countries; and finally

"By its liberalization of the flexible provisions, enlarging the powers and discretion of the president, the attitude allowed the president in the imposition of additional duties is dangerously expanded."

Charging that sectional forces and groups of internationalists were aiding the democrats to break down the republican policy of protection, Smoot said prosperity "will inevitably follow the readjusted tariff of 1929 as was the case following the 1922 tariff."

Smoot Questioned.

Unlike Simmons, who asked that he not be interrupted, Smoot was questioned frequently during the reading of his prepared speech by democrats. Senator Tydings, of Maryland, asked whether the president favored the bill.

"I haven't asked him but I think he will sign it," Smoot replied.

Smoot told Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, that he had not discussed tariff rates with the president—not even sugar.

"No candy passed between you, then?" observed the Mississippian.

Taking up the claim of Simmons that the bill would add billions of dollars to consumers' costs, Smoot said this was "fallacy."

"The tariff acts on price levels only indirectly," Smoot said, adding it was "misleading and false to measure either benefit or injury of a tariff by the amount of the tariff."

Fight Not New.

The republican tariff chieftain denied the proposed increases in farm rates were more than offset by raises in duties on manufactured goods, asserting that the ad valorem increases on the former "far outweigh increases in manufacturers based on 1928 imports."

Referring to the bolt of the republican independents from the west on the bill, Smoot said the "threatened jealousy between the west and east growing out of the tariff is nothing new."

"The same arguments used now by the leaders in the agricultural west," he continued, "were used in every tariff battle before and after the Civil War. The fact that hundreds of petitions are coming from agricultural interests in the west and from legislatures of middle west states urging higher tariff duties on agricultural products is a demonstration that agriculture admits the benefits of national protection."

$2,500,000 BOND ISSUE APRPOVED

20 a week. The waiting list of appendicitis cases is nearly as bad and overcrowding is a continuous trouble in all the wards, it was said. Attending doctors pointed out that Grady hospital was built when Atlanta was a city of 100,000 inhabitants and the same plant is now attempting to serve a city of almost four times that size.

Attending doctors of the Battle Hill hospital pointed out that the whole purpose of their institution is almost set at naught because of their meager facilities. As a result of the crowding it is possible, they said, to admit only such cases as are in the advanced stages. The waiting list at Battle Hill now is in excess of 200, it was said.

The committee also approved appointment of Dr. George W. Fuller as attending physician on the Grady staff and of Dr. J. T. Floyd as staff gynecologist.

Petition of Dr. Harold F. McDuffie for permission to establish a private eye, ear, nose and throat hospital for children was granted. Dr. McDuffie was unable to announce plans for his hospital Thursday night but said that it would be located on Forrest avenue and would be designed for the benefit of persons of moderate means.

TENNESSEE TAX CASE GOES TO FEDERAL COURT

Middle Tennessee Judge Asked To Take Case as Memphian Disqualifies.

Memphis, Tenn., September 12.—(AP)—Federal Judge John J. Gore, of the middle Tennessee district, has been asked to take the second step in a tax suit which lawyers believe is destined to make legal history in Tennessee.

The first step was taken yesterday when Federal Judge Harry Anderson said he was disqualified to hear the petition of the Bank of Commerce & Trust Co., seeking an injunction to prevent the city from collecting approximately $27,000 tax on its intangible property.

Judge Anderson said he had asked Judge Gore to hear the petition.

The bank contends its intangible assets were taxed as resources and that any attempt of the city to tax the properties would be placing another ad valorem duty against property previously taxed. The bank argued that if the property must be taxed, the duty should be levied against the stockholders and not against the bank as a unit.

Judge Anderson suggested yesterday that counsel agree to dismiss the petition so the big task of testing the suit could be hurried. The lawyers, however, could not reach an agreement and prayed for continuance. Date for the hearing before Judge Gore has not been set.

Plans call for hearing of local questions involved in the suit before two United States district judges and one judge of the United States circuit court. There is no appeal from such a tribunal except to the supreme court of the United States.

M'DONALD VISIT INDICATES PROGRESS

Plans Discussed.

Plans for the prime minister's visit were discussed today by Secretary Stimson in conferences with the British ambassador and Sir Robert Van Sittart, an undersecretary of the British foreign office and the principal secretary to the prime minister. Sir Robert had planned to sail for England on the Aquitania early in the week but cancelled his passage and returned to Washington, where he has been conferred on the premier's plans with both American and British officials.

While the strictest secrecy was maintained as to the contents of the note from the American government which reached London today, there were indications that it contained some suggestions in the nature of counter proposals to the British viewpoint as to the precise means of attaining parity, or cruiser equality.

Concessions Broad.

Both governments have made broad concessions since the inception of the negotiations several months ago when Ambassador Dawes arrived in England. Great Britain is believed to have agreed to a reduction of its planned cruiser fleet from 70 to 50 ships after it had conceded the fundamental principle of parity in this class of warcraft.

On the other hand, it is understood that the United States has foregone a large part of the reduction policy which President Hoover had hoped to be able to effect. Under such an agreement the American navy would have to be built up to any limitation which ultimately might be agreed upon.

Should Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald be able to remove the last difficulties at their personal conferences here, the next step in the general plan for the limitation of naval strength of the chief powers would be a conference to be participated in by the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

MERCHANTS HEAR TALK ON PROFITS

costs him too much to sell what he does sell.

"I am not telling you anything now when I say that a retailer's one great asset is his customers, and that his success comes from his ability to sell those customers what they want, when they want it and at the price or on the terms they can afford and are willing to pay. Every retailer must buy on that basis, and he must sell on that basis. If he doesn't he is doomed. What his customers want, when they want it and at the price or on the terms they can afford and are willing to pay," he repeated with emphasis.

Sell Goods New.

Mr. Mears warned particularly about selling goods while they were new and fresh. "Be scared to death when goods linger in your store," he exclaimed, "and if you must take markdowns, take them first and get the goods out of your store."

As a formal definition for merchandising, Mr. Mears gave this:

"Good merchandising makes acceptable goods accessible."

Anything else is bad merchandising, he declared.

Explaining the factors of this definition, Mr. Mears said that a merchant must have the goods his customers desired, at the time they were wanted, the price neither too high nor too low for his trade, at terms or on credit, and in plain view as an invitation to buy. All of this was in reference to the word "accessible."

As to the meaning of "acceptable," Mr. Mears called to mind the words "pleasing," "agreeable," "welcome," as affecting the same person to whom the goods must be accessible, the customer.

Acceptable Merchandise.

Summarizing the factors that make goods acceptable, Mr. Mears listed:

1. Goods such as customers have used before and have found satisfactory.
2. Sizes, what your customers prefer or cannot do without.
3. Style. What is in vogue.
4. Appearance. What looks inviting.
5. Color. Cheerfulness promotes buying.
6. Quality. Don't spread over too wide a range.
7. Assortment. Selection to choose from.
8. Quantity. Neither too great nor too small. What you can sell—not something to keep.

Among these there were certain other background elements that he regarded as an aid to merchandising, among which were, reputation of goods; reputation of store and the attitude of the store.

Mr. Mears had the closest attention of all those present throughout his entire address, indicating that the merchants were extremely interested in what he had to say. At the close of his address a great many questions were asked, developing several beneficial discussions.

Wife Visits Waggoner; Bank Scheme Wizard Breaks Down

:: TEARS FLOOD FROM COLORADOAN'S EYES

Newcastle, Wyo., September 12.—(AP)—C. D. Waggoner wept in his jail cell here today when his wife came to see him. It was a dramatic scene when the banker who admitted defrauding six New York banks of half a million dollars for the benefit of his won depositors was greeted by the comely, motherly woman whose eyes were swollen from sleepless nights.

"Honey," the wife cried, "this is terrible."

After the first embrace Waggoner asked, "Where is Delos?" Delos is his son.

"He stayed in Denver, honey, thinking he could do you more good there," Mrs. Waggoner replied.

Not until then did Waggoner break down. The stoic calm which he maintained since his arrest near here Tuesday night snapped and tears flooded his eyes.

"It's too bad, honey," his wife sobbed. "If Delos had known you wanted him so badly he would have come. He will come anyway if you want him and need him."

After the visit in the cell Mrs. Waggoner remarked to Sheriff Pov ell, "Oh, why did he do it? He's a ways been a good husband. A fine ma who commanded the respect of ever one. He must have been out of h mind if he did all the terrible thin the newspapers say about him. can't believe it."

It was the first meeting of Wa goner and his wife since he put he on the train at Lincoln, Neb., la week, sending her to Denver.

"I have nothing to say," Mrs. Wa goner sobbed when asked about th charges against her husband. "I kno nothing about the affair save wha the daily papers have printed. It is shock, a terrible shock. I don't kno what to say. Please leave us alone f a while. It's all so sudden and hear breaking."

Waggoner, who spent the first da of his captivity in explaining how h had duped the six New York bank for the benefit of depositors of th Bank of Telluride, lapsed into silenc today so far as the press was concerned. He said he would follow th advice of counsel and not talk f publication.

STREET CAR STRIKE AGREEMENT REJECTED

New Orleans, September 12.—(AP)—The New Orleans street car strike took its second wind and entered the tenth week, while officials sought to piece together the loose ends of the settlement controversy.

The striking conductors and motormen upset the apple cart by rejecting, by the overwhelming vote of 1,009 to 87, the settlement agreement drafted by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and A. B. Paterson, vice president of the New Orleans Public Service, at a conference in New York. The agreement also was approved by W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railways Employes.

At Indianapolis Mr. Green said the rejection of the agreement was due to a "misunderstanding" and from Seattle came word that Mr. Mahon regarded the negative vote of the carmen as a "serious mistake" and that he would seek to have the vote reconsidered.

Local union officials asserted that neither Mr. Green nor Mr. Mahon had the true facts of the local situation, which was aggravated by the refusal of Public Service officials to give the union any assurances that the strikers would be taken back to work. The clause in the agreement, the union officials said, did not bind the company to re-employ the men, and they had reason to believe that about 400 of the former employes never would be reinstated, under the terms.

Orlebar Flies 355.8 Miles Hour; Sets New Record

Calshot, England, September 12.—(United News.)—The British assault on world speed records continued successfully today when the brilliant pilot, Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar, averaged 357.7 miles an hour in four successive trips over the regulation three-kilometer course.

Orlebar made six trips over the Solent course in 29 minutes in the air and narrowly escaped a collision with a group of fishing vessels when he brought the little plane down to the water at a pace of 100 miles an hour.

There was a slight wind during the flight.

WATCH YOUR STEP, TAKE NO CHANCES, IT'S FRIDAY, 13TH

If you stub your favorite toe today you probably can remember that you were born under an unlucky star and reiterate that the other guy always did have all the luck in the world.

If Bill Alexander looks at the calendar he probably won't plan anything difficult for the boys at the Flats, for maphap one of the brittle youths might get so hurt he wouldn't be able to be in there when the whistle blows a few weeks hence.

Pedestrians and motorists alike are warned to watch for the green light and card and dice players reminded it's not a day for plunging.

Another milestone in a diversification farm program designed to react to the profit of Georgia farmers was passed Thursday when, with more than 100 entries present, a great hog show was staged in Atlanta through co-operation of the White Provision Company, Swift & Company, the Georgia State College of Agriculture, the Georgia Association and county agents. The White company distributed $500 in prizes.

Hog raising in Georgia will be a profitable business and will enable farmers to produce much of the pork which is consumed in this state and in others, if raisers adopt methods which were employed in production of the litters which were exhibited, experts stated Thursday following the show.

Although the feed cost of the litters averaged only 5 cents a pound, the raisers marketed their entries for 10 1-2 cents a pound—more than 100 per cent return on the investment in six months.

Show in Moultrie.

The first exhibit was held Wednesday at Moultrie, when Swift & Company distributed $500 in prizes. There were about $40 entries.

Both the Atlanta and Moultrie shows surpassed all expectations in the number of entries and in the quality of exhibits.

Lorenz Neuhoff, manager of the White Company, and H. McDowell, manager of Swift, were so delighted with the results that they immediately offered the same prizes again next year and planned to make the show an annual event.

Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin, head of the department of animal husbandry of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, praised the event as one of the most educative ever staged in the state and declared that farmers would reap a rich harvest if they would adopt methods used by those who entered exhibits in the show here.

H. Jack Hogg, of LaGrange, won the ton litter exhibit with 10 pigs which weighed 2,645 pounds. He was awarded $75.

Under the rules of the contest, the litter could not be over six months old and had to weigh at least a ton.

Prize Winners.

Second prize of $50 went to Boyd Randall, of Lavonia, with a litter of eight pigs, weighing 2,381 pounds; third, $40, to H. F. Jacobs, Lavonia, eight pigs, 2,481 pounds; fourth, $30, to Jack Shirley, Lavonia, 11 pigs, 2,453 pounds; fifth, $20, to Georgia State College of Agriculture, nine pigs, 2,177 pounds.

In addition the following $10 prizes were awarded:

J. Boyd Hogg, LaGrange; Bethel Thomas, Lavonia; Hiram Clifton, Lyons; A. B. Wright, LaGrange; Robert Lee O'Brien, Metter; Jim Logue, Ragsdale, and Dred Bufford, LaGrange.

First prize of $10 for the best three barrows went to Boyd Randall, Lavonia; second, $8, to the Georgia State College of Agriculture, Athens; third, $6, to Jack Shirley, Lavonia; fourth, $4, to Bethel Thomas, Lavonia, and fifth, $2, to the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

Single barrow prizes, graduated the same as the three-barrow litter prizes, follow: First to the Georgia State College of Agriculture; second to Boyd Randall, Lavonia; third, W. B. Clifton, Lyons; fourth, Jack Shirley, Lavonia, and fifth, Bethel Thomas, Lavonia.

Project Is Praised.

Praising the far-sightedness of White and Swift, Dr. Jarnagin declared that the show would react to the best interests of the entire state and increase prosperity among farmers.

"I cannot too strongly commend officials of the packing plants for their efforts to produce abundant supply of pork right here in the state," Dr. Jarnagin said.

"The large number of entries is indicative of the general interest in the program, and next year there undoubtedly will be many others. If pork can be produced at a cost of 5 cents a pound and sold here for 10 cents a pound, it will mean that the farmer will reap a 100 per cent harvest—many times more than he could get if he planted cotton. There is no way of estimating just what this step may mean in the progress of the state and in the prosperity of the farmer.

"We arranged the show at this time of the year because pork brings about $2 per 100 pounds more at this season than at any other. That is another important matter to consider in producing stock for the market.

Pleased With Entries.

"When we first began working on this idea, we thought we might get 50 entries if we pushed it, and we felt that the 50 would be a good average. To our surprise there were 100 entries, and the event stimulated more general interest than we anticipated and passed our every expectation.

"The raisers of the state owe a debt of gratitude to the packing interests which backed the movement, because they will profit most by it."

Mr. Neuhoff declared that his company was exceedingly pleased with the large number of entries and the state-wide interest displayed in the movement.

"We feel that the event was most successful, and are glad to have had a part in contributing to its success," he added. "Our company is so pleased that we are offering the same prize list for next year and plan to make it an annual affair."

Similar sentiment was expressed by Mr. McDowell, who declared his company also would post the same prize list next year.

"Our firm is so pleased with the good results of the show that we are offering the same prize list next year," he declared. "We are pleased to have had a part in this event, considered by experts to be one of the greatest steps forward taken in the hog raising industry of the state."

CUDAHY HEIR'S DEATH REVEALED BY BURIAL PERMIT

Chicago, September 12.—(AP)—Through issuance yesterday of a burial permit, the death at Dwight, Ill., Monday of John R. Cudahy, son of the late John Cudahy, millionaire packer, became known here.

Cudahy died at the home of Andrew Mickelson, a barber, to whose home he was taken a week ago by two men who remained with him until death. The death certificate ascribed death to myocarditis, and gave Cudahy's age as 46. Mrs. Mickelson said Cudahy was seriously ill when he arrived. The Mickelson home is known as a boarding house patronized by patients at the Keeley cure institute.

Under his father's will a trust fund of $1,500,000 was created for the son, who has received the income from it since 1915.

LEGGE READY TO TELL SENATE OF LOAN PLAN

Chairman Declares Willingness To Give Statement of Board's Methods.

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—Taking notice of statements of members of the senate on the manner in which the federal farm board is making loans, Chairman Alexander Legge said he would be glad to go before any senate committee and give an explanation.

With the exception of some small loans authorized for facilities, Legge said, the board had agreed only to loans supplemental to those already made by the federal intermediate banks.

"Otherwise," he continued, "we would not have been able to make loans to help the farmers with this year's crop because the board does not have the facilities to investigate the applications. Co-operative associations that qualify for loans for the intermediate credit banks are qualified to receive the supplemental loans from the farm board."

Chairman Legge said that throughout the country the wheat storage facilities, particularly at Galveston, Texas, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large number of Atlantic coast seaports, as well as interior terminals, were overloaded with grain, but that he believed the peak had passed and better prices were in prospect.

The board, he added, would discourage wheat growers from increasing their acreage as overproduction had been the cause of most of their ills.

GIRL'S ATTACKER PAYS PENALTY IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Raleigh, N. C., September 12.—(AP) Willis Buckner, 32, white man, was electrocuted at the state prison here today for attacking a young girl in Craven county several months ago. He was the second white man in the history of the electric chair in North Carolina to be executed for this crime.

Buckner was pronounced dead at 10:30 o'clock.

The condemned man had maintained his innocence throughout the trial and up to this morning. After the execution prison officials announced that he had confessed to the Rev. J. B. Turner, a local minister, a few minutes before being led to the execution chamber.

Showers Due In City Today; Mercury Rising

Having been ordered to keep in retirement all day Thursday, Jupiter Pluvius made a rather sensational exit from the city Wednesday night, when floods of water completely covered many streets and gave the city a good drenching generally. More than one inch of rain was recorded during the downpour which came shortly after dark Wednesday. Many traffic accidents were reported to police headquarters, blamed on the conditions of the flooded streets. Others were averted by careful guarding where the receding waters left gaping holes in the pavement.

The official forecast for today calls for scattered showers, but nothing of a torrential nature is anticipated, according to A. H. Scott, assistant meteorologist of the local United States weather bureau.

The temperature trend will be upward, he thinks, but no great change is expected. The range Thursday was from 68 up to approximately 80, and a slight increase in these figures is predicted for today.

MARLIN'S SLAYER TO FACE ACTION BY JURORS TODAY

The Fulton county grand jury today will be asked to return indictments charging murder and highway robbery against Will Biggers, negro, who confessed Wednesday night to the murder of Frank E. Marlin, railway engineer, whose bullet-riddled body was found Saturday night in an abandoned reservoir near the end of Parsons street, it was announced Thursday by Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole.

Biggers, who was arrested by Detectives John W. Lowe, W. D. McGee and W. W. Ford, revealed in a signed confession that he had taken 45 cents in change and a watch which he pawned for $3.50 from Marlin's person after killing him. It was through investigation of pawn shops that the negro was taken into custody.

FLORIDA BANK WILL REOPEN AT GAINESVILLE

Gainesville, Fla., September 12.—(AP)—The Phiefer State Bank of Gainesville will reopen its doors September 16, following confirmation and approval of an order of Comptroller Ernest Amos by Circuit Judge A. V. Long today. The bank closed on July 24.

Depositors will have available five per cent of their deposits when the bank resumes business, the remaining 95 per cent to remain frozen for a period not to exceed 54 months. This is in accordance with the terms of the "freezing plan." Bank officials indicated today their belief that the 54-month period will not be necessary for making available the remaining deposits.

A celebration and barbecue, to which Alachua county citizens have been invited, will feature the opening on Monday.

LINDY AND ANNE PLAN VISIT IN 16 COUNTRIES

New York, September 12.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will visit 16 Central and South American countries when he leaves Miami September 20 to inaugurate the Miami-Dutch Guiana airmail line, the Pan-American Airways announced today.

Colonel Lindbergh will fly 6,000 miles in his tour, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh. He will have also a crew consisting of a copilot, a radio operator and a steward, and will carry passengers on the first leg of the flight as far as San Juan, Porto Rico.

The first hop from Miami will be made in a tri-motored land monoplane, but from San Juan an amphibian plane will be used in flying to South America. The route, which will be in reverse of the one followed by the colonel in his good-will flight a year and a half ago, will carry him down through the West Indies and the east coast of South America to Paramarido, Dutch Guiana, and then around the north coast to the Panama canal zone and through Central America back to Miami.

He will stop several days at Port of Spain, Trinidad, as a courtesy call to the British governor. Other points on the flight are Havana, Camaguey and Santiago, Cuba; Port au Prince, Haiti; Santo Domingo, and San Juan; the Virgin, Windward and Leeward islands; Venezuela, the Dutch East Indies and Cristobal. The return leg will carry him through Panama City, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, British Honduras, the Cozumel island, Mexico.

Merchant Held In Fatal Auto Crash of Augustans

Reidsville, N. C., September 12.—(AP)—S. Schulman, local merchant, was bound over to Rockingham superior court today under $5,000 bond by Judge I. R. Humphreys, in connection with an accident here yesterday in which Mrs. A. C. Nelson, of Augusta, Ga., was killed and her husband slightly injured. The Nelsons' roadster turned over after a collision with Schulman's car.

Relatives who arrived here today took Mrs. Nelson's body to Augusta, where funeral services will be held tomorrow. Each of the Nelsons was about 28 years old. They were en route to Augusta from Philadelphia.

WRITING SPIDERS PREDICT BETTER TIMES AHEAD

Helena, Ark., September 12.—(AP)—Writing spiders, mythical prophets of war, have turned their attention from martial pursuits in a West Helena garden and are predicting good times ahead.

The spiders today quit working on their "W's," considered the beginning of the word "war," and spelled out clearly the word "luxury." They had been trying a week apparently to spell out "war," but stopped each time after the first letter. So they have signed a disarmament pact and are prophesying prosperity.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, Sales, 600; receipts, 333; shipments, 5 points up, at 18.15. 58; stocks, 5,975.

New York, September 12.—(AP)—Early advances in the cotton market were followed by sharp midday reactions today, but prices firmed up again later on trade buying and covering. After selling up to 19.05, December broke 18.80 or fully a cent below the hight level of bureau day, but evidently attracted an increased demand on that figure and closed at 18.94. The general market closed firm at net advances of 2 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 8 points and after rather early fluctuations, prices sold up on coverings or rebuying by recent sellers who were probably influenced by reports of an increased trade demand and comparatively light offerings after early selling had been absorbed.

Relatively steady Liverpool cables encouraged the buying and before the end of the morning active months sold 13 to 16 points above yesterday's closing quotations with October advancing to 18.69 and March to 19.26. The demand then tapered off and the market eased during the middle of the day. The bulges seemed to bring in more southern selling, while there was some liquidation switching out of October to later deliveries in preparation for the possibility of notices toward the end of the month.

Offerings were not particularly heavy or aggressive, but they were sufficient to send prices down to 18.45 toward October and 19.02 for March, or about 9 to 12 points lower on the more active months. If anything, less hedging was in evidence than anticipated by some of the early sellers, and the market firmed up again late in the afternoon on covering or rebuying.

Closing quotations showed rallies of about 14 points from the lowest. There was not much comment on the weather news and while southern hedging was reported on the declines during the middle of the day, much of the pressure was attributed to liquidation combined with some local and Wall Street selling.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET UNCHANGED.

New Orleans, La., September 12.—(AP)—Cotton prices failed to develop any definite trend today and the result was that the close showed little net change for the day. After declining in early trading the market rallied, only to weaken again later under hedge and speculative selling.

This later decline met covering and some buying on the oversold condition of the market and December contracts rallied from 18.53 to 18.79, closing at the latter figure for a net loss of one point. The general market closed 6 points net higher to 1 point lower.

The market opened steady in response to favorable cables. Initial prices showed advances of 1 to 5 points which was soon extended to 6 to 7 points. At these levels, however, the market encountered considerable hedge selling which proved sufficient to carry October off to 18.39, December 18.71 and January 18.77, or 15 to 16 points down.

The market's oversold condition, which traders believed would strengthen the technical position, encouraged trade buying and under this demand October rallied to 18.57, December 18.90 and January 18.94, or 17 to 19 points over the early lows. A renewal of hedge selling, augmented by speculative or short selling checked the advance at these levels and carried active positions off 25 to 28 points, under the top, with October selling around 18.32 and January 18.66.

In the final trading shorts covering rather freely caused a rally of 16 to 18 points, October closing 18.49 and January 18.84.

Receipts 42,833; for week 233,648; for year 906,194; last year 653,035. Exports 12,049; for week 115,053; for year 470,663; last year 497,739; stock 826,459; last year 609,743; stock on shipboard 77,886; last year 76,721; spot sales 38,068; last year 55,823.

Liverpool cables reported that hedge selling in that market had been taken by continental covering, and trade calling and that there was a fair inquiry for cotton cloths in Manchester although many offers were unworkable.

Port receipts today, 42,183. U. S. port stocks 820,234. Exports 12,049, making 489,071 so far this season.

Total sales, 5,017,310 shares.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

New York, September 12.—(AP)—A black fog of pessimism crept into important speculative circles today, and leading shares were heavily liquidated on the stock market. Scores of stocks closed from 3 to 15 points lower. Selling was in such volume that the day's total transactions again crossed the 5,000,000-share mark.

The heaviness of the market was generally attributed to the uncertainties of the credit situation. It has been rumored about Wall Street that administration circles in Washington regard the rapid increases in brokers' loans during the past several weeks with some apprehension. The weekly meeting of the New York Federal Reserve bank this afternoon caused considerable nervousness. It was even rumored that the rediscount rate would again be increased. This rumor gained little credence in banking circles and proved to be unfounded, but the federal reserve weekly brokerage loan compilation published after the close of the market was unexpectedly disappointing.

While the large amount of new investment trust financing, including that of Blue Ridge Corporation, during the past week had dashed hopes of any substantial decline despite the heavy liquidation on the market during the past few days. Most estimates had indicated a small reduction. The increase of $120,000,000 was certainly a blow. Some traders professed to see in this that investment trusts, which generally hold stocks outright rather than on margin, had been large sellers.

A less gloomy aspect of the loan compilation was the disclosure that New York banks, which had been forced to increase their federal reserve borrowings to tide the market over the turn of the month, had been able to call $86,000,000 and pay off much of their borrowings. Corporations and individuals were again financing the market, having increased the loans for "others" $149,000,000. Out-of-town banks increased theirs by $57,000,000.

The reserve condition statements showed that holdings of acceptances bought in the open market had been increased about $40,000,000, to a total slightly larger than that for the like period of last year. This, and an increase of about $10,000,000 in government securities, were more than offset by a decline of about $74,000,000 in rediscounting, and the reserve ratio improved slightly.

The Bank of England again made no change in its discount rate, and this influenced a brief bullish demonstration during the morning. Business news was largely favorable, including another new high record for car loadings in the last week of August. August copper statistics were not altogether pleasing, however, showing that while production was curtailed, stocks increased a little. It was reported that the recent effort to increase the price of red metal to 18 1-4 cents a pound had been abandoned.

Lack of support for such leaders as U. S. Steel was particularly discouraging. Steel Common sold off about 7 points, and rallied only 1 1-2 points from its low. Such issues as American Can, American Telephone, Anaconda, American Water Works, Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Electric and Norfolk and Western, lost from 3 to 6 points. Westinghouse tumbled about 12, but reduced its loss to 8 at the close. Johns-Manville lost 7 points. Commercial Solvents 8 1-2, and Auburn Auto 15.

The market opened with a burst of strength, and pools hurled up some of the volatile issues in violent fashion as the market began to sag in an effort to stay the tide. American Machine and Foundry rose about 21 points, two-thirds of which was later lost. American Type Foundry was sent up 9 points, but it closed 6 lower. Case Threshing rose 12, but tumbled 18 from its top.

Radio was heavily bought for a time, rising to a new high for the present stock at 114 3-4, but it closed at 108 1-2. Off more than a point. Heavy trading developed in the oils, but Standard of New Jersey encountered realizing on its sharp advance of yesterday, closing off a couple of points. Standard of New York reached a new peak in a small gain, but then reacted. Sun Oil rose 4 points to a new top, but closed up only a point. Although the utilities were generally heavy, Columbia Gas moved against the trend, rising 5 points to a new high record, and closing near the top. Philadelphia Co. jumped 11 points to a new peak and held its gain.

Commodities were irregular. Corn lost about a cent a bushel, but wheat was firm on better foreign demand. Cotton futures fluctuated widely, but closed a little higher.

Foreign exchanges were mixed. Sterling Cables sagged to their low level of the year, $4.84 11-16, and French francs and Spanish pesetas were under pressure. Other continental currencies, however, were generally firm.

PEPPERELL PAYS $10.32 DIVIDEND

Biddeford, Maine, September 12.—Earnings of the Pepperell Manufacturing company were $10.32 per share for the year ending June 30, Russell H. Leonard, treasurer reported to the annual shareholders' meeting here today. Earning for the previous year were $9.50. The company manufactures cotton goods.

Net profits increased from $1,026,978 to $1,114,280.

"The industry as a whole still suffers from overproduction due to an unfortunate tendency to run as nearly full time as possible," the report said, "in order to lower costs. The result is that, in spite of a fairly steady cotton market, the selling price of many fabrics is at or below the cost of production. There are a few notable exceptions such as printed fabrics which have grown in popularity faster than producers have lost wisdom."

Discussing the "continued growth and increase in power of the large groups which practice co-operative buying of cotton goods," Mr. Leonard said, "the manufacturers are in danger of being caught between legal restrictions which prevent their entering agreements among themselves to control production or to fix the price at which they will sell their goods, and the co-operative buying of groups, large and powerful enough to fix the price at which they will buy those goods. It would seem unlikely that an industry thus hampered can long pay adequate wages and dividends."

Market Gossip

Cotton Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—Cotton held steady and gained a few points today. Hedge sales were light and there was a good demand for contracts from the interior on all fair-sized dips.

Market seems to be developing more resistance and faster absorbing powers and may be more two-sided hereafter.

ORVIS BROTHERS & CO.

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—There was further rain in the western cotton belt overnight and it more thoroughly confirms the average opinion that the cotton crop will be increased.

The next thing before the market is the August consumption figures, which are expected at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Unless they vary considerably from 550,000 bales they should have no effect upon prices.

Digestion of the crop is now on in earnest and hedge sales will increase steadily with speculators reluctant to buy. Therefore, for bull developments to take place, something fresh must arise for the cause.

January Liverpool due 9:34.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—The market from a steady opening was again called upon to absorb heavy selling. This selling today, however, met resistance in small steady trade buying, holding prices in a narrow range, and after going 10 points below yesterday's close, closed very steady a few points up on the day.

We believe any further decline from this level may only be temporary, as we believe the government has not under-estimated the crop and the final out-turn, with normal weather, will not exceed these figures and there will be a further reduction should we have continued unfavorable weather. Liverpool future are due tomorrow: October 9.89; January 9.94.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, September 12.—(Special.)—After ruling rather erratic this morning, the market bulging at times, only to meet with free offerings, values finally assumed a downward trend, attributed to heavy hedge selling. However, the market bulged again, finals showing no appreciable change for the day.

In view of the indicated inadequate production for this season's probable consumption, we remain of the opinion that higher prices are likely eventually, consequently entertain a favorable opinion of the market, particularly as to buying on recessions.

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—Selling was resumed in today's session, practically all groups with exception of oils sustaining sizeable losses.

Strength in oils followed publication of order of Oklahoma corporation commission shutting down Oklahoma City pool production for 30 days. In other groups, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas and Packard furnished notable exception to the general weakness.

JACKSON BROS., BOESEL & CO.

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—Our contention that the downward readjustment in many stocks, forecast more than a week ago, has not been completed is upheld by the ease with which prices recede on the current circulation of so-called bear rumors.

Important buying appears in wheat on all weak spots by interests who are confident that the government, through the farm loan board, will prevent any radical break in prices.

We look for a new forward movement to start soon in the United Gas Improvement issues.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—Stocks went down again today. Everybody was looking for a reason or trying to invent one. We don't think the news had a thing to do with it.

There is no particular news on U. S. Steel. Technically, 220 would be a logical support point.

BLYTH & CO.

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—With persistent rumors of bad news in the offing pivotal stocks displayed little of the confidence of the previous session in yesterday's market.

In the meantime the policy of seeking undervalued individual stocks would still seem an intelligent one to pursue. Canada Dry appears to be a neglected issue in this category.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK.

New York, September 12.—The cottonseed oil market was moderately active and irregular today, closing at 2 points decline to 5 points advance. The trade was principally among locals and without special feature. Outside buying was lacking, but offerings on the other hand were restricted on account of the steadiness of cotton and lard.

Sales 7,400 barrels. Prime crude $7.62½; prime summer yellow spot $9.00; September closed $9.25; October $9.35; December $9.44; January $9.50; March $9.65.

NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, September 12.—The market for cottonseed oil futures ruled steady today, firmer lard and large August consumption figures being the sustaining influences. Prime summer yellow closed unchanged at 8:35, and prime crude closed at $7.50 to $7.62½. Futures closed steady: September $8.40; October $8.41; December $8.51; January $8.56; March $8.73.

MEMPHIS.

Memphis, Tenn., September 12.—Cottonseed futures closed firm. Closing bid prices: September 37.75, October 38.25, December 40.00, January 41.25; sales 900 tons.

Cottonseed meal futures closed firm; closing bid prices: September 40.75, October 40.85, December and January 41.00; sales 5,800 tons.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
Associated Press Market Editor.

Chicago, September 12.—(AP)—As- rtions that virtually half of the 1929 ospective Argentine wheat crop has en swept away by drought, sent the heat market whirling upward again day. For the first time this sea- n, No. 2 red winter wheat available be used at once sold here at a emium over the price of similar heat deliverable any time during the rrent month. After today's upturn values, however, had gone to about a bushel higher than figures cur- nt 48 hours ago, a rush of selling realize profits led to a sharp set- ck.

Closing quotations on wheat were settled, 1-4c to 7-8c above yester- y's finish. Corn closed 5-8c to 1c wn, oats unchanged to 1-4c off, and ovisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Brisk European buying of Chicago ture deliveries of wheat, together ith improved trans-Atlantic demand r wheat shipments from North merica, went hand in hand today ith reports that the Argentine wheat op is going back fast, and then ances of recuperation are rapidly sappearing. Even with copious ins by September 20, conservative timates today put the maximum eld of Argentine wheat at not more an two-thirds of last year's output. lvices at hand said that for the last ven weeks there has been only 0.3 ch rainfall in Argentine wheat terri- ry, and that a severe lack of sub- il moisture has now become an im- rtant crop factor.

Official announcement that the 1929 heat acreage of Argentina is 8 1-2 r cent under last year's total was so a stimulating influence today in e wheat market here, and so too s an Argentine forecast of higher mperatures and of more dryness ead. Besides, persistent unfavorable oisture conditions in Australia were ported, making the crop outlook pre- rious in the other chief wheat pro- cing region of the southern hemi- here. Meanwhile, flax seed at enos Aires has risen more than c a bushel since the close on Mon- y, and notwithstanding Liverpool spatches telling of absence of de- and there for actual wheat, Liver- ol quotations today on wheat future liveries closed at 2 pence to 2 3-4 nce advance, a gain considerably ore than expected. Another inter- ting circumstance was that primary ceipts of wheat in the United States day were down to 1,570,000 bushels, mpared with 2,823,000 bushels a ar ago.

Rains over a part of the corn belt nded to ease the corn market down ter prices had equalled the season gh price record. Oats sagged with rn, but not until September and ay oats had reached a new top level r the season.

Provisions were responsive to up- rns in the value of hogs.

Total bond sales (par value) $9,916,000.

New York, September 12.—(AP)—The bond market drifted aimlessly today. Scant attention was paid to prime investment issues and quotations fluctuated irregularly, with railroad obligations holding a steady course.

Net losses ranging from 1-2 to 3 1-2 points prevailed in the convertibles. After an upward flare during the forenoon, the stock privilege bonds suffered with the share list in the later trading, although liquidation was only nominal, and prices closed slightly above the day's lows. American Telephone 4 1-2s had a net loss of 2 points. Atchison 4 1-2s dropped 1. International Telephone 4 1-2s yielded 3 1-2. American International 5 1-2s dipped 1 3-4 and Alleghany Corporation 5s, 1944, lost 1-2. Reading Coal and Iron 6s, however, were strong, showing at one time a net advance of 4 points which had been cut in two at the close.

Reports that new financing for the Shell Union Oil Company would comprise a $50,000,000 issue of debentures sent the listed 5s of that corporation to a new low of 93, a point below the previous minimum. The debentures were supported at the bottom, however, and regained half a point for a net loss of 2. Shell Pipe Line 5s, also freely sold, dropped 1 1-2.

Cuba cane sugar issues were depressed on the announcement of the reorganization committee that a receivership for the company seemed inevitable, even though only 28 per cent of the outstanding debentures remained undeposited under the plan for the financial reconditioning of the concern. The debenture 8s went down half a point to 56 1-2, a new low, while the 7s sold off a shade to 57, equaling the previous minimum.

The market for high grade rails remained thin. Evidence of its general tone was the slump in Atchison 4s. Rocky Mountain division, which fell 5 points to the new low of 84 on the trading of a single $1,000 bond. Chicago & North Western General 4s also made a new low of 83 on a 3 1-8 point decline.

Bethlehem Steel 6s sold into lower ground at 104 1-4 against the price of 105, at which they have been called. Certainteed Products 5 1-2s, which had a share rise yesterday, suffered from profit-taking. Keith Corporation First 6s featured the specialty group with a spurt of 3 1-3 points.

The United States government division traded narrowly and irregularly lower. The new treasury 4 7-8s were quoted at par and an eighth in the over-the-counter market, a slight premium over their offering price of 100.

New bond offerings scheduled for tomorrow include a $1,300,000 issue of Iowa Public Service Company first mortgage gold bonds of the 5 1-2 per cent series, due in 1959. They are priced at 97. It also became known that the war department would soon advertise for bids on a $1,500,000 Philippine government 4 1-2 per cent 30-year loan.

CURB TURNS HEAVY UNDER FEARS OF ADVERSE CREDIT DEVELOPMENTS

Few Issues Stage Gains Under Pool Sponsorship

New York, September 12.—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary again in today's curb market as a result of heavy selling influenced by fears of adverse credit developments, but a few issues under pool sponsorship were again marked up to new high levels. While fears of an increase in the New York federal reserve rediscount rate to 7 per cent proved unfounded, Wall Street received a disappointing surprise in the announcement of another increase in federal reserve brokers' loans to a new high record. Most observers looked for a slight change in the loan figures, with many actually expecting a small decrease as a result of the heavy liquidation of stocks during the past week.

Public utility shares again bore the brunt of the selling pressure. Electric Bond and Share and American Gas and Electric each dropped about 5 points, but the former recovered part of its loss. American Superpower, Allied Power, and several other active issues dropped 1 to 3 points. Electric Investors fell 7 on the traditional "selling on the good news" following the publication of an excellent annual earnings report.

Oils also fell back rather sharply, Cosden dropping 4 1-2 points, Gulf 3, and Humble, Vacuum and some of the other leaders a point or two, Ohio Oil again attained a new high record. Recent strength of these issues has been based, in part, on unconfirmed reports of the formation of a large oil shares investment trust.

National Investors continued its spectacular gain by soaring more than 50 points to a new high at 391 3-4, but it lost about 12 points of its gain. The stock sold as low as 11 this year. Northern States Power A ran up 15 points to 269 3-4, and National Public service B ran up more than 17 points to 60, both new high records. Nodlitt Sparks jumped 12 3-4 points to a new top at 62 on a couple of sales.

Establishment of new highs by Ground Gripper, Southern Colorado Power A and United Gas was offset by the establishment of new lows by E. W. Bliss Company, Schiff Company, American Department Stores first preferred and a few other ordinarily inactive specialties. Aluminum dropped 10 1-2 points to 450, which contrasts with the year's high of 539 1-2. Crocker Wheel dropped 15 points on a few odd-lot sales.

BRITISH TO RESUME SOVIET TRADE TALK

London, September 12.—(AP)—Great Britain today took new steps toward resuming commercial and diplomatic relations with soviet Russia. The British government sent to the Norwegian government for transmission to the Russian government a note expressing the view that the time had come when it would be desirable to resume the conversations interrupted several weeks ago by the departure of the soviet plenipotentiary, Dovgalevsky.

It is thought possible a meeting may be arranged between Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson and a representative of the soviet government while Mr. Henderson is at Geneva.

Mr. Henderson and Ambassador Dovgalevsky, of Paris, began preliminary conversations for the resumption of trade and commercial relations and the renewal of diplomatic services on July 29.

They reached a deadlock on August 1, when Great Britain refused to accede to the Russian desire for immediate appointment of ambassadors before questions in dispute were taken up and the Russian amabassador returned to his post.

The question has been in abeyance since then. A note handed by M. Dovgalevsky to Mr. Henderson said that Mr. Henderson's declaration that immediate resumption of diplomatic services was impossible showed that the British government was unwilling or unable to agree to the restoration of normal relations between the two countries.

The note added that Russia would have to devote special new consideration to the question and that the commissariat for foreign affairs would apply for instructions to the central executive committee of the U. S. S. R. Nothing has been heard on the Russian side since.

DAY IN FINANCE

By
R. L. BARNUM

Speculative Fear of Credit Action at Washington Forces Selling Spree; Prices Generally Close Lower After Heavy Market Lasts for Day.

New York, September 12.—It is plainly evident that stock brokers and traders alike have developed jumpy nerves. This is evident from the frequency of sudden sharp declines in stock prices.

Encouraged by London cables received before the opening of the stock market reporting the Bank of England rediscount rate unchanged, stocks here opened strong and active, all groups participating, especially public utilities, steels, oils, rails, industrials. Call money renewed at 8 per cent against 9 yesterday and the strength and activity in the stock market continued on through the second hour. In the noon hour, without any warning stocks suddenly began to break on heavy selling.

All that could be learned was that rumors were being circulated on the exchange floor to the effect that some unfavorable news was coming late this afternoon. Informed Wall Street knows better than to credit vague rumors coming from the stock exchange floor. Nevertheless prices of stocks continued to decline. Soon everybody in Wall Street was calling up everybody else with inquiries as to what bad news was coming. Despite the lack of confirmation of the bad news rumors, stocks continued to decline, indicating plainly that nerves of brokers and traders had reached the jumpy stage.

Early in the day when the stock market was advancing, speculative Wall Street figured that inasmuch as brokers' loans a week ago were up $137,000,000 with the average price of 100 stocks showing an advance for the week of 3.3 points, today's statement after the close of the stock market should show a decrease of not less than $100,000,000, because the average price of 100 stocks for the past week was down 3.7 points. Later in the day, however, when bad news rumors were widespread, Wall Street concluded that today's brokers' loan statement would show that the recent heavy offerings of stock of new investment trusts had offset the weekly decline of 3.7 points in the average price of 100 stocks.

Making Inquiries.

Early in the day stock exchange houses started calling each other up to make inquiries about loans. The results showed that many large houses started the day with their loans up to a new high. Speculative Wall Street does not like to admit it, but the facts are that brokers' loans have gotten on the nerves of the stock market. That is the real explanation for today's sudden break in prices in the noon hour after early strength.

In the noon hour before the decline in prices started, General Electric was up 4 1-2 points compared with last night's closing to 380. Without any hesitation there was a decline to 369. Westinghouse Electric was up 3 7-8 points to 268 7-8. Before there was any halt the price broke to 255 1-8. Steel common was up 2 1-2 points to 243. There was a drop to 234 3-8 before the decline was checked. A new low for this movement since the new high for all time was made ten days ago at 261 1-2.

Another factor making for bearish stock market sentiment is the recent character of the stock market. Yesterday for example the average price of 50 stocks, half rails and half industrials, was up at the close 2.1 points, made up of an advance of .51 of a point in rails and 3.6 points in industrials. Of the total turnover of 4,800,000 shares six stocks made up 1,500,000 shares, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Brands, Radio, United Corporation, Standard Oil of New York, Steel common. Twenty-siv stocks, including the six named made up half of the day's total turnover.

Group By Group.

One day one group of stock is taken in hand and given a whirl and the next day another group. Unless a trader daily picks out one of the fast movers and gets out before the close of the market the chances are that he or she gets hooked.

Stocks of copper in North and South America during the month of August increased 8,851 tons, according to the statement of the American Bureau of Metals despite a decrease of 4,865 tons in production.

Some traders in the stock market who have been bullish for years and have made money have now reached the point where they would rather have money than stocks. Others take the viewpoint that if they get out of the stock market they would not know what to do with their money, "It would be like buying a new fall hat not to wear but only to look at" was the way one trader put it today. For those who have the viewpoint last named Bethlehem Steel preferred is worth studying. The stock which is cumulative as to dividends is not redeemable. It has been depressed by two large offerings this year of common stock. The last offering of common stock, the one now being made, is for the purpose of retiring bonds that will increase the margin of safety for dividends on the preferred stock.

The preferred stock for the past few days has been selling at a price offering an income return of 5 3-4 per cent. That is an attractive income return and more than can be found on many other cumulative preferred stocks. The average income return on seasoned dividend paying common stocks is now well below 3 per cent.

For those who would rather have cash or its equivalent in short term paper which can easily be converted into cash, there is growing interest in bankers' acceptances. This paper, with the indorsement of a bank, is about as good as anything anybody should want from the viewpoint of safety. It can be purchased from the International Acceptance bank here in blocks of $5,000 or even less to yield anywhere from 5 to 5 1-2 per cent. Those in touch with this market say that there has recently been a surprising increase in the demand for such investments from school teachers, clerks, ministers and others with comparatively small income and principal who feel that they cannot afford to speculate, especially when many good stocks offer an income return of less than 3 per cent.

Investment houses with working capital and knowledge of values have recently been picking up good stocks on severe breaks with the stocks thus acquired sold to individuals and investment trusts at private sale.

Sugar.

New York, September 12.—The raw sugar market was quiet today and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 4.02 for spots duty paid.

Inactivity in the spot market and reports of rain in some of the beet producing countries in Europe led to increased selling pressure in raw futures and after opening at advances of 2 points to declines of 1 point prices reacted and closed net unchanged to 2 points lower. Business was not very large in volume and there appeared to be a disposition to limit fresh commitments and await developments. The early steadiness was attributed to covering and trade buying, but the demand was soon supplied and under liquidation or realizing combined with some European and Cuban selling reactions followed with prices at one time 1 to 3 points below the previous close. Covering checked the decline and partial rallies followed with final prices unchanged tor 1 point above the low of the day. Approximate sales 26,150 tons. September closed 2.28; December 2.31; January 2.31; March 2.33; May 2.39; July 2.44 and September 2.50.

Refined was unchanged at 5.40 for fine granulated, with a good withdrawal demand, but no new business reported.

SIMMONS COMPANY BUYS BERKEY AND GAY

New York, September 12.—(Special.)—Simmons Company, international furniture manufacturers and distributors, have acquired the Berkey & Gay Furniture Co., of Grand Rapids, Mich., in a deal linking assets of approximately $45,000,000 it was admitted today by an official of the Simmons company.

Details of the transaction are as yet incomplete, it is understood, but an official announcement is expected in the course of a few days.

The purchase price, or terms of acquisition, were not learned, but it is believed that the Simmons company will part with close to $15,000,000 to obtain the Grand Rapids concern.

It is suggested in some circles that the deal will be completed through an exchange of common stock of the Simmons company for the common and preferred issues of the Berkey & Gay firm, and assumption on the part of the purchaser of Berkey & Gay's funded debt which totaled $1,410,000 as of December 31, 1928. Confirmation of this report could not be obtained.

The consolidation would provide an organization with annual sales of approximately $50,000,000, of which approximately four-fifths would accrue from units now in the Simmons system. The latter would acquire a company manufacturing a complete line of furniture, with a modern factory in Grand Rapids, having floor space of 1,218,260 square feet.

The Simmons Company, a holding and operating concern, has four furniture manufacturing plants in the United States, the chief of which is located at Kenosha, Wis., occupying 90 buildings; the others are located at San Francisco, Elizabeth, N. J., and Atlanta, Ga.

BY W. G. HARDIN,
Market Editor The Constitution

Trade demand resulted in a slight advance of prices at closing time yesterday on the cotton market.

New York futures ranged upward 2 to 8 points, while the New Orleans price level was up 6 points to 1 down.

Southern selling throughout the day acted as a severe deterrent to the advance, but was not strong enough to keep prices down. The upclimb at times was as much as 20 to 25 points on various contracts, but pressure later cut this gain to the closing figures.

The market appears to be in a well liquidated state, if further selling does not appear. It is the old, old story, however, of the goose that laid the golden egg.

According to advices from the battle front the selling at present is mainly for southern dealers, as in the past at this season of the year. Apparently this class of traders are impatient to take from the market what profits they can, fearing future declines. They impel the decline by their action.

Hedging operations, however, are believed to have reached a climax so that with one eye on weather and the other on trade news, dealers in the futures market will probably not have to count this additional factor as deserving of further serious consideration.

The weight of trade speculation has apparently become equal to the pressure of selling, for the time being at least.

There is at present an underlying situation that puzzles many alleged marketwise speculators.

The statistical position of cotton is indisputably bullish, and crop condition is likewise of a nature to promote a tendency for higher prices.

The government, always a conservative, has in issuing its September 1 report kept to a safe figure, and not underestimated or overestimated the crop to such an extent as to cause much change.

Further reactions downward may be in line but the tone should be for higher prices.

NORFOLK-MIAMI AIR LINE STARTS LAST OF OCTOBER

Greenville, S. C., September 12.—(AP)—Sam Taylor, pilot of the Stout D. and C. Lines, announced here today that airplane passenger service connecting Norfolk, Va., and Miami, Fla., would be inaugurated between October 15 and November 1, with Charleston, Jacksonville and Savannah as "flag stations" along the route.

He said two 30-passenger planes would be used, with trips every other day. One plane, he added, would leave Norfolk and the other Miami on the same day, requiring nine hours to make the trip.

A crew of five will probably be carried on each plane. The ships represent an investment, he said, of $160,000 each. Taylor, who is now flying between Cleveland and Detroit, said he had been assigned to one of the new planes.

STEEL FREIGHT RATE HEARING IS POSTPONED

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today postponed from October 20 to December 20 the date for putting into effect revised freight rates on iron and steel articles in eastern territory.

After an investigation of iron and steel rates by the commission changes in rates were prescribed on June 3 to become effective October 20. Since that time a number of protests have been made against the revised rates by New York and New Jersey shipping interests.

COTTON QUALITY LOWER IN GRADE FOR 1929 SEASON

The quality of cotton held in the United States on August 1 was lower in grade than that on hand August 1, 1928, according to an estimate published by the bureau of agricultural economics, U. REDUCED RATES ON GRAINS PLANNED BY WESTERN ROAD

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific & Wabash railroads today filed with the interstate commerce commission revised rates on grain and grain products providing for reductions of 7 cents per 100 pounds from Kansas City to gulf ports.

This action was taken under a recent decision by the commission permitting other roads on one day's notice to meet a similar reduction put into effect by the Kansas City Southern August 15.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific already have put into effect the reduced rates, leaving the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and the Chicago & Alton yet to file their revised tariffs, these roads having been given permis-

CANADA WHEAT CROP SMALLEST IN FIVE YEARS

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—A report today to the department of commerce from Commercial Attache Meekins at Ottawa, said the preliminary crop estimate issued by the Canadian government indicated the smallest wheat crop this year since 1924.

The estimate, Meekins reported, indicated the total wheat crop this year would be 293,792,000 bushels compared with 566,726,000 bushels last year. This year's crop, he added, was estimated at 22,066,000 bushels of fall wheat and 271,726,000 bushels of spring wheat.

TREASURY ISSUE OVERSUBSCRIBED BY NEARLY BILLION

Washington, September 12.—(AP)—Oversubscription by nearly a billion dollars to the $500,000,000 treasury certificate offering was attributed today by Secretary Mellon to be due to the tax-exempt feature and the fact that the nine-month certificates provided temporary investments for idle funds.

The $300,000,000 in cash the treasury will receive from the certificates plus the September income tax payments, expected by treasury officials to approximate $500,000,000, is looked to by the treasury to care for the government's expenditures until next December 15.

'Business Reciprocity' Program Outlined By B. and P. Club at Dinner Meeting

Inaugurating a program for "Business Reciprocity" seven members of the Business and Professional Women's Club outlined work and told how women might promote interests at the dinner meeting held at the Winecoff hotel Wednesday evening. Miss Lucy Marvin Adams, director of gymnastics, said, in part: "Exercise brings poise through co-ordination; strength to the muscles; flexibility to the joints and better efficiency through better health. The aim of every woman should be calm nerves and a happy face, outward tokens of a healthy body and usually possible by means of systematic, persistent exercise." Miss Lucigene Alexander, of the Remington-Rand Business Service, told some of the 46,000 different items handled by their organization since the merger of nine office equipment companies. "The greatest blessing, so I believe," she said, "is the noiseless typewriter. It, too, will give the stenographer calm nerves and a happy face."

Social Service Work.

Miss Idella Bellah, clerk in the probation court, stated: "Ours is really a social service work," Miss Bellah explained, "we get our cases from the other courts, those they do not want to send to the chaingang or want to get out of it on account of youth, old age or sickness. We have only misdemeanor cases, whose sentences cover short periods and and whose offenses run from stealing auto rides to watermelons, hoboing, etc. Their ages run from 16 years to 70 years, and our greatest good is in reconciling estranged couples and in forcing men to contribute to the support of dependent children." One of the first women in Atlanta to make a specialty of making surgical supports was Miss Elizabeth Eager, of the firm of Eager & Simpson, and it was with this particular phase of their work that she talked. Mrs. Alva Glenn, office manager of Betty & Glenn, told of the various kinds of insurance handled by her company and of the insurance companies represented.

Miss Harrison Speaks.

Miss Mamie L. Harrison, of J. P. Allen & Co., and the first saleswoman employed by Mr. Allen when he started in business, has completed her twenty-first anniversary with that organization. Miss Harrison stressed the necessity of continual study of her work. "When I began there were only the primary colors to know. Today there are shades and tones undreamed of then. The most interesting phase of my work might be termed 'personal service.' By that I mean making special trips to New York in interest of certain customers, or someone will give me a stipulated amount to spend for a trousseau or some special outfit and tell me to expend it to the best advantage." Miss Kate E. Hammerschmidt, of Ivan Allen-Marshall Company, said that her special line was engineering and drafting material, but that as yet, she had comparatively few calls from women for these articles. Miss Hammerschmidt is, so far as known, the only woman in Atlanta in this particular line of work.

The program chairman, Miss Rebecca Shuman, has arranged a party for Wednesday and one Wednesday, September 18, at the home of Miss Lucigene Alexander and Miss Leita Thompson, 980 Waverly way, N. E. Mrs. Cecil Fuller was appointed chairman of the Christmas card committee, the proceeds to be used to increase the student loan fund. Members are requested to attend the round table luncheons held each Friday from 12 to 2 o'clock at the Garden Tea room, near Five Points. Messages were read from absent members, including Miss Bess Woodrum, Mesdames Martha Clark, Blanche S. Richy and E. T. Morgan.

Berryman, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mize, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Booth, Mesdames M. A. Groover, Conway Freeman, O. C. Cox, Callie Hancock, Mary Powell, Harriett Carpenter, Macy Oneil, J. A. The marriage of Miss Edith Marchman to Eugene Broughton Hooper, of Jacksonville, Fla., formerly of Atlanta, took place at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Calvary Methodist church, with Rev. Felton Williams officiating, in the presence of a wide circle of friends and relatives. Madonna lilies, gladioli and dahlias filling wicker baskets were arranged before the background of palms and a fourteen-branched candelabra holding cathedral candles. Smilax was festooned from the choir loft and caught at intervals with clusters of dahlias tied with white satin ribbon.

Preceding the ceremony, a musical program was rendered by Miss Jo Beth Apperson, who played several numbers on the harp, and Miss Lucile Price, accompanied by Miss Mary Grogan, sang several selections. The "Lohengrin" wedding march was played for the processional, and Mendelssohn's was used as the recessional.

The bridesmaids wore gowns fashioned alike of chiffon in pastel shades, and large picture hats to match. They carried roses showered with pastel shaded flowers. Miss Ragsdale was gowned in pink; Mrs. Smith wore orchid, and Miss Hooper wore yellow.

Mrs. L. G. Woodard, matron of honor, was gowned in blue chiffon, and Miss Marguerite Warde, maid of honor, wore green chiffon, their gowns being fashioned the same as the bridesmaids, and they carried the same kind of bouquets.

LOCAL GASOLINE PRICE TO DROP THIS MORNING

The majority of Atlanta's gasoline stations will this morning take down the 24-cent price mark, substituting cards giving 22 cents as the new price.

Of the five major gasoline companies operating in the city three announced Thursday that the reduction would go into effect when the stations open this morning. Another said it would meet any reduction and only one reported no plans for a change.

The Wofford, Standard and Reed companies were those announcing the cut. Officials of the Gulf said they had made no plans for a reduction but if one were made they would meet it immediately. The office of the Texas company reported that it had received no instructions for a cut, but that any cut probably would be met.

The slash follows a two-week period with the price at the 24-cent level. The rate was increased to this figure from 22 cents when the new 6-cent state gasoline tax went into effect on September 1. The raise marked the first time since July, 1928, that gasoline had sold here as high as 24 cents.

The reduction brings the Atlanta price to about the same level being paid by the majority of other southern cities, although in a few towns competition between independent and chain stations has sent the rates lower.

Wesley Memorial church is prepared to entertain all their regular members and a large number of visitors tonight when a pageant depicting the 60 years of progress made by the negro race will be presented.

The pageant, written and directed by Mrs. M. E. Tilly, of Atlanta, will be enacted by members of the church. They show the connection which Paine college, of Augusta, one of the church's schools for colored people, has had with the progress of the negro.

A feature of the pageant will be the singing of the Big Bethel choir. The choir will present a number of spirituals. The Big Bethel choir is one of the best known organizations of negro singers.

Many of the prominent officials of the M. E. Church, South, will be present for the pageant. It will be offered at 8 o'clock and no admission will be charged.

Mayor Ragsdale, who was a pioneer live stock dealer before entering politics, will be the auctioneer, and Thursday extended invitations to local live stock dealers to be present at the auction. AFTER JUDGE GRANBERY GAVE US A GOOD TALKING TO, FOR FIGHTING WITH THE PELHAMS, I WENT HOME. DOC WATERS CAME OVER TO MY HOUSE AND TOLD ME THAT HE HAD ORDERS FROM THE JUDGE TO GET RID OF OUR HOUSEBOAT.

GEE! WE FELT GLOOMY. EVERYTHING IS GOING WRONG WITH US BUT THE PELHAMS ARE HAVING A GOOD TIME, IN A LAUNCH. I WENT HOME. WHEN PASSING DOC WATERS HOUSE DOC CALLED ME IN AND SAID HE HAD SOME GOOD NEWS.
DOC SAID OUR HOUSEBOAT WAS SAFE BECAUSE HE GOT THE JUDGE TO CHANGE HIS MIND. I SAID "SHUCKS, DOC, IT'S TOO LATE, NOW THAT OUR HOUSEBOAT IS GONE!" DOC YELLED "WHAT'S THAT? WHY I DIDN'T TAKE YOUR HOUSEBOAT AWAY.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

JERRY MUSKRAT SHOWS OFF.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The humblest person often will
—Old Mother Nature.

"You're a very fine swimmer," said Flip politely to Jerry Muskrat.

"When have you seen me swim?" demanded Jerry Muskrat.

"Why, the other day when I tried to catch you," said Flip.

"Pooh, that was nothing!" said Jerry. "I was just playing. That wasn't real swimming. I let you get as close to me as you did just for fun."

He suddenly dived and went down deep.

"Well, all I can say is that if that wasn't real swimming I don't know what is," said Flip. "Did you swim under water? I don't see how any one can swim under water."

"Oh, that's easy," replied Jerry Muskrat. "First, you draw your lungs full of air, then you put your head under water, open your eyes and just swim. Watch me now."

Jerry took a long breath and dived. Being on the bank above him, Flip and Bowser the Hound, who was with Flip, could see Jerry in the water. They saw him swim clear across the Smiling Pool without once coming to the surface. Then they lost sight of him. That was because Jerry came up among the rushes on the other side. A moment or two later he poked his head out of water right beneath them again.

"My!" exclaimed Flip. "I don't see how you do it. I wish I could swim under water like that. I can't swim under water at all."

"You don't have to," replied Jerry, "but I do, and that makes the difference."

"What do you have to swim under water for?" Flip inquired.

"For a number of things, replied Jerry. "I get some of my food down on the bottom of the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool."

"You do!" exclaimed Flip.

Jerry nodded. "I'll show you," said he. He suddenly dived and went down deep. He was gone so long that Flip began to be anxious. He was just about to ask Bowser if he supposed anything could have happened to Jerry when the latter popped his head out of water. In his mouth was something that Flip didn't recognize at all.

"What is that you have there?" asked Flip.

Jerry didn't speak. He couldn't. His mouth was full. Instead, he swam over to a favorite log and climbed out on it. There he sat, very busy for a few minutes. Flip watched, full of curiosity. Jerry seemed to be opening something. He was. It was a fresh water mussel, or clam, as some people call it. In a moment he had the mussel opened and ate what was inside the shells. The two shells dropped in the water. Jerry then smacked his lips.

"If I couldn't stay under water I couldn't get one of those fellows," said he, "and they certainly are good eating. Now I'll go get me a root."

Once more Jerry dived and this time he headed toward the rushes on the other side. In a movement Flip noticed one of those rushes moving violently. Then it disappeared down in the water. Almost at once Jerry Muskrat's head appeared. He came swimming back with a rush in his mouth. He cut off the stalk and began to nibble the root.

"Now do you see why it is necessary for me to be able to swim under water?" said he.

Flip nodded. "I'm learning every minute," he replied. "I think you must be the greatest swimmer in all the Great World."

UNIQUE TIRE TEST PLANNED FOR TODAY

To usher in the week-end opening program of the new Select Tire Service, Inc., 312 Spring street, an air show featured by an unusual test of an automobile tire and a parachute jump will be staged by officials of the new company at the Candler airport at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mayor Pro Tem. Robert Pennington will throw a Goodrich Silvertown De Luxe cord tire, mounted on a wheel and inflated, out of an airplane flying 1,500 feet above the airport.

Bonnie Rowe, skilled Atlanta parachute jumper, will make a leap from a plane in an effort to beat the records made at the recent national air races at Cleveland, Ohio, in landing close to a spot marked on the ground.

Pennington Picked Tire.

The tire which will be subjected to the unique test was picked by the acting mayor from the regular stock of the Select Tire Service, Inc., the new Atlanta complete automobile service plant that will open its doors officially Saturday morning at sunrise. The tube in this tire is one of the new Goodrich air containers, which are said to be puncture sealing, and which will be manufactured here when the Atlanta plant of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company goes into production early next year.

According to Ed Thilenius, manager of the new station, similar tests with Silvertown tires and these tubes have shown that they will stand up under the force of this impact when dropped from an altitude of 1,000 feet. Just what will happen when the tire strikes the ground from the higher altitude station officials would not predict. It is estimated that the tire will strike the ground at a speed of 200 miles per hour. A regular wire wheel will be used and the tire has been inflated to the recommended pressure. In tests made from lower altitudes the wheel has been badly bent and broken, but examination has shown not the slightest injury to the tire or the tube.

Following the test, the tire and wheel will be put on display at the Select station, where it will be one of a number of unusual tire and rubber displays arranged for the opening Saturday. Select officials also will exhibit one of the world's largest tires, a Goodrich airplane cord, size 64 by 14, which was built for experimental work on large bombing and transport planes.

And as a forecast of what may be expected in tire fashions for the modern car, there also will be an exhibition of tires laquered in brilliant colors to match the new car body creations.

LAVARRE BARES DEAL TO CONTROL PAPERS

Macon, Ga., September 12.—(AP)—Testifying in his own defense, William Lavarre today declared he was told A. R. Graustein might lose his job as head of the International Paper Company unless an arrangement for financing four southeastern newspapers was immediately revised.

Lavarre said he was quoting William N. Hurlbut, vice president of the company, and the occasion was a conference on the eve of Graustein's appearance before the Massachusetts trade commission in April of this year.

Harold Hall is suing Lavarre for equal operating control of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, the Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and Journal and the Columbia (S. C.) Record. The papers were bought with $870,000 furnished by the paper company shortly before the company's affairs were brought to the attention of the Massachusetts and federal trade commissions.

Investigated Prospects.

The witness said he had asked Hall in 1928 to go with him after he himself had investigated prospects in the southeast. He testified that he suggested to Hall that the International might finance the enterprise and that Hall had introduced him to Joe Fearing, an official of the company. Lavarre said Graustein promised $2,500,000 for the project, and that three arrangements were submitted to him as a basis of operation. He said he first had submitted a plan to Graustein.

Lavarre quoted Graustein as suggesting that the two of them go south and proceed with plans, the last of those submitted having been tentatively agreed on. The witness said that although he had since repeatedly requested the company to submit to him a legally drawn and acceptable working arrangement, it was never forthcoming.

Lavarre continued that he had negotiated for all the four papers which were bought and had turned down deals which Hall had arranged because he didn't think they were valuable. He said Hall finally had told him he was going to the paper company with one of the rejected proposals.

Describes "Storm."

Then came what Lavarre said was "the storm of investigation."

"I had negotiated the purchase of the Augusta and Columbia papers," the witness said, "and had signed the Spartanburg contract, when I received a summons to New York from Mr. Graustein's secretary. When I arrived I found five or six attorneys and several company officials in conferences. When I saw Mr. Graustein he said he was in trouble. He said the Spartanburg deal would go through, however, which was surprising to me.

"Mr. Graustein left and I then saw Hurlbut and other officials intermittently during the day. In the course of the conversations, 'Hurlbut found that Hall and I had signed two-year notes aggregating $870,000, which were non-collateral, in that no stock was pledged with the notes."

Lavarre continued that Hurlbut suggested that Graustein might lose his job unless the notes were immediately changed to collateral notes. Another snag presented itself, the witness related, when attorneys advised that a time note collateral or not, but bearing 10 per cent interest, would be illegal in New York.

Lavarre said he then signed a demand, collateral note for $870,000 on the assurance of Hurlbut that he would not be molested in management of the papers for two years. Hurlbut declined to give him a letter promising the two-year respite, Lavarre said, on the ground that investigators would get it. He said the stock had not been turned over to the company, because the original two-year agreement had not been carried out.

Denies Power Knowledge.

Lavarre testified that when he came south he did not know of the paper company's $200,000,000 power holdings, except that he understood vaguely that it owned power sites in Canada and New England. He said he did not know the company sold power at all. He was first appraised of its power connections accurately on reading a newspaper trade publication, he added.

He said that at no time had Hall asked him for an equal share in control of the papers, and that the only agreement was that Hall make as much as his previous salary, plus a working interest in the papers.

Lavarre explained that he had plans for a holding company and a management company on a 60-40 basis respectively, and that he planned for Hall to have a "good sized block of the management company stock."

He quoted Hall as saying when the federal trade commission investigation came up, that he (Hall) was through, and that Lavarre was "out on a limb."

Adjournment was taken after the reading of what Lavarre had introduced as contracts he had proposed to the paper company whereby he would turn over the stock in the papers to the company. He said he had declined to turn over the stock when a two-year signed agreement was not forthcoming.

The stock has been brought into federal court here, where the hearing of Hall's suit is being held under agreement. Today was the 13th day of the hearing. Lavarre was expected to resume the stand tomorrow.

Baltimore Opens 200th Birthday Party Noisily

Baltimore, Md., September 12.—(AP) Pealing of bells, shrieks of whistles, the music of many bands and the tramp of marching feet, resounded today as Baltimore started observing the two hundredth anniversary of the chartering of the city.

The day was the first of four designated for the bi-centenary observance and the biggest feature was a military parade through the business part of the city. Today was also the one hundred fifteenth anniversary of the bombardment of Fort McHenry which inspired the writing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and in the celebration program were exercises at the fort at which General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, delivered the main address.

High officers of the army, navy and marine corps came here to do honor to the city's anniversary as did representatives of a dozen foreign governments, members of congress and official delegations from many other cities. The battleship New York headed a flotilla of naval ships visiting the city. The day's celebration included the parade, exercises at Fort McHenry, the unveiling of markers for the boundaries of the original city. and a display of flying maneuvers by army, navy and marine planes.

He-Man Likes Perfumes And Lilac Preferred

Chicago, September 12.—(AP)—The National Barber and Beauty Supply Men's Association boldly announced today that the American he-man is secretly very fond of perfumery.

Lilac is the scent that sends man on his way rejoicing. He likes it on his face and his hair. Its popularity, the association agreed, is based on its reputation as being "mannish."

The gentle scent of violet is in bad odor with males, the barbers said, classifying it as "too dainty," but rose in hair tonic goes over big. Men-about-town have a leaning toward jasmine and ordinary fellows, untutored in the art of personal perfuming, prefer the potpourri of scents provided by bouquet.

WRECKAGE OF RUSS DESTROYER LEADS TO BELIEF OF LOSS

Revel, Estonia, September 12.—(AP) Wreckage indicating that a Russian destroyer may have foundered in a recent storm while participating in maneuvers of the red fleet, has been found on the Estonian side of the gulf of Finland.

A lifebelt marked "Voikoff," and ships' papers bearing the name "Trotski" were among the relics. Authorities here recalled that the soviet destroyer "Trotski" was recently renamed the "Voikoff."

LOCAL STOCK LISTED "OVER-THE-COUNTER"

Notice of the listing of Alertox stock on the over-the-counter market in New York has been received at the headquarters of the company in Atlanta. Application has been made to list the stock on the produce exchance, the announcement says, and officials of the company expect action in the matter at an early date. The company was recently organized, and the popularity of the product it manufactures has caused expansion of the company's business, its officers announce. The business now covers most of the south, it is said, and plans are being made to extend it over the entire United States as well as foreign countries.

LOCAL CONSUMERS NOW PAYING STATE TAXES ON TOBACCO

As a result of the increase in cigar and cigarette prices brought about by the action of a number of local dealers in deciding to pass the 10 per cent state tax on to the consumer in the future, Atlantans are now paying 11 cents for 10-cent cigars and 17 cents for a 15-cent package of cigarettes.

Some of the dealers have already put the increase into effect and others are expetced to do so in the next few days. The dealers have been absorbing the state tax for more than a year, but found that if they intended staying in business they would have to pass the tax along, one dealer said.

The state tax, which goes to payment of Confederate veterans' pensions, adds one cent to each 10-cent or fraction purchase. Thus, a five-cent cigar costs six cents, or two five-cent cigars cost 11 cents. Two 15-cent packages of cigarettes cost 33 cents.

Dr. Broughton founded the Tabernacle more than 15 years ago and also founded a Baptist hospital here which has been taken over by the state board and now is known as the Georgia Baptist hospital. During his ministry in Atlanta he was active in civic as well as religious fields. Since leaving this city he has served Christ church in London during the war, and churches in Knoxville, Tenn., and in Jacksonville, Fla.

GRIFFIN POLICE DENY DRY OFFICERS' CHARGE

Brand Alleged Failure To Aid in Prohi Arrest "Ridiculous."

Charges aired in a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Griffith here Thursday that Griffin policemen had refused to co-operate with federal prohibition agents in arresting J. A. Green were vigorously denied Thursday afternoon by F. L. Williams, assistant chief of police at Griffin.

"Those federal agents never would have succeeded in getting Green out of Griffin if it hadn't been for our men," Williams declared, "and the charge that we didn't help them is ridiculous."

Testimony given at Green's hearing Thursday was to the effect that he had refused to accompany the officers to Atlanta after his arrest and that efforts to secure help from the local force had been unavailing.

Judge Griffith declared that such a situation was serious and flayed the alleged failure to give needed assistance.

It was testified that federal agents had gone to Green and contracted with him for the manufacture of a copper still-worm and that when it was completed they had put him under arrest. Green then declared that if they took him to Atlanta it would be in a hearse.

He was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond on a charge of making and possessing property designed for manufacturing intoxicating liquor in violation of Section 30, Title 27, of the United States code.

ATLANTA TEACHERS ARE CONTRIBUTORS TO NEW YEARBOOK

The fourth yearbook of the department of classroom teachers of the National Education Association carries two unique articles written by Atlanta teachers. "Doing Things With the Past," written by Miss Odille Ousley, fourth grade teacher at Faith elementary school for several years, describes a geography-history project in a delightful way. The setting is in Faith school and many of the students appear as characters in the article. Miss Ousley is now teaching in the Normal school at Slippery Rock, Pa.

"Community Life," by Mrs. P. A. Johnson, first grade teacher at Lee Street school, tells the history of a marvelous development in community civics with 34 six-year-olds. The whole activity centered around Colorado, the state assigned to Lee Street school by the N. E. A. to entertain during the recent convention in Atlanta. The reader of the article goes on many excursions with the class and takes part in every civic act.

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I was rundown and underweight, as girls sometimes are. One of my friends told me about your medicine. I have gained strength and I work every day in a laboratory."—Winnie Davis Dorsey.

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Words cannot explain what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. My mother always kept it in her house for years. She calls it 'the old reliable.' Before my first baby was born she urged me to take it because I was so terribly weak, and I gave it a good trial. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. At one time I had to lie down four or five times a day. I still take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for I feel that it gives me strength to be a good mother to my little family. I will gladly answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

"When my little daughter was born, we were living on a homestead way up in northern Alberta, Canada. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic didn't seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. One day I felt good, the next day I might feel bad but I kept on with the Vegetable Compound until I felt well again. It is a wonderful medicine for it surely brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any woman will write to me I will tell her all I can about this medicine."—Mrs. William Parent.

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. For years I suffered, having to lie down frequently and often I felt so weak I could hardly stand up. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little schoolgirls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better. My head only bothers me once in a while for which I praise your Vegetable Compound. I am always recommending it to other ladies when we get talking together."—Mrs. Della Hutsell.

By Ralph McGill.

Birmingham's Barons, managed by the cagey Johnny Dobbs, cinched the Southern league pennant yesterday afternoon by taking a double-header from the docile Lookouts. It was the second straight pennant for Dobbs.

Atlanta, playing listlessly against the Nashville Volunteers, slithered down into fifth place and took anchor. The Crackers cannot possibly move out of the second division in the remaining games.

The Crackers, after an auspicious start, slumped terribly, rose from the dead and chugged right up to within two and one-half games of first place only to collapse and fall dead again. They finished 14 1-2 games out of first place.

VOLS SECOND.

Nashville, for 13 years one of the supports of the league's lower foundations, revived under the direction of Clarence Rowland (winner of the 1917 world series with the White Sox) and finished in style in second place.

But for a fuzzy start the Vols might have won the flag. Once they got going they were invincible in their own park. They dropped seven games in it early in the season. Had they won a majority of them they would be in front today.

On the road the Vols were just another ball club. Much of their impetus was supplied by Jim Poole, a veteran player given his outright release early in the season before play began. He broke the Southern league record for home runs, hitting 31 to smash Nick Cullop's (Atlanta) record of 30 hit in 1925. Poole hit all but about four of his over the right field fence at Nashville, it being the shortest in organized baseball.

GOOD RECORD.

Rowland encountered many injuries at the start but kept gamely at it. Had he been off to a good start in his own park the result might have been different. His record is the feature one of the year. He is the only manager to overcome the Nashville jinx since Roy Ellam won a pennant in 1916.

New Orleans, another club which had a poor beginning, stayed in the race practically all the way, but was never able to really take over the lead. They finished in third place, having cinched that position.

CHICKS FOURTH.

The Crackers led a sorry second division. Little Rock finishes in sixth place with Mobile in seventh and the old familiar figure of the Lookouts bringing up the rear. It was the Lookout club which fattened the Baron average all year. They dropped two to the winners to give them the pennant and were a great rock in a weary land to John Dobbs all year.

Surprises of the season were restricted to Nashville. The Vols were not expected to finish up there. The other clubs finished about as the serious thinkers doped them in the preseason reviews.

LOOKOUTS FAIL.

Chattanooga spent the most money with the least results. Jimmy Johnston, manager, was unable to get any sort of combination and the Lookouts were never in the race. The Lookouts are 36 1-2 games out of first place today.

Little Rock, given Sunday baseball by a revision of the state law, spent little money in constructing a ball club. They sold several young players, notably Jim McLeod, shortstop, to make up financial deficits.

Atlanta was sold to, and later rejected by the Washington Senators. Reports of the sale of Mobile, Chattanooga and Little Rock franchises were denied and are as yet unrevived.

Birmingham, the winner, gave the only consistent performance of the year. They deserved to win. The victory was something of a personal triumph for Johnny Dobbs. Rulings of Judge K. M. Landis in alleged baseball "cover-up" deals deprived him of Jay Partridge, infielder, and a pitcher. He replaced not only them but the losses from the former year caused by sales and the draft. And won the pennant.

FEW STARS.

The Southern league had fewer young players of prominence than they have had in some years. The play of the clubs in the second division was generally poor. The race, with Atlanta and Memphis in it part of the way, and New Orleans and Nashville pushing the Barons most of it, was a good one.

There will probably be managerial changes at Mobile, Chattanooga and Little Rock next spring. The Cracker owner is also considering a change and a policy whereby he will use a number of young players.

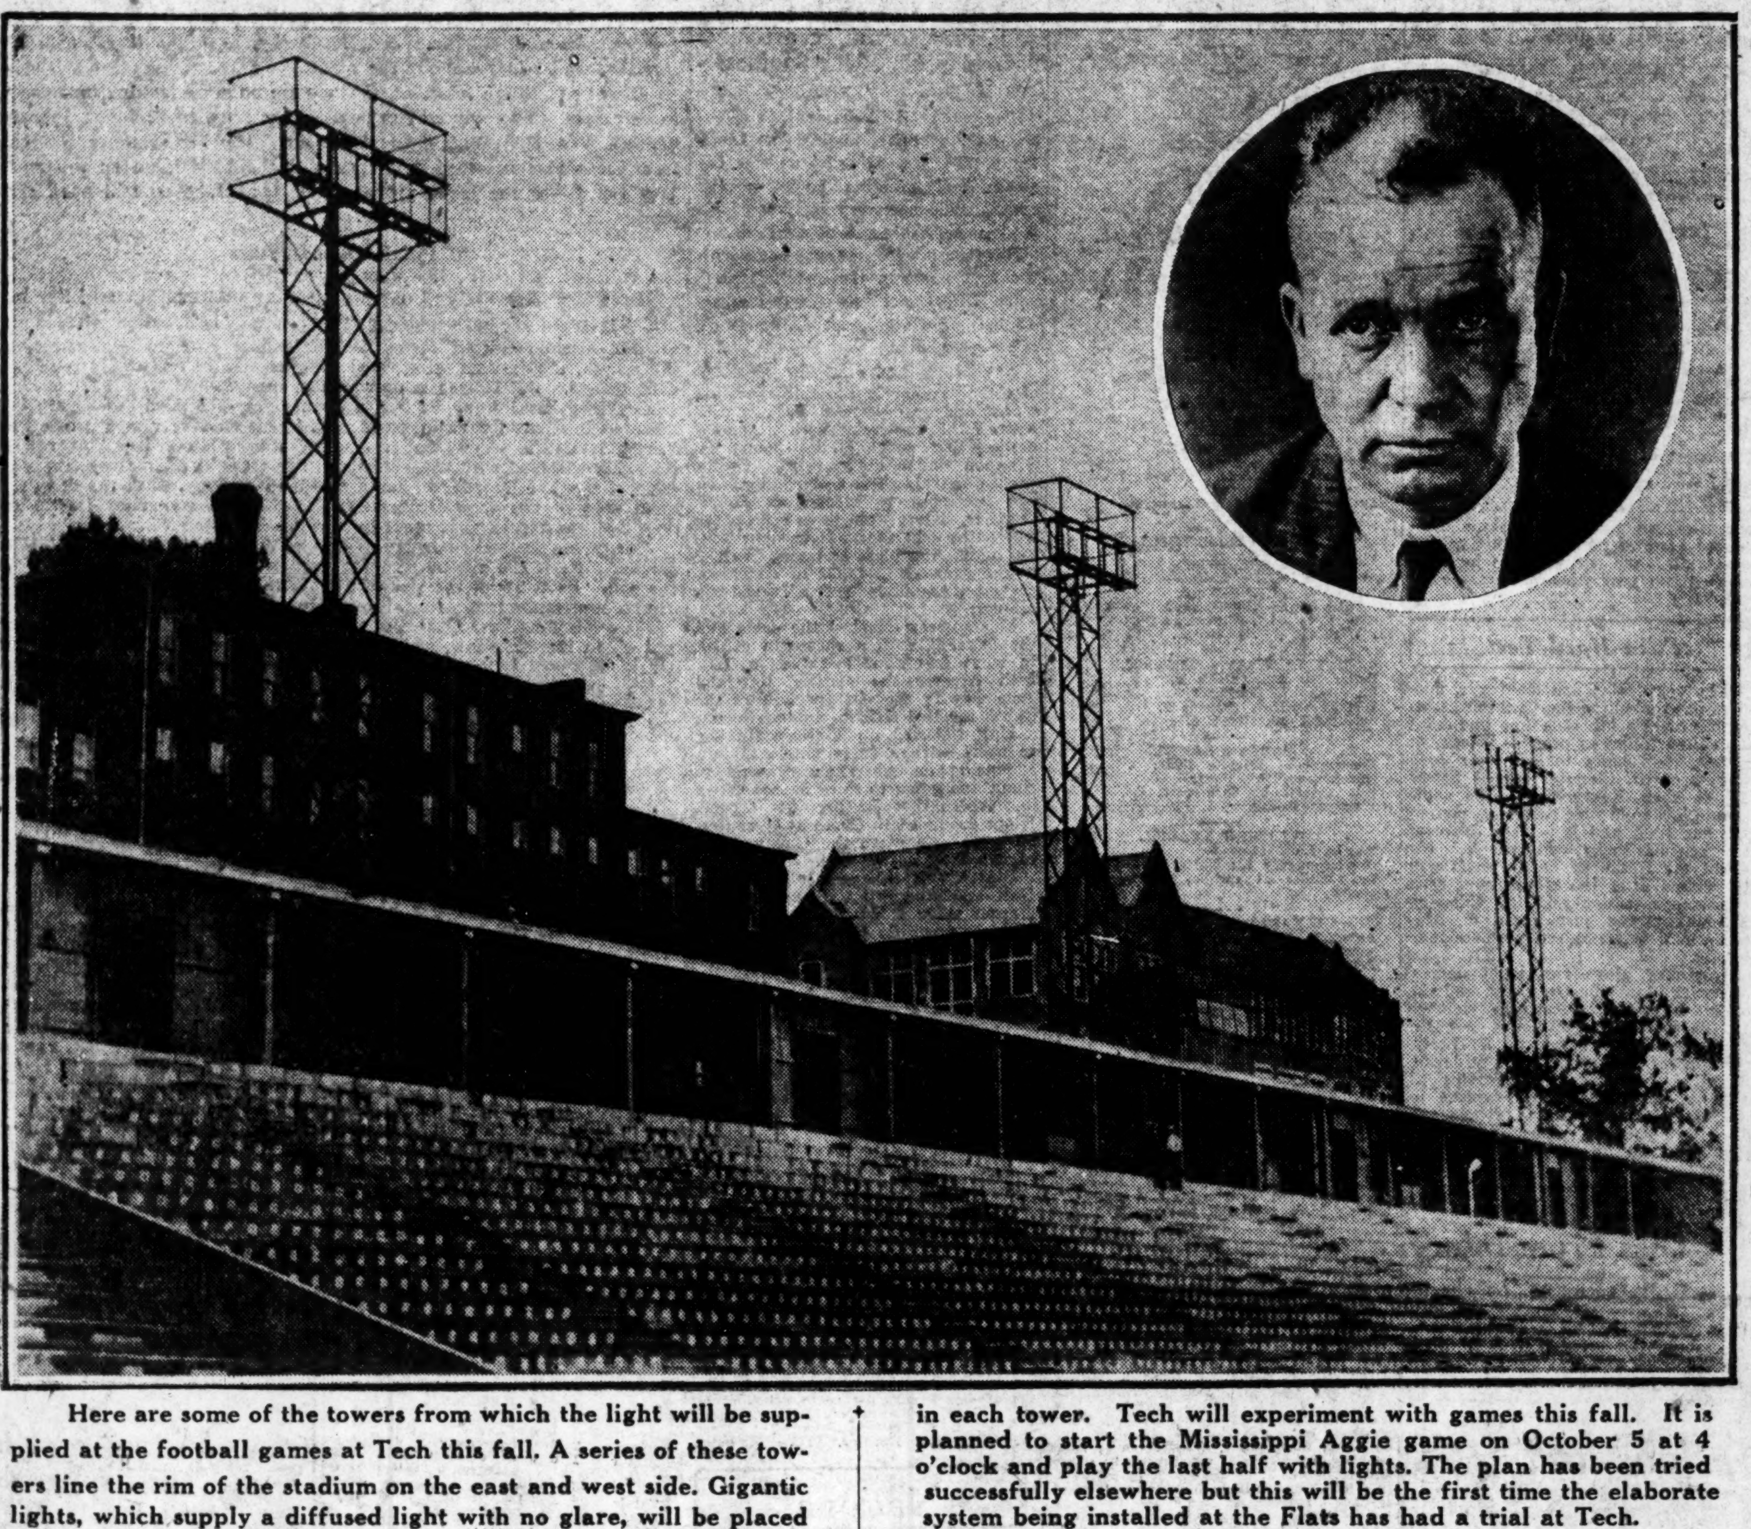
Towers in Lighting System for Night Football Go Up at Tech



Here are some of the towers from which the light will be supplied at the football games at Tech this fall. A series of these towers line the rim of the stadium on the east and west side. Gigantic lights, which supply a diffused light with no glare, will be placed in each tower. Tech will experiment with games this fall. It is planned to start the Mississippi Aggie game on October 5 at 4 o'clock and play the last half with lights. The plan has been tried successfully elsewhere but this will be the first time the elaborate system being installed at the Flats has had a trial at Tech.

Scouting Interesting Phase of Football

By H. I. Stegeman,
Member Football Rules Committee, Director Athletics, University of Georgia.

One of the most interesting sidelines or by-products that football has furnished is scouting. The policy of scouting is not of recent origin, but the scale on which it is now carried on dates back to the last decade.

One of the best football expressions I have ever heard uttered has to do with scouting. At the National Collegiate Association meeting in Chicago some winters ago the chief Harvard scout was given a place on the program to discuss the question of scouting—its methods, ethics and the like.

In concluding his speech the Harvard scout related some personal experiences. One had to do with the Princeton assignment which he had drawn for that year. He stated that after seeing Princeton in several games he was assured from their type of play that nothing new from an offensive angle could develop during the season, so in the remaining games on his assignment he spent all his time "trying to fathom the presumptive groove of the defensive mind of the opponents." This is now a by-word for scouts.

The attitude toward scouts has changed considerably in the last 10 years. I remember personally many hostile glances from students I once received at Tuscaloosa in 1919 while scouting Alabama for Alex Cunningham. Many amusing experiences about students kidnaping scouts or obstructing their view of the game are told at lengthy stove sessions when a crowd of coaches gather.

But those days are over. Coaches now do all they can for the comfort of opponent scouts, give them advantageous seats, allow them access to opponents after the game to interview players and coaches, and add all the touches that one would put on for invited guests.

Some years ago, during an illness of Mike Donohue, Tick Tichenor was in charge of the Auburn team on a game away from home. Coach Alexander, of Tech, then assistant to Hesiman, had been scouting Auburn all season. During this game Tichenor had used his last substitute, and in desperation turned to Alexander (who was scouting Auburn from Auburn's bench) and said, "Aleck, if anybody gets hurt now you will have to go in there. You know the signals and play a hell of a lot better than that last sub I just sent in."

Wrong One.

Last fall a playoff was necessary in the Georgia Interscholastic league to see which team would play Tech High for the title. Riverside and Gordon were playing to decide this matter, and Coach Tolbert of Tech High was on hand with a notebook. Tolbert was expecting Riverside to win rather easily, and was centering all of his attention on their plays. Late in the last quarter Gordon came to life with a rush, tied the score and then put over the winning touchdown as the game ended. I have never seen such a surprised expression on

Tigers Step In Scrimmage

Auburn, Ala., September 12.—(Special.)—Hard and fast line scrimmages continue to be in vogue on Drake field as Coach Bohler gave his proteges their second taste of real hard work Thursday afternoon with a 45-minute line scrimmage.

The fullback post, left vacant by the departure of Clyde Sellers, is the only position that is causing Coach Bohler much worry, but it is causing him plenty.

J. D. Simpkins, who was shifted from guard to fullback during spring training, failed to fill the post and has been returned to the berth where he starred on last year's frosh eleven. Howard Chappelle and Forney Yarbrough seem to be the likely contenders for the place at present.

Forest Hills, L. I., September 12. (United News.)—Only three men stood tonight between Big Bill Tilden and the goal he seeks to regain after three lean years—the men's national tennis championship. Tilden today fought his way past John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., to the semi-final round of the annual championship tournament at the West Side Tennis Club in a hard four-set match, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

His advance was highly significant, for Van Ryn is admittedly one of the finest of the younger players in this country and was regarded as a distinct threat throughout the tournament.

Van Ryn proved his right to this consideration in his match today, for he forced Tilden to the best tennis he has played here this year, refusing to acknowledge defeat until the last faint ray of hope had faded.

PLAYS DOEG TODAY.

Doeg, Tilden's opponent in the semi-finals tomorrow, gained the right to play that match by eliminating H. W. (Bunny) Austin, of Great Britain—the last of the foreign invaders—in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Mercur advanced over the unwilling form of Wilmer Allison, Texan, in the only real surprise of the quarter-final round. Allison, whose startling victory over George Lott in the third round had established him as one of the favorites, waged a game but futile fight, going down in three hard sets, 8-6, 10-8, 6-4.

HUNTER DOWNS WILLIAMS.

Hunter, who is Mercur's semi-final opponent, strode rough-shod over the only other former champion in the tournament—R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia—in straight sets, 6-0, 6-4, 6-3.

It was Tilden's ability to come back in the face of near disaster that carried the Philadelphian past Van Ryn. The determined Jerseyman made numerous bids of serious proportions during the match, only to have Tilden come back and snatch victory from defeat.

Tilden is certain to find Doeg's service most bothersome tomorrow, for Austin—the best player Great Britain could offer—was able to score only 19 points in the 14 games Johnny served.

Smith Family Aids Georgia Grid Team

By Ralph McGill.

If the Smith family comes through for the Red and Black in good fashion this fall Georgia's football eleven will be well up in the chips when the final tackle is made in December.

There are three Smiths on the Bulldog football squad and each one of them has an excellent chance of making the squad. One of them, Vernon Smith, of Macon, Ga., is picked as being the greatest end prospect the south has seen in years.

V. Smith, as he is destined to be known, is an all-around athlete of exceptional ability. He was a star at track and basketball and was one of the feature players on the 1928 freshman football team.

V. SMITH.

Georgia returns both her 1928 varsity ends but V. Smith is giving them a great battle for a regular position and it would not be at all surprising to find him in the starting line-up for the majority of the games this year.

He was one of the greatest prep athletes in Georgia and many coaches over the fair southland moaned heavily when he cast his lot with the Bulldogs. The tip-off on V. Smith is that he will become one of the greatest ends Georgia has ever had and they have produced quite a few at Athens.

RED SMITH.

Red Smith is one of the regular ends returning this fall and there is a very fine chance for the Smith family to be in exclusive charge of the end situation in some of the games this season.

There is another freshman named Smith who comes up as a guard. He, too, is making a mighty bid for attention.

And so the Smith family is attracting quite a lot of attention at Georgia this fall. There is a chance that four of the 11 positions on the Georgia team will, at some time this year, be guarded by a Smith.

ALEX PRAISES HIM.

Coach William Alexander, The Man at the Flats, thinks rather highly of Vernon Smith, the freshman end. "He is one of the greatest natural athletes I ever saw," said the Yellow Jacket coach. "I know that he will be a good man. Georgia's ends will be hard to turn this fall."

Coach Harry Mehre, of the Bulldogs, is not broadcasting his plans to the various nude areas about Athens, but he is going ahead with plans to make use of the speed at hand.

PASS ATTACK.

Georgia will have a pass attack this fall that will be more elaborate than any in the past few seasons. Mehre has some ends who can catch them and some backs who can throw them. The Bulldogs are going on determined

Grinnell Plays At Fort Saturday

Grinnell and Whittier baseball teams are preparing for a hard game Saturday afternoon at Fort McPherson when they play the final game of the year under the City league banner. A big silver loving cup is reposing on the shelf at Trammell Scott's store until these two teams can decide which one shall be dubbed champion of the City league for this year. Saturday's game will determine it.

Whittier made a whirlwind finish of the second half of the split season to win without a defeat, while Grinnell had about the same record in the first half of the season. Three games were to be played at the end to decide the ultimate winner. Grinnell won the first one two weeks ago, 10 to 6. Last week Whittier won the second, 10 to 0. The third game was started, but at the end of five innings it was called on account of darkness with the score standing 1 all. This made the playover necessary.

Manager Taylor of the Grinnell team has secured the diamond at Fort McPherson for this final game so that fans who wish to see the game will have better accommodations.

Wave Varsity Wins Tiff, 12-0

New Orleans, La., September 12.—There were big doings Thursday behind the barred gates of the old Tulane practice field as Coach Bernie Bierman shoved his coming Wavemen through 1 hour and 40 minutes of real scrimmage. Two elevens, one urged on by Headmaster Bierman and Line Mentor Cox and the other managed by Lester Lautenschlaeger, donned green shirts and white shirts for a gruelling battle. The so-called team "A" scored a 12-to-0 victory over "B." Banker, in an off-tackle thrust, scored the first touchdown. Ike Armstrong, Red Dawson and Calvert de Coligny stood out with Banker in the green backfield, while Ford Seeuws, Hugh Whatley, Charlie Young and Albert Massey looked effective as a running combination for the whites.

Ed Danforth Finds Dangerous Eleven At Wildcat Camp

By Ed Danforth.
Constitution Sports Editor.

Lexington, Ky., September 13.—They were a day late in starting scrimmage at the University of Kentucky. Head Coach Harry Gamage met his class in gridiron dynamics for the first practice of the season Monday, but he did not order his squad to scrimmage until Tuesday afternoon. That sort of set a precedent at Stoll field. The young coach, schooled in the iron precincts of Bob Zuppke's at Illinois, usually sends his candidates to bat the very first day. Railbirds here shook their heads sadly at the amazingly dilatory tactics of Coach Harry this year. They sensed the young man was softening a bit.

So in spite of the fact that the Kentucky Wildcats reported a week later than the rest of the conference. They already are farther along than most of them. Already several of the varsity veterans are complaining that they need more opposition than the second team can offer.

The Blue Grass country is enjoying this week a spell of real football weather. Autumn came in a month ahead of time for a pop-call. They call it vest weather up here, meaning that that garment feels pretty good in the morning and late in the afternoon. The brief cool spell put pepper into the two-a-day workouts; oh, yes, Coach Harry works his lads mornings and afternoons, with blackboard drills between times. He learned his football in a he-man environment and has brought the same atmosphere to this campus where not so long ago football was taken rather casually what with hoss racing and fox hunting and dove shooting to intrigue the community.

IMPROVED ELEVEN.

Kentucky's football team this year was rated in the early form sheets as an improved eleven that should be placed in the first eight or ten of the conference list. Coach Gamage thinks his team will be better than last year; and last year, mind you, Vanderbilt had a terrific time beating them in Nashville just before the Tech game. In fact, Dan McGugin attributed the rather ragged physical condition of his team the day he played Tech to the pulling and hauling and knocking about they received at the hands of the gigantic Kentucky line. Only the lack of backfield strength kept the Wildcats out of first division last season; their one ball carrier was Will Ed Covington, the beanpole quarter, who had to do all the work and therefore was capable of being stopped.

This time the Wildcats have another mountainous forward wall and more backfield strength and more good reserves. Will Ed Covington, the beanpole quarterback, is still here and weaves around as of youre. But he has helping him a fine looking fullback, the elder Phipps, brother and a hard-driving lad named Carey Spicer, a reformed end, and another tall, snaky speed marvel styled "Shipwreck" Kelly. All four of these boys can kick; Covington and Spicer can pass. All four of them can tackle murderously as defensive backs, so one might well decide here and now that Kentucky's attack will be sprightlier and less monotonous with all the help Ed Covington will have.

Change in Offense.

Coach Gamage has introduced a slight change in his offense this year. His plays start after a running backfield shift. The four backs get set and then mill around on the run, get set and away they go. They will be pretty tough to scout. The maneuver is rather simple to talk about but it promised to be confused to the foemen of Kentucky who have to diagram the plays. Wonder someone did not think of it before. As an additional variation to the attack, there is George Yates, a 185-pound, six-foot-three, sophomore end who can throw a pass in a manner not unlike "Wu" Winslett, the great passing end that helped Alabama win a championship not many years ago. Yates probably will be worked into several plays that will give him a chance to throw the ball; a passing end offers a coach a grand opportunity to devise deceptive formations and no doubt Yates will figure in many such.

Kentucky's line again is the finest looking body of young manhood a coach ever had turned loose in a locker room. Every man is over six feet, with the exception of "Fats" Williams, the center, who is five-eleven. The lightest man is Yates, who scales about 185. The others range upward from Baughman, 196-pound end, to Babe Wright, a 210-pound tackle. There is not a fat man in the bunch. They simply are big and powerful, with big hands and feet and hard heads.

A Great Tackle

Lexington folks think their Pete Drury is an All-American tackle. Certainly he was one of the best in the country last year; you never could convince them that Frank Speer was any better. He will undoubtedly be one of the outstanding tackles in the conference this year if he keeps his last year's form.

Three full teams and several leftovers are working every day and the second string is a pretty good crew. One of the best looking line reserves is John Drury, brother to Pete, a 190-pounder who swears he will beat brother out of his job. Max Kistner is a 200-pound guard who can hustle.

JONES STARTS RETURN HOME

San Francisco, September 12.—(AP) A chunky, well-known young man asked this question as his train pulled away from the Pacific coast, "Who polishes the Golden Gate?"

There wasn't a ready answer in the crowd and so, for the second time this year Georgia put something over on California.

Bobby Jones, who plays golf, laid the stymie that stumped the usual western "retort courteous" today. Georgia Tech's football that larruped California's Bears last New Year's Day accounted for the first coup.

Jones, still greatest of fairway fanciers and as big in defeat as in victory, bid good-by to the Pacific coast today with the hope of returning soon. He left his national amateur crown on the twisting Pebble Beach course, but "made a lot of new friends—did Hollywood—and saw the Pacific ocean." Loss of his title is the least of his worries.

The ex-emperor of golf sandwiched in a few significant remarks while "pulling leather" in his automobile rides down some of San Francisco's steeper hills. One was, he "would be the last one" to agitate for a change in the rules whereby all match play rounds would be over 36 holes. As it is, the opening day of match play consists of two 18-hole rounds. It was in the first round that Bobby was eliminated by Johnny Goodman.

Jones is as certain that western golf "has arrived" as he is that he will try to win back the amateur title in 1930. He feels that the national will take its turn on the sunset side of the Rockies regularly from now on, probably in four or five years.

"The courses are here and the players are here. You can count on me, for one, to be back."

Atlanta's best known citizen was warm in his praise of the welcomes he had received. Of the Pebble Beach course, which he described as magnificent, he said: "I've played on courses with just as narrow fairways, just as deep bunkers and just as heavy rough, but I've never had to buck up against what batters the side of eight or nine of those fairways. Friends, I don't mean anything else but that big Pacific ocean."

Rosequist Plans To Enter Ohio

Cleveland, September 12.—(United News.)—Ted Rosequist, former star tackle of the John Carroll football squad, will enter Ohio State or some other university, he announced today.

Despite the charges yesterday of Coach Ralph Vince, of Carroll, that an Ohio State senior and an alumnus had offered the husky tackle free board, room and tuition and a job, Rosequist said today that he is awaiting word from the Ohio State registrar on his application for admittance.

"I am thinking seriously of going to Ohio State," he said. "There also is a chance that I might go to some other big school. Anyway, I won't be left out in the rain and I'm not going to John Carroll."

ATLANTA BATS ARE SILENCED BY MILSTEAD

From championship possibilities to an ordinary baseball game was Thursday's affair between Nashville and Atlanta at Spiller field which Nashville won, 4 to 2.

At the beginning of the game Nashville still had a mathematical chance to overtake Birmingham in the Southern league pennant race. After it was learned that Birmingham had beaten Chattanooga in the first of a double header and was leading in the second, the Nashville players did not strive so hard to keep the Crackers from scoring. The second game in Birmingham meant the absolute elimination of Nashville.

George Milstead, a Cracker jinx, left-hander, was on the mound for the visitors. He pitched a good game and did not let the Crackers have a single hit until the fourth inning. Two safeties were recorded in the fifth, but Milstead kept bearing down until the eighth and ninth when with a four-run lead he let up.

CRACKERS SCORE.

Atlanta bats registered nine safe hits, and five of those came in the eighth and ninth innings when two runs were shoved across the plate. Atlanta had nine runners left on the bases and five of those nine were left stranded in the eighth and ninth innings, another proof of Milstead's good pitching in the early innings.

Jim Poole, former Cracker first baseman, failed to hit any home runs but parked one high on the right field bank for two bases in the third inning. The hit would have gone for a home run in the Vol park at Nashville.

Anderson, Nashville right fielder, supplied the batting exhibition of the afternoon, when he hit one into the colored stand for a home run in the ninth inning. Partridge, Anderson, Poole and Krueger were the hitting stars for Nashville, and Cortazzo made some fast throws from shortstop.

Lee, Haley and Jones shared the spotlight in Atlanta's hitting with two safeties each. Lee's hits came when the bases were empty. Haley and Jones figured in Atlanta's final run in the ninth inning.

OLDHAM NO PUZZLE.

Oldham opposed Milstead but was no puzzle for Nashville batters. After the second inning he kept the visiting hits well scattered until the ninth when two hits were recorded.

Nashville scored a run in the first inning when Cortazzo singled to right and went to second on Battle's error. Adams grounded out and Cortazzo went to third and scored on Carter's hit over second. Another was added in the second. Shaner singled, Krueger singled, sending Shaner to third, and when Haley let Cullop's throw get by him Shaner scored. In the third Partridge was safe on Sheehan's error and scored on Poole's two-base hit. Anderson's home run accounted for the last Vol tally in the ninth.

WILDCATS LOOK GOOD

Walters, the champion utility player of the south. Walters is built pretty much on the order of "Stumpy" Thomason, possibly a size larger but generally dumpy. Yet last year he played every position on the team at one time or another. His greatest feat was literally saving the Tennessee game for Kentucky. Claire Dees, sole center in camp, was hurt early in the second quarter of the big game and Coach Gamage called on Tom Walters to take over the job. Tom had never snapped a ball in a game in his life but he went through nearly three quarters without a bobble and in backing up the line he broke up drive after drive and earned a tie for Kentucky.

Walters is listed as a guard substitute but he can fill in for any of them. No wonder that letter "S" is on his name; he undoubtedly is plural.

Struggle of Brothers

Another struggle for varsity position between brothers is going on at fullback, where Tom and Jack Phipps are locked. Just now Tom, older but lighter, seems to have the call, but the season is very young. And one notes scattered here and there in the second crew several letter men from last season. That means that competition for places is keen and no loafing will ever bother the coaches.

Kentucky plays five conference games of which bracket Clemson, Alabama and Tennessee are outstanding. Those three teams now are rated with the best and if the Blues could dump all three it would mean the best season Kentucky ever had. Up here the Alabama and Tennessee games are considered the high spots—not omitting the annual hair-pulling contest with Centre, the old rival from Danville.

They are dead set on going down to Montgomery November 9 and licking Alabama and then catching Tennessee here on their own lot Thanksgiving Day and finishing the job they started last year when a tie game resulted.

Face Hard Test.

Kentucky folks are making a mistake in overlooking the Clemson game. If Kentucky's big rush line and hard travelling fullbacks promise a team of power, they ought to look over Josh Cody's outfit. Clemson carries power galore. That Kentucky-Clemson game should be an old time battering, pounding dog fight and it is very doubtful whether Kentucky can win it. No doubt the Kentucky battle plans will be revised after the scouts have seen Clemson in action and the Carolina Farmers placed just ahead of Alabama as a major objective where they belong.

Kentucky plays two night games, one with Maryville October 5 and the other with Carson-Newman October 19. The games are scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock. However, S. A. Boles, director of athletics, is considering changing his plans and starting at 4:30 p. m. just as Tech expects to do. Mr. Boles expects to attend the Tech experimental game in Atlanta September 21 before making his decision.

MONTGOMERY WINS SECOND SOUTHEAST RAG

Montgomery, Ala., September 12.—(AP)—"Buck" Kirsch was invincible to the Tampa Smokers today and coasted home to a 6-to-0 victory for the Montgomery Lions and the second consecutive championship of the Southeastern league.

The breaks of the game, both offensive and defensive, favored the Lions today. They were out to win the eighth and deciding game of the series, made necessary by yesterday's postponement because of darkness.

Shannon singled and was home with the first score in the opening frame when Holt sacrificed and Buskey, Tampa shortstop, let Abernathy's roller pass him.

The Lions landed on the offerings of Gene Walker in the third for two scores, and again it was Shannon who started the fireworks with a double to deep left which Braley booted as Shannon advanced to third. Tipton singled past Buskey, scoring Shannon and advanced to second on Holt's sacrifice. Kloza's single to right after Abernathy had flied out brought Tipton across the plate and sent Walker to the showers in favor of Ketchum. Pickett flied out to Guerra to end the inning.

Montgomery clinched the game and the pennant with a three-run attack in what was their last turn at bat, with Alvarez the victim. Ketchum gave way in the visitors' half of the eighth for Red Griffin, a pinch hitter.

Holt followed up Tipton's fly pop to short with a lusty single to left, advancing on Abernathy's single to right, and going to third on the throw in, Abernathy halting at second. Kloza grounded to Cueto at third, but all were safe when the Cuban failed to nab Holt at the bag.

The Next Walker Cup Team.

The recent amateur golf championship decided at Pebble Beach has furnished the U. S. G. A. a real problem in connection with the selection of the next Walker Cup team that is to invade Great Britain in the spring. The old standbys, not so old at that, have been Bobby Jones, Francis Ouimet, Jess Sweetser and George Von Elm. But now there are other complications. The four semi-finalists at Pebble Beach were Jimmy Johnston, Doc Willing, Francis Ouimet and Chandler Egan.

Some of these will have to be considered. So will George Voigt, one of the greatest golfers in the field, the man who took the new champion to the thirty-ninth green. So will young McCarthy, and so will Don Moe, western champion. In the list there will be Jones, Johnston, Von Elm, Sweetser, Ouimet, Willing, Voigt, McCarthy, Egan and Moe. Also Gene Homans, who tied Jones for the medal.

It will be a tough selection, as there are no more ranking tournaments to be played. The only certain nominations seem to be Jones, Johnston, Ouimet, Von Elm, Willing and Sweetser. The big scramble will come from the others named. It is certain that Jimmy Johnston will be No. 1 or No. 2—on the team, probably No. 2, as Jones is still open champion.

Pacific Coast Stars.

Dear Sir: The Pacific Coast will send up its usual quota of fine baseball players to the major leagues this year. The Yankees already have secured Vernon Gomez, a youthful lefthander from San Francisco, and Bill Essick, the veteran scout, ranks him as one of the best prospects he ever picked. But Gomez is only one of many.

Oakland has Johnny Vergez, a twenty-year-old third baseman, who is leading the Coast league in home runs in his first year as a professional. Vergez is a little fellow, but has perfect timing and whales the ball far. He likely will land with the Yankees. The Oaks also have two fine pitchers in Dagia and Cragshead, and a comer in McEvoy. But the most powerful man of the crew is Buzz Arlett. Why some major league club does not gamble on that fence-buster puzzles me.

Many big league clubs are trying to land Ernie Lombardi, Oakland catcher. He is the one outstanding catcher in the minors and can pound the ball. He is about the size of Truck Hanna, who once caught for the Yanks, and fairly fast. He is bound to advance.

The Missions have Oski Slade, and Red Killefer is willing to wager he will do in the big show, and San Francisco is ready to sell Gussie Suhr, a hard-hitting first baseman. The Seals also are willing to market Smead Jolley, another slugger, and he may be taken up. Almost all of the other clubs in the Pacific Coast league have at least one man ready for the majors and the marketing will be heavy this fall and winter.

SAN PEDRO PETE.

Baseball's Long Season.

The pennant races have been over for some time in both leagues, and yet the season has almost a month to run. This won't happen often, but there is always the possibility.

There seems to be no good reason for extending the season as long as it has been extended year after year. It would be different if it were brief. But a baseball season opens when the spring training begins, around March, and by late September most cities are quite ready to call it off and wait for another spring. The magnates will tell you that it is a matter of business. Suppose we take that angle, which is, of course, the main angle. Even as a matter of business it is bad policy to extend a program far beyond general public interest. It would be much better, from the business side, to get baseball over and completed before football came into its swing. For football interest is gathering force and expanding. It is now far greater than anything baseball can know, even at its height. To crowd baseball into the football season is merely leading to a comparison that will do baseball no good in a year or two. The world series may hold up, but not the two pennant races. One trouble with baseball is that the season is entirely too long. It is far longer than any other sport can show. This is an age of action and quick turns, of compressed excitement and new thrills. Baseball apparently has never yet found this out. It may be too late when it does.

SEWANEE MAY FLY TO GAME IN MEXICO CITY

Tigers Will Take Air Route If Date Is Accepted.

Sewanee, Tenn., September 12.—(AP)—The football squad of the University of the South may fly to Mexico City for a game with the University of Mexico, November 20.

The athletic board of control at Sewanee announced tonight it was considering favorably an invitation from the University of Mexico for a game dedicating the President Portes Gil stadium in Mexico City. The officials indicated that if the invitation is accepted, the team probably would make the trip by airplane.

The invitation read as follows:

"We extend an invitation to the University of the South to play the University of Mexico here on November 20. There will be inaugurated on that date a new million-dollar athletic field built by President Portes Gil, and he wishes a game between the University of Mexico and Sewanee as a feature of the dedicatory exercises. An elaborate program will be planned, including entertainment and sightseeing."

Miss Hicks Wins In 72-Hole Meet

Chicago, September 12.—(AP)—Helen Hicks, of Inwood, Long Island, N. Y., easily captured the first women's 72-hole medal play golf championship today with a total of 320, 14 strokes better than her closest rival, Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago. Maureen Orcutt, of White Beaches, N. Y., and Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago, tied for third place with 336.

In winning her decisive victory, the husky 18-year-old New York girl carded four of the most brilliant rounds ever scored by a woman golfer. She scored 78's on her first two rounds, 83 yesterday and ended with an 81 today, a 72-hole total which equalled par for the heavily trapped Flossmoor Country Club course. Miss Van Wie, runner-up in the national championship last year, shot a 79, 1 under par, today to climb from fourth to second place with a 334 total, while Miss Orcutt took an 85 and Mrs. Mida an 87.

TED GOODRICH WORKS FOR MILL ON WEDNESDAY

Work on Arena To Begin as Soon as Location Is Selected.

By Ben Cochran.

Jay Jarvis is going right ahead with plans for the boxing plant to be erected by the newly formed Atlanta Sporting Club and construction of the arena will start as soon as one of two locations is decided upon.

Jarvis, who has been placed in active charge of the club's affairs by the Atlanta business men backing the project, said Thursday night that he had an option on a lot on Edgewood avenue just back of the central market. He also has his eye on a lot situated on Ivy street, near Baker, but doesn't know whether he can secure it.

The Ivy street location would be better suited for the arena, although the Edgewood site is close to town. Jarvis said Thursday night that his fights were going to be of such caliber as to pack 'em in anywhere. It is to be hoped they will.

His first bout, which is to be produced next Wednesday night at the auditorium, will involve Ted Goodrich, Atlanta's favorite welterweight, and Tommy (Kid) Herman, a rising young Hebrew welter from Chicago, who has battled some of the best men in his division and earned victories. It holds promise of being one of the best scraps pulled off here in more than a few years and is going to be a tough hurdle for Goodrich to clear.

TO BUILD AT ONCE.

Once he secures the site for his arena, Jarvis will go right ahead with its construction and hopes to have it ready within two months.

Present plans call for a seating capacity of 7,000, which would indicate that the city's boxing benevolents are aiming rather high on their attendance figures. Fights in this section have been something that the people read about in the papers the next morning, mainly because they were usually rather terrible.

The caliber of the fisticuffing hereabouts has been improving lately, however, and interest is beginning to pick up. If Jarvis provides

Homerville Up In League Series

Waycross, Ga., September 12.—(AP) Homerville took a one-game lead in the titular series of the Bright Leaf league here yesterday afternoon when they defeated Glennville 8-1. Lefty Murdock, former University of Georgia hurler, held Glennville to a lone bingle, while Mud Stafford, former Sally leaguer, was touched by Homerville for seven hits, which, with unpardonable errors, meant his downfall.

Homerville has won two games and Glennville one.

a man's face as Tolbert's when he turned to me and said, "Good gosh, I have been scouting the wrong team."

There is in the S. I. I. A. a well known scout whose presence always adds color to any game he visits. He comes prepared with a sheaf of pencils in his coat pocket, two or three notebooks, a pair of field glasses hung very prominently around his neck and all his pockets bulging with programs and papers. His activities are interesting to watch, but how he ever sees anything of his opponent's activities I cannot see. He is busy every minute with all his equipment and paraphernalia.

Non-Scouting.

Georgia and Yale have been operating for some years under a non-scouting agreement. Some years ago, when Yale had its greatest team, the Georgia line appeared to be in for a bad day unless the left tackle could solve Yale's cut back play more satisfactorily than had been done the year before. With no scouting beforehand, definite plans were not easy to lay. Coach Woodruff asked me to watch this particular situation from a more advantageous position than the bench and report at the end of the first quarter.

The Yale stadium is a steep climb. By the time I got to the 20th row I sat down to watch Yale kick their first point after touchdown. Resuming my climb during the kick-off, I hurried a bit. However, I was just able to make the 40th row in time to see another successful point after touchdown, as Yale's punt on first down had struck our quarterback on the head and had been scooped up for a marker. When the next kick-off started I tried to make top in earnest, two steps at a time.

By the time I got to the observation promenade Georgia was punting from behind the goal line, and Milstead promptly blocked the punt and wrapped his huge frame around the loose ball for another touchdown. By this time Yale was playing a defensive game, kicking on first down most of the time, and the only report I was able to make was that I needed a substitute as badly as our left tackle.

Georgia and Yale have abandoned their non-scouting agreement. Theoretically the idea is correct, but practically it is too hard on the football coach who is supposed to make a good showing against a better team than his own. Knowledge of what to expect gives the coach a chance to prepare his defense and while extensive defensive preparations always take something away from the suspense of a game, yet the coach feels more satisfied that he had done his best.

The forming of scouting agencies is a new wrinkle in football. Mail order reports can be had on any important team in the country. While most coaches prefer to have one of their own staff cover opponents' early games, the opinions of experts in this line may be very valuable as preliminary work. This idea may work out.

Russ Cohen, now head coach at Louisiana State, has always impressed me as being the best scout in the business. Cohen has a keep mind for details that escape the ordinary observer, and his value always lay in the impressions he received rather than in the information he had in his note book.

Rockne Tale

Kunte Rockne, in his inimitable way, tells one of the best scouting stories I have ever heard. Several years ago Notre Dame beat an exceptional Army team, stopping the great Light Horse Harry Wilson on almost every play. The great play of the Notre Dame line against Wilson's fierce plunges was the feature of the game.

The next fall Harry Wilson ran wild and won the Notre Dame game largely through his personal efforts in the open field, the Notre Dame linemen scarcely being able to slow him up. Rockne explained the mystery very cleverly in a story over the radio that a great number of listeners took a bit too seriously.

In the first Army game, according to Rockne, the Notre Dame scout noticed that every time Wilsons' signal was called he would blush furiously from excitement. This clew was tipped off secretly to the Notre Dame linemen and that year every time Wilson blushed they would disregard every other player but him and bring him down before he ever got to the line.

The following year the Army coaches heard of this tell-tale feature. During early practice they taught Harry Wilson to stop blushing on his signal but also instructed him to blush as red as possible on the signal for the full back. That day whenever Wilson's face would flush the fullback was away for long gains, and whenever he failed to flush he himself was allowed to get away unimpeded, as no one expected him to carry the ball. Rockne called this the best example of "four-flushing" he ever saw.

BULLDOGS SET TO SCRIMMAGE ON SATURDAY

Athens, Ga., September 12. (Special.)—The University of Georgia Bulldogs went through two hard practices here today in preparation for a scrimmage which is to come Saturday.

End blocking and punting from scrimmage formation were the features of the day's work. Coach Harry Mehre had the backfield men booting them down the field this afternoon with an opposing line there to block the punts. The ends were given a long hard lesson in smearing interference.

In punting practice this afternoon, Chandler, who has been getting good distance but no height, was forced to boot them high into the air to escape opposing ends and tackles who were charging in hard and fast. Chandler, who was the star punter of the afternoon, was averaging 45 yards and getting them high.

On the defensive, Jim Buchanan, a

Alex Forms Varsity, Grey Devil Squads

By Herb Clark.

Pencils were wielded at the Flats Thursday morning, and when the Yellow Jackets arrived for practice Coach Alexander, the man behind the pencil, was left with a squad of some 35 or 40 for his coming varsity, and Firpo Martin, famed mentor of the Grey Devils, had a crew of about 25.

Since practice started almost two weeks ago the Jackets have all worked together, but Thursday Alex decided that the large squad was a trifle unwieldy. The split was the outcome.

Coach Alex said that this division was by no means permanent; that every position on the squad was still open, and that the best man, no matter where he might be found at the moment, would be on the field playing when the season opened. He expects many of the huskies who are at present under Martin's wing to be up playing with the varsity at some time or other during the campaign, and said that the boys who are glorying in having been picked on this original varsity will be moved down should they show signs of letting up.

The first indication of this predicted diffusion came as Hudson Edwards, junior guard who saw service with the regulars last year, was called over to the varsity stable from his first-assigned post on the Grey Devils. None left the big squad to sit at Firpo's feet, but Alex's word is ordinarily held to be better than good, and erring brothers will do well to take heed.

Thursday's practice session failed to bring out any new points or to throw any new light on the formation of the Jacket machine and its attack and defence.

Signal drill—with a skeleton defense as a sort of plastic opposition—occupied the boys who were under the care of Alex for the greater part of the afternoon.

Alex has so far given the Jackets but few plays. Each of the formations is of a "rock bottom" nature, however, and each has several variations which indicate that the diagnosis of the Tech play of the moment is going to keep the opposition forces on their toes mentally.

Alex had his three full teams reeling off plays in rapid succession Thursday, and seemed well-satisfied with the way in which his charges are learning the maneuvers and clicking them off in practice.

Tech High, Boys' High To Hold Scrimmage This Afternoon

BOTH SQUADS IN GOOD TRIM FOR BATTLES

Fine Progress Is Made in Remaining Prep Football Camps.

Candidates for the Tech High and Boys' High football teams will engage in a lengthy defensive scrimmage this afternoon at Piedmont park, according to Coaches Tolbert and Doyal.

Boys' High has engaged in two scrimmages thus far this week and another will be held today and Saturday and early next week regular scrimmages will be held. A large part of next week's scrimmages will be devoted to offensive work, Doyal said Thursday night.

Tech High, with a practically new line, has held two brief defensive scrimmages and another will be held today. Coach Tolbert is worried no little over his line material for this year and an entirely new line will have to be developed.

Defensive scrimmage will hold the major part of Tolbert's time for the next several days and during the latter part of next week he plans on a lengthy offensive drill.

Marist, University School and G. M. A. are progressing rapidly. New teams are in the making at both Marist and G. M. A. and light, speedy elevens will most likely represent both institutions.

University School with its new coach, Frank Speer, at the helm, should have a good season. Only four veterans were lost by graduation and each of those vacancies is contested by several promising youngsters.

Fulton High and Commercial started practice later than the others and have not done much work thus far. Fulton High was hit hard by graduation but the Typists will have a veteran team returned.

Tennessee Captain Has Sprained Toe

Knoxville, Tenn., September 12.—(AP)—Captain Paul B. Parker, University of Tennessee line coach, said today that a dislocated toe may give Howard Johnson, star tackle and football team captain, "trouble all this year." Johnson was on crutches today. He was injured in a scrimmage Monday.

Rockne's Invasions.

Speer Reinstated At Georgia Tech

Frank Speer, "man-mountain" tackle of Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado of last fall, was formally reinstated at Tech at a meeting of the faculty Thursday morning.

Speer, who left school last fall just before the close of the football season, applied for readmission to the school some weeks ago. The matter was placed before the faculty Thursday and it was decided to let him return.

Frank, who will be ineligible for football this fall, expressed a desire to play the game again and said he would certainly be out for the team in 1930.

JARVIS PICKS ARENA SITE

In his aide, Pop Nealis, Jervis will be able to command attention of the country's boxing higher-ups. Pop, ex-manager of Tony Fuente, is an old hand at the racket and has an extensive effective acquaintance.

HELPED GET HERMAN.

Nealis was instrumental in getting Herman here for the Goodrich bout and can bring more of them in. He will be a good man to have around.

According to word drifting down from Chicago, they look upon young Herman as a future welter champ. He has just turned 21 and is beginning to ripen. He has knocked out Billy Petrolle and Billy Wallace, a couple of tough lads. Decisions are held over Phil McGraw, Louis Kid Kaplan, Mike Ballerino, and Leo Kid Roy, Stanley Loayza and Tommy Kid Murphy.

Not only that, but Herman has boxed two no-decison bouts with Sammy Mandell. Action is promised when the man goes in the ring and he is reputed to be a good slugger.

GOODRICH AT WORK.

Goodrich has gone into serious training for the bout and is working out daily. The Atlantan, if he disposes of Herman, or even earns a draw, will be right up in front in the welter division. Goodrich has the makings of a great fighter. He can hit and hit hard and will be trying for a victory Wednesday.

Pop Nealis and Jay Jarvis attempted to get Jack Dempsey, who is promoting in Chicago, down here to referee the Wednesday night bout. The Mauler, due to press of business, will be unable to come, but will probably be here for the opening of the new arena.

Nealis received the following wire Thursday:

"Pop Nealis,
"Wilmot Hotel.

"Delighted to learn you have located in Atlanta and feel certain you will give the fans a high caliber of boxing shows. My own promotions here make it impossible to attend your opening show but sometime during the winter I will deem it a pleasure to attend one of your attractions. With my kindest greetings I am,

"JACK DEMPSEY."

TUFFY STOPS DR. HAYMANN

Sioux City Heavy Eliminates Foreign Hope in Rousing Mill.

New York, September 12.—(AP)—Tuffy Griffith, two-fisted slugger from Sioux City, Iowa, did his bit toward checking the current foreign menace in American heavyweight circles tonight by stopping Dr. Ludwig Haymann, of Germany, in the fourth round of their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden. The end came after 2 minutes and 35 seconds of fighting in the fourth round.

Haymann, who holds the heavyweight title of Germany, never had a chance with the hard-hitting Griffiths. Tuffy floored his man for a nine count in the first minute of the fourth round. Haymann got up and went right back down. Up he came again to take another crushing right flush on the chin and the referee called a halt.

Haymann caught several hard rights in the very first round and from then on was on the run and did not land a single telling blow.

It was a crushing defeat for Haymann who had begun his American invasion with two impressive knockouts, and it was a well-earned victory for the Iowa clouter who was knocked out by Jimmy Braddock in his first New York bout last winter.

Georgia is progressing fast enough to permit some scrimmage work on Saturday. The first actual scrimmage is scheduled for next Tuesday. Mehre scrimmages three days in each week, putting aside Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for that work.

The Bulldog forward wall, with Joe Boland back in form, is looking stronger each day. There will be veterans at every position except one of the guards. Not only that but some of the freshmen of 1928 may be good enough to dislodge some of the veterans.

Thomas is going ahead with his backs, devoting most of the time to kicking and passing. The Notre Dame system, that Thomas used so effectively at Chattanooga, will be working soon and the Georgia offensive power will begin to pile up.

And the Smith clan will be a great aid.

Yale Manager Praises Stadium of Bulldogs

William Paul at Athens Arranges Details for Intersectional Game There October 2.

Athens, Ga., September 12.—The seriousness with which the Yale Athletic Association is viewing the coming Georgia game in Athens on October 12 is evidenced by the business trip made to Athens during the week by William R. Paul, manager of the 1929 Yale football team.

Mr. Paul spent an entire day in Athens making all of the preliminary arrangements for the first extensive trip that a Yale football team has ever taken. According to the Yale manager, the game will be one of the features of the 1929 season for Yale, and the prospect of this trip has already added stimulus to the preparations for football practice on the New Haven campus.

The Yale football party will include over 60 men. Thirty-five players will be carried, along with the entire corps of coaches, trainers, rubbers, and managers. Several faculty members, as official representatives of Yale university, will be included in the official party, while a large number of other faculty and administrative officials will make the trip. The party will leave New Haven on Thursday morning on a special train, and will arrive in Athens in time for a full workout Friday afternoon.

CHANGE IS OKEH.

Mr. Paul also stated that the student body was thoroughly appreciative of the change of policy of the Yale athletic council in permitting the football team to play games at greater distances than before. This change in policy was announced last fall when Yale accepted Georgia's invitation to dedicate the new stadium in Athens, and will be continued in the future. The result of this change, Mr. Paul stated, is that the athletic association has been flooded by requests for games abroad. Only one other game has been scheduled following the new departure, that being a game with the University of Chicago in Chicago in 1930.

PRAISES PLANT.

The Yale manager was high in his praises of the athletic plant at the university, and he assured athletic officials of his entire satisfaction with the way in which preliminary arrangements were being made. He stated that the facilities for caring for visiting teams at the university were equal to those of any university on Yale's schedule, and that the eager anticipation for the game evidenced by alumni citizens in this section surpassed anything that had ever come under his observation.

This is the second visit made by Yale officials since the announcement of the dedication game. Last fall H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic Association, and Mr. Paul spent several days here, in looking around, preliminary to attending the Georgia Tech-Georgia game in Atlanta. The Yale coaching staff was represented at this game by "Ducky" Pond, famous Yale halfback, now coach of the Yale backfield candidates.

SCOUT AT GAMES.

Yale will have official scouts at both the Oglethorpe and Furman games, Georgia's two first opponents, according to advance information. Up until this year Georgia and Yale had worked under a non-scouting agreement, but this agreement was cancelled for the 1929 season. All of these features are conclusive evidence that the northern Bulldogs are taking their first trip to meet their southern cousin mighty seriously, and are leaving no stone unturned to make their first invasion of hostile territory a successful one.

Colored Teams Play for Title

Morehouse college campus will be the scene of the colored baseball championship of the state Saturday when the Monroe, Ga., Blue Cats and the Atlanta Pullman Hurricane meet in the final game of a series.

The Blue Cats and the Hurricane stand with one victory each. The Saturday game will decide it. The Blue Cats, managed by Buddy Conyers, are backed by the white fans of Monroe and a number of them will accompany the team here.

The teams will play at 3 o'clock and the white fans of Atlanta are asked to come out and witness the deciding game of the series.

BULLDOGS SCRIMMAGE

200-pound tackle, and Russ Timmons, an end, were doing the best work. Time after time these two players got through the offensive line and past the side backs to block punts. Coach Chick Shiver had a new end candidate today in the person of John Simms. Simms, who weighs 185 pounds and has been keeping in good condition this summer by working on an ice wagon in Detroit.

The morning practice was light, and the players appeared on the field in a light uniform. After the limbering-up exercises, which has been under the supervison of Frank Dudley, four teams were called out to run signals.

Freshmen, wearing their bright red caps, were swarming around the field this afternoon to watch the practice, and after the day's work was over for football players, the first year men gathered at Georgia's new stadium and gave a vociferous "Wreck Tech" yell.

Tidesmen Work On Blocking.

University, Ala., September 12.—One of those rains the farmers pray for swept clear around Tuscaloosa Thursday afternoon, making Denny field a very comfortable place to get rough in, and Coach Wade's Tiders threw aside a lot of timidity in their dummy scrimmage.

Several of the boys received hefty wallops due mostly to bad blocks and ill-timed tackles. Big Ralph McRight was unable tor each the sidelines under his own power after one mixup, and later was taken to the showers.

Lindly Hood, the tallest man on the squad and also one of the biggest, who had given much promise of making his letter this year, was out of practice with a badly dislocated right knee. Lindy had trouble with the same knee last year, and he is likely out of the running for the rest of the season.

Jimmy Johnston, who finished an important career of fullbacking for Alabama in 1927, was one of the watchers at the practice, and Bill Ellis, diminutive back who made his letter last year, was another onlooker. They are optimistic over the year's Tide.

Tarheels Have First Scrimmage.

Chapel Hill, N. C., September 12. The Tarheel football squad got down to brass tacks today, as 40 line candidates got their first taste of scrimmage.

Head Coach Collins had all his linemen at hard work and the results were fairly gratifying. They sweated and drove for an hour and a half and the coaches expressed themselves as pleased. The Tarheels have nine veteran backs and much of the problem lies with developing a fast, strong line.

The halfbacks also got their first taste of hard work, putting in an hour's work blocking opposing ends. A lengthy signal drill for the whole squad marked the morning period.

Phil Jackson, veteran halfback, who has been out for a week with kidney stone trouble, was out of the hospital and watching practice. His physician has not said he will be able to play this season, but his release from the hospital is taken as a hopeful sign.

SOUL OF HONOR WINS IN UPSET

Audley Farm Three-Year Old Cops Historic Jerome Handicap.

By Orlo L. Robertson.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York, September 12.—(AP)—On the books it was written that High Strung, champion two-year-old of 1928, should win the Jerome handicap—America's greatest mile test for three-year-olds run for the sixtieth time at Belmont Park today. But the Audley Farm's Soul of Honor thought differently and so sprang one of the biggest surprises of the current racing season.

The Audley Farm three-year-old defeated the Fair stable's Chicatie by a neck and paid his scattered backers 20 to 1. Comstockery was a length and a half show money. High Strung finished fourth.

High Strung passed the six-furlong but the pace was too hot and Soul of Honor came up fast and won driving by a neck. Chicatie and Comstockery passed High Strung in the last sixteenth to take the place and show. The time of the mile gallop was 1:36 1-5 and the victory was worth $3,250 to the winner.

Gone Away, famous for splitting the Harry Payne Whitney entry of Whichone and Boojum in the Champagne stakes last Saturday, came back today in the Hillside to defeat a mediocre field of juveniles with ease.

A track record of three year's standing went tumbling as Brown Wisdom won the Glencoe purse at Lincoln fields, stepping the mile in 1:35 4-5, one-fifth second faster than the mark hung up by Mary O. in 1926. Flattery was five length back for second, while Islam took down the short end of the purse. The winner paid $4.02.

J. Parmalee turned into another one of his sterling performances when he rode three winners. He sent Rasuli home the victor in the third and then drove Khara to the finish line ahead of the field in the fourth. His third triumph came in the sixth event, the Evergreen purse—on Princeton.

Jerseyman Leads Senior Tourney

Rye, N. Y., September 12.—(AP)—Samuel O. Miller, of Englewood, N. J., and George S. Willett, of Brookline, Mass., led the second half of the field in the national seniors' golf championship today, each scoring 81 for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole test.

Miller and Willett will need 75's in the last 18 holes tomorrow to tie Dr. George T. Gregg, of Oakmont, Pittsburgh, who led the first division with a 36-hole total of 156, the first division completed its 36 holes yesterday.

Back of Willett and Miller came Howard M. Townsend, of Piping Rock, and Edward H. Hart, of Pelham, with 83's. In fifth place with 85 was Dr. Arthur H. Hart, of Memphis, Tenn. These were the only ones conceded a chance to overhaul Dr. Gregg.

Cochrane's Brother Avoids Friday 13th

Durham, N. C., September 12.—(AP)—Ball players don't like Fridays when they also fall on the 13th of the month, so Archie Cochrane, young brother of Mickey Cochrane, star catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, entered Duke university a day ahead of registration day.

Young Cochrane plays first base and is a football backfield man. He has been attending school at Staunton Military academy, but has a baseball career in mind, so chose to come to Duke under the guidance of Jack Coombs, coach and former star pitcher for the "A's."

Architects Hold Tourney Today

Architects and draftsmen of the southeast will hold their seventh annual golf tournament today over the Capital City Club course, it was announced Thursday morning by F. Graham Williams. The event will be sponsored by the Georgia chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Competition will again be for the architects' trophy donated by the F. Graham Williams Brick Company, and the winner will receive a miniature replica of the cup for his permanent possession.

There will be a trophy for medalist, a prize for a driving contest, and half a dozen golf balls to the player making the most birdies over the 18-hole course.

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

Douglas Doring, a young British peer, is sent to Dartmoor prison on the perjured testimony of Cora Sefton, an unscrupulous woman in love with him. In revenge, because he snubbed her advances, she swears she saw him kill a policeman in a night club raid.

Dorling is a famous aviator, but to keep this knowledge from his mother and spare her worry, he has been using the assumed named of Douglas Harris; and as Douglas Harris he is tried and convicted.

He is rescued from prison in sepectacular fashion, right under the eyes of his guard, by persons unknown; is shaved, dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter hotel, where, to his amazement, he is greeted by Cora. She has registered as his wife.

Cecily Warren, the girl Douglas loves, is also staying at the Gunter. She sees Dorling embraced by Cora, on his arrival, and jumps to the conclusion he must be secretly married. Disillusioned and heartbroken, she leaves for London.

Douglas meets his father's old friend, Sir Aylmer Granston, in the lobby, and accepts his invitation to drive to London. He escapes from Cora, leaving a note. Immediately she wires Jabez Malloran, well known amateur connoisseur of the arts and a neighbor of the Granstons. As Malloran is decoding the wire, Marthe Perraile, Cecily's maid, calls. She is obviously in his employ. He directs her to bring her mistress within a few days to a town called Mortvaig, in Scotland.

That night, while Dorling is dining with the Granstons, Malloran calls. Later Cecily comes in, not knowing Doug is there. She greets him frigidly and creates a sensation by announcing she hears he is married.

In answer to a summons, Doug goes to see Cora. He asks her to explain what is back of all the mystery. She refuses except to say he will meet her "chief" at a town called Mortvaig in Scotland, where he is to report in a few days.

Doug goes to see his mother at Dorling Towers. Cecily's father, Charles Warren—who lives on the fringe of the estate—calls, and remarks casually that his daughter has taken a job; she is to furnish a millionaire's house in Mortvaig, Scotland. Doug is struck by the coincidence of names—can it, by any chance, be the man who is Cora's chief?

At Mortvaig Doug can only learn that, in return for his freedom, he is being blackmailed into some mysterious service, as an airplane pilot. He takes off on his first trip, little dreaming that Cecily had been put on board, drugged.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

MR. WARREN'S VISITOR.

The Warrens lived on the outer fringe of the Dorling estate in an unpretentious house with one of the most beautiful gardens in England. Charles Warren had little leisure for his country home. The flat in Westminster was threatening to become his permanent residence—when his work did not send him to various parts of the country and occasionally to the continent. The last few weeks had been particularly arduous, and for this reason he was taking three full days' holiday.

He was sitting on the veranda. The heavy sweetness of night flowers mingled in his nostrils with the aroma of his cigar. An active minded man, he had always to bully himself into going to bed.

"No shrinking!" he warned himself. "As soon as you've finished that cigar—hullo, Mary, what is it?"

A parlor maid came on to the veranda, and handed him a card.

Detective Inspector Rason. New Scotland Yard.

"The gentleman said that if it was inconvienient for you to see him now, could you see him first thing in the morning, as he'd stay at the inn if you could, sir."

"Work!" said Warren, to himself. "Then I need not go to bed after all."

A tall man in the later thirties rose as he entered the study.

"I'm very sorry, Mr. Warren."

"I'm not," answered Warren, shaking hands. "Holidays are a doubtful blessing, my dear Rason. What is the trouble?"

"The trouble is that the chief thinks I'm going off the deep and over nothing. Did you read about that escape from Dartmoor last week?" As Warren nodded, he went on: "As soon as that car was found in London with the clothing on board, we were brought into the case. When we're not dealing with a regular fellow, but with a man who has a great deal of pluck and too much intelligence to go any place where we could find him automatically, as it were, we can't do much. The chance of finding him was strongest the first day or two when his photograph was in the press and everybody was on the lookout for him. You know who the escaped convict is, Mr. Warren?"

"I understand he was an airman."

"He was Doug Harris. There's no doubt about it in my mind, in spite of what the prison authorities say, that there's no lucky dash for freedom about that escape. It's my firm belief—and I can come very near to proving it—that the whole thing was elaborately planned, and very expensively planned, too. Money was no object from start to finish.

"We don't know much about Doug Harris. He seems to have been no one—with no relatives nor friends of any account outside the flying company. And an aviator doesn't accumulate a big fortune. Yet, as part of the program of the escape, a furniture van costing eight hundred to a thousand pounds was deliberately driven into a ditch—no doubt about that, it was no accident—and burned to a cinder. There was a lorry, helping to block the road. We haven't been able to prove anything about it, but we know the driver was in the plot. Material and men. There must have been at least three or four men running that escape and there may have been a dozen or more.

"You remember the airplane that crashed into the sea last month!" said Rason, lowering his voice, "and the pilot with it? That left our little friends with one pilot short. And if we're right in thinking that they really are using airplanes, it's obvious they would have the dickens of a job to replace a pilot. As a class, pilots have about the best record of any class of society. You'd look a long time among them for a crook."

"I see the idea," said Warren. "You mean they may have effected the rescue. Once they got him out, they could blackmail him into flying their planes for them."

"Precisely! Now we're on the track of Doug Harris, who was convicted on the evidence of a woman who is known as Cora Sefton. We're pretty certain she's on the running game. We've been keeping a watch on her. She was away from her flat four days. The third of these four days was the day of the escape from Dartmoore. This morning I found out that she spent those four days at the Gunter hotel, Princetown. About half an hour after the escape, she was joined at the hotel by her husband—that is to say, a man purporting to be her husband. She hasn't got a husband, as a matter of fact."

"Was this man the convict, then?"

"No. You've forgotten the details. The convict made his way to London in a stolen car. Of course, the car may not have been stolen. It may have been put there for him. Anyway, as far as we can tell, he got to London. My idea is that she was staying there to spy out the ground and lend a hand."

"Why should the woman help him—the woman who gave evidence against him?"

"O, she gave the evidence to save her own skin! He was her lover—had his arm around her waist at the time. Now it's ten to one that Doug Harris will go to that flat of hers sooner or later. Then, of course, it'll be our duty to hand him over to the prison authorities instead of keeping a line on him, and if he is doing a bit of flying work for our little friends—well, he'll take us to their aidrome, won't he?"

"There's something in that," said Warren, thoughtfully.

"There's something else in it, too, I'm afraid," said Rason. "But the trouble it, I'm not allowed to do that. As soon as we know where he is, we're obliged to run him in. On the other hand, there's the chief thinks I'm overdoing it a bit, and so I wondered whether you could spare a man or two of your own. You see, if you were to pick up Doug Harris, you could use your own discretion whether you handed him over or not."

"I'll do that, Rason. You can give me the particulars tomorrow. The only thing is, I'm kept devilish short of men. Are you sure this woman really has anything to do with it?"

"Almost quite sure, Mr. Warren!" said Rason, emphatically. "I haven't legal proof as yet, of course. But I've traced her having relations with a furniture firm in Bond street. It's a small firm, old established and all that, and frightfully select—but it's handling the stuff, Mr. Warren, and in a week or two we'll probable be able to get them."

"A furniture firm! What name?"

"Graun. Have you picked them up, too, Mr. Warren?"

"No, no. It was a personal matter." Seeing that the detective's curiosity was aroused, he added. "My daughter took it into her head she wanted to do some work. Last week Messrs. Graun, of Bond street, gave her a job. Yesterday she went to Mortvaig on their business. She is returning tonight."

"I don't like the sound of that, Mr. Warren," said Rason.

"I didn't think any harm would come to her," returned Warren. "What use would my daughter be to them? They must do a genuine business as well, and the job they've sent her on is probably quite legitimate. Besides, she has her maid with her.

"All the same, it wouldn't do any harm to wire the police at Mortvaig," said Rason, uneasily. "I'll get right along and do it now, Mr. Warren."

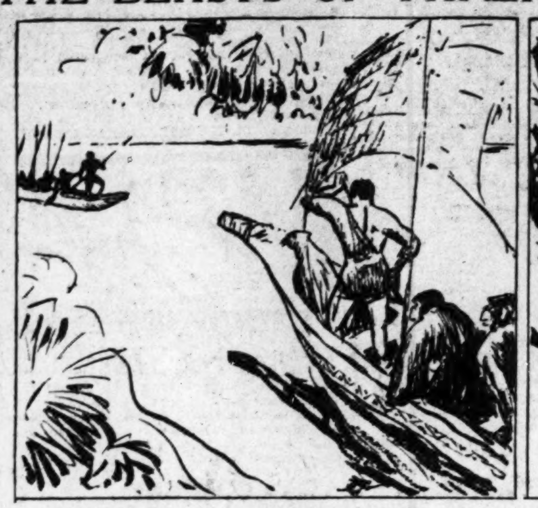
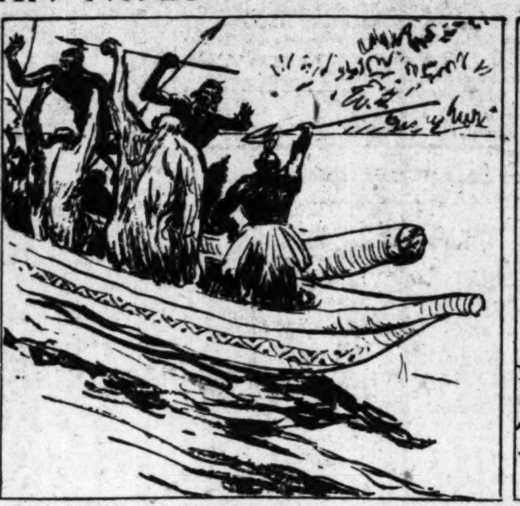
THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 23

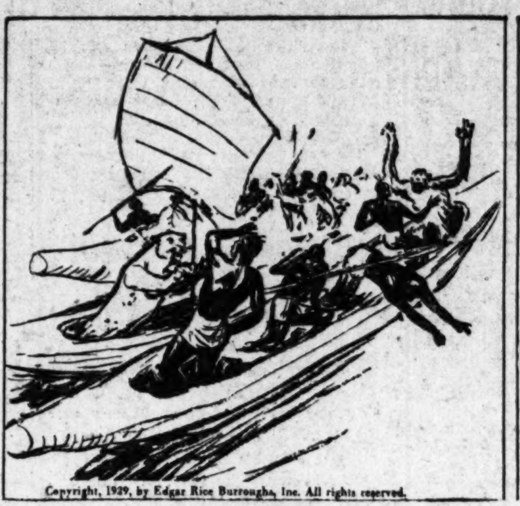
By Edgar Rice Burroughs



As the chief's canoe rounded a sharp bend in the river, it came suddenly upon the thing he sought. Yelling like mad devils, the savages leaped to their feet and the two canoes had almost touched before the blacks realized the nature of the crew which manned the white man's dugout. Then would they have given all the heads and iron wire they possessed to be safely back in their village.

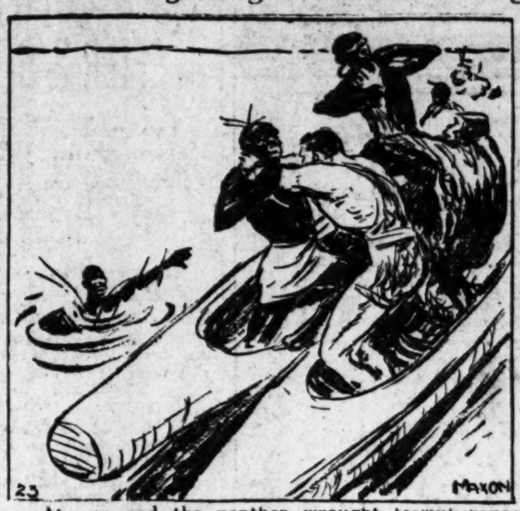


Scarcely had the two craft come together than the frightful apes of Akut rose, growling and barking from the bottom of the canoe, and, with long hairy arms far outstretched, grasped the menacing spears from the hands of the black warriors. The savages were overcome with terror, but there was nothing to do but fight. Now came the other canoes swarming about Tarzan's craft.



Copyright, 1929, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

But one turned and paddled swiftly up the river. As that one touched the ape-man's craft, Tarzan spoke a few low words to Sheeta and Akut. Before the attacking warriors could draw away, there sprang upon them with a blood-freezing scream a huge panther, and into the other end of their canoe clambered a great ape.



At one end the panther wrought fearful havoc with his mighty claws, while Akut at the other buried his long sharp fangs into the necks of those who came within his reach, hurling the terror-stricken blacks overboard as he made his way to the center of the canoe. Kaviri, the chief, was so busily engaged with the demons that had entered his own craft that he could give the other no assistance.

CANDLER AIRPORT
Near Hapeville
Friday at 5:30 P. M.

Friday afternoon at 5:30 at the Candler Airport, a most unusual test of a tire will be made by officials of the new Select Tire Service, Inc., whose new complete automobile service station opens at 312 Spring Street at sunrise, Saturday morning.

Flying at a height of over 1,500 feet, Mayor Pro-Tem. Robert F. Pennington will drop to the ground a Goodrich De Luxe Silvertown tire, equipped with the new Goodrich Air Container puncture-sealing inner tube.

This tire was picked from the regular Select Tire Service stock by the Acting Mayor, mounted on a wheel and inflated to the regular pressure.

The tire and wheel weigh over 50 pounds. What will happen to it when it hits the ground after being dropped from this great height? Will it stand the terrific impact of hitting the ground at a speed of over 200 miles per hour?

LOST AVIATOR FOUND AFTER 2-WEEK HUNT

Marooned in Wilds, Flyer Subsisted on Berries, He Reports.

Winnipeg, Man., September 12.—(United News.)—After subsisting on berries for two weeks in the wild Knee Lake country when his airplane was forced down, C. F. Mews, thin and weak from hunger, was rescued today, The Courier here was informed today.

Mews, pilot for the Northern Aerial Mineral Exploration Company, was found by a fellow pilot after airplanes, Indians and trackers, and settlers in the northwest backwoods had searched for him so long they had given up hopes of ever finding him alive.

The extremely wild nature of the district, coupled with scanty communication lines connecting Hudson Bay outposts, kept the world in ignorance of the entire story until today.

Mews was forced down by motor trouble at Oxford Lake, August 24. He made his emergency rations last as long as possible, he said, and then started hunting for berries, which were his only food for two weeks.

When he finally had decided that he probably would not be found until the winter snows had caused him to perish, he saw the plane of Victor Patridge, member of the searching party, soaring high above.

"I ran to a little clearing and waved my arms like a madman," Mews said. "Partridge flew down low over me, circled twice and I knew I was saved."

Partridge said Mews, so weakened by lack of food and so hysterical at the thought of rescue after he had given up all hope, broke down and cried like a child.

"We rushed the poor fellow to Thicket Portage, 100 miles away on the Hudson Bay line," said Partridge, "and gave him some broth and other light foods."

GOVERNOR DAVIS VISITS TYPHOON STRICKEN AREA

Manila, September 12.—(AP)—Governor General Dwight L. Davis today flew to Infanta, on the western coast of Tayabas province, with Major Walter Kilner to view the damage wrought there by last week's typhoon. Infanta had the greatest loss of life and the greatest damage of any of the stricken places. Flood waters from three swollen rivers converged there at the same time, while more water was blown in from the sea, inundating the town to a depth of ten feet. The little town counted more than 50 dead.

Latest estimates place the total loss of life in the stricken area at about 200 and the damage at $1,000,000.
